The thing that worries me the most is that he could turn out to be yet another nut case like that guy in Colorado who walked into a school with a couple of guns last week and killed an innocent girl and himself.

Why don't the people in Michigan wise up and put him away? I mean, he doesn't even know CW, and the Colorodo killer didn't know CW either. That's too much of a coincidence to let slip by.

If you don't know CW, there is a really good chance you are a psycho child killer. There is not one nutcase killer who has ever been known to have any CW skills, so CW ops are the good guys. As Lennie would say, QED. Lock up the no-coders.

No, you're a timid, anonymous Wabbit, and it doesn't really matter who you are. "The anonymous homophobe from Reston, VA" pretty much sums it up.

Once again Mark, and for the last time. I am NOT Steve. It would behoove you to drop your enema bag and stop fawning over Len's posts.
Look at the headers. See the difference?
I post from Altopia. Steve does not.

Of course I would expect nothing from you depicting any show of intellect. Intelligence and Mark Morgan are two concepts that will never come together.

Maybe tomorrow Mark, when your beer enemas wear off you will come to your senses. Nahhhhh...not likely.

Not to sideline your obtuse "get help" posts Mark, but may I ask a personal question?
When you self-administer your beer enemas, how do you do so? Do you use warm beer or cold? Do you use a funnel and surgical tubing or do you simply upend your arse over the back of a chair, spread your cheeks and pour the beer into your cavity? Do you insert the entire can or do you prefer a long-neck bottle? I realize that I am asking highly personal questions, but never in my life have I ever met anybody who has ever had the stupidity to confess and discuss such matters.
In fact, I've never spoken to anybody who admits to using beer as an enema. You are a first.

Oh, and I have to ask. Which brand to you prefer? Is Lager better than say, Miller Lite? Come Easter, have you ever tried some of the dark beers? I suppose you prefer Lite as opposed to some of the local ales. I guess the dark beers foam too much and may leave telltale stains.
And Mark, how do you do this? Do you go to the local tavern, belly up to the bar, drop your pants while plopping your arse on the bar while telling the bartender to "fill er' up"? Does the barkeep have a small hose under the bar with your name on it?

Nahhhh....I'm sure you keep your beer enemas to yourself, don't you? You wouldn't want everybody on Usenet knowing about your home treatment.
I'd like to buy you a beer Mark. It would be a hoot to watch and well worth the cost.

Oh! I do disagree!

I am fairly well equipped: IC-756 Pro III, IC-746, AL-80B amplifier, ANC-4 noise canceller, MFJ 1025 Signal enhancer, TS-570D, AMP SUPPLY LK-450 Amplifier, G-707 [2 & 440], plus computer ... and these are the things on my operating table.

IC-706 MKIIg & AH-4 in the mobile. Plus 2 HTs.

Antennas include a LP, CF Doublet with tuned feeders, 30 meter vertical, 60 meter vertical, and a 2/440 vertical at 300 feet above average terrain. [I use two different Murch UT-2000A roller inductor tuners for HF and Doublet operation.]

I still claim I won't hear a 'Mayday' in the Extra CW sub-bands.

I earned a BSEE, have completed numerous post BSEE courses [work specialized], not degree bearing, served as Program Chief Engineer on a very major USAF strategic missile, and have over 50 years of Ham experience including more than 10 years in RACES and AREC and 20+ years in USAF MARS where I served as Region Communications Manager-AFF1C.

I passed my CW requirements in front of a US Government FCC engineer in the early 1950s.

Finally, I know enough not to broadcast this over five different NGs.

Groan! Don't flatter yourself, Mark. Stagger Lee speaks and writes extremely well. There is no way even a fool such as Wiseman would EVER think you were Stagger Lee. You "think he may even have", but you can't quote when, if ever, this happened. This is mere wishful thinking on your part.

Speak, Mark. Speak.
Roll over.
Good Boy!

That is where they run. That's a fact you can't deny. They have capability that exceeds my requirements, but that is where they run.

And you still crossed posted to more than r.r.a.m. When are you going to learn?

You don't want to invest time and energy in learning code and YOU STILL CAN'T FIGURE OUT HOW TO POST TO ONE GROUP.

How does your cross posting ignorance contribute to r.r.a.a?
How does your cross posting ignorance contribute to r.r.a.b?
How does your cross posting ignorance contribute to r.r.a.p?
How does your cross posting prejudice contribute to r.r.s?

We know how your prejudice contributes to r.r.a.m

4L, GEORGIA. Operator Vaho, 4L8A, will be active in the CQ WW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Op/Single-Band (20m) entry. QSL via DJ1CW.

4Z0, ISRAEL (Special Event). The Holyland DX Group will operate as 4Z0J from the "Jesus Boat" located near the Sea of Galilee in Yigal Alon's Center on November 3-4th starting at 0700z and ending on Saturday at 1500z. Operators will be Shalom/4Z4BS, Mark/4Z4KX, Ilya/4Z1UF, Ros/4Z5LA, Ruben/4Z5FI, Yuli/4X6HP and Jan/4X1VF. Activity will be CW/SSB on all bands 80-10 meters. The square for the Holyland Award is M05KT. The group also plans to operate mobile from several squares around the main location for the HOLYLAND AWARD program. QSL Manager is Shalom, 4Z4BS. For more info on the "Jesus Boat", visit the Web page at:
http://www.jesusboat.com/imgs/site/site/boat.html

5B4, CYPRUS. Sigi, DL7DF, will be active as 5B4/DL7DF from October 5-12th. This will be a holiday style operation, but look for activity on CW, SSB, RTTY and SSTV. QSL via his home callsign.

600M BAND. The FCC Office of Engineering and Technology has recently granted a Part 5 experimental license to the ARRL on behalf of a group of radio amateurs interested in investigating the spectrum in the vicinity of 500 kHz. Rudy, N6LF, is one of several who has now begun experimental operations on 600m (505-510) kHz. He reported this past week that he is on the air at 506 kHz operating in the beacon mode. The message is:
VVV VVV VVV VVV VVV DE WD2XSH/20 WD2XSH/20 K.
After each transmission there is a 40 second pause and then the message repeats. Rudy's planned operating times will be from 0100-0430z every day if possible. He states, "No doubt there will be some exceptions, but I will do my best to be regular for the next 3-4 weeks." Rudy is using a 130 ft. vertical with a 300 ft. top loading wire running the maximum allowed power, so he should be audible over much of the western USA. Rudy would appreciate any signal reports. Please send them to him at: rudys@ordata.com

Rudy believes this will be a very interesting experiment and hopes it will result in a new MF band for hams. He states, "That of course is very much for the future. Right now we need to see what we can accomplish with this experimental license." For more information about 600m, visit the ARRL Web Page at: http://www.arrl.org/news/stories/2006/09/15/104/?nc=1

8Q, MALDIVES. Andy, G7COD, will be active as 8Q7AK from Embudu Island, South Male Atoll, Maldives, between October 3-15th. Activity will be on 80-10 meters mostly SSB with some CW. He will use an Icom IC-7000 w/100w into a MFJ Auto Atu and G5RV antenna 15 meters high. QSL direct to G7COD or by the bureau with cards marked via "G7COD". Cards will be returned via the bureau, or if you do not have access to the bureau, then he will send you an EQSL.

AT6, INDIA (Special Event). Look for special event station AT6MYL to be active during the 2006 World Wide YL Meeting in Mumbai between October 15-29th. QSL only via VU2SWS. Visit the following Web page for more info at: http://www.geocities.com/mumbaiylmeet

C6, BAHAMAS (Change of Plans!). Operators Ken/K2KW, Tom/N6BT and Fredrick/KE7X will be active from Eleuthera Island between November 19-27th. The original plans were to go to Jamaica (See OPDX.771). Activity will include the CQWW DX CW Contest (November 25-26th) as Single-Op/Single-Band entries. QSL via WA4WTG. Operations outside of the contest will be on 160-20 meters, but they will focus on the low bands. More details are forthcoming (such as individual contest callsigns).

CT3, MADEIRA ISLAND. Operator Jose, CT1BOH, will be active as CT3NT during the CQWW DX CW Contest (November 25-26th) as a Single-Op/All-Band entry. QSL via LoTW. Visit CT1BOH Web page at: http://www.qsl.net/ct1boh

CT9, MADEIRA ISLAND. Operators Stefan/DL5XX, Detlef/DK3QZ, Nicolas/DK5DQ, Kai/DL3HAH, Marus/DL1EKC and Hans/DL1EMH will be active as CT9L during the CQWW DX CW Contest (November 25-26th) as Multi/2 entry. QSL via DJ6QT.

CU2, AZORES. Operator Toni, OH2UA, will be active as CU2A during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Op/All-Band/High-Power entry. QSL via OH2BH. ADDED NOTE: He will also be in the CQWW DX CW Contest (See OPDX.777).

DX6, PHILIPPINES. Operators Roberto/DU6BG, Joel/WJ1P, Billy/WE6DX, Leo/WA6LOS, EnriqueUE/WB6RJP, Vhodick/W6BOO, Ramon/DU1KBE, Marlon/DU1KXR and DU7RJA will be active as DX6M during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-Single entry. QSL via W6PDX.

DXCC NEWS. Bill Moore, NC1L, ARRL DXCC Manager reports:
Reminder -- Applications containing Swains Island credits are not being accepted until October 1, 2006. We are receiving many applications with Swains cards. These applications cannot be logged into the DXCC system and placed in the processing queue (or appear in the DXCC "Applications Received: list on the Web site) until October 1. Note: This will not affect anyone's DXCC Challenge numbers since the cutoff date for the Challenge is now December 31, 2006. Send questions to dxcc@arrl.org

HI, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC. Antonio, IW2OAZ, will be active as HI8/IW2AOZ between October 2-28th. Activity will be on 20/17 meters RTTY and SSB. From October 26-27th, he will be on from Catalina Island (NA-122) using the HI8 prefix. QSL via the bureau.

HR, HONDURAS. A team of Russian speaking hams from New York will be going here between October 22-30th. Operators mentioned are: Andrei/EW1AR/NP3D (team leader), Boris/UU5SY/N3SY, Alex/K2PAL (ex-UB5XAZ) and Joel/KB2PDW. The group will activate Tigre Island (NA-060) together with Javier/HR2J and other HR operators from October 22-25th. The callsign (HQ4?) is TBA. QSL via W3HNK. Activity will be on 80-6 meters, RTTY, CW and SSB. During the CQ WW DX SSB Contest they will be active and on as Single-Band entries. The callsigns and bands are to be announced later.

IOTA NEWS.....
AS-151. Operators BD1DRJ, BG2QMP and BD2RI will be signing homecall/2 from ChangXing Island between October 1-6th. This will be a holiday style operation while visiting with friends and family. Planned activity is for 40/20/15 meters CW/SSB. QSL all callsigns via BD1DRJ (QRZ.com).

EU-028. Operators Valeriano/IK5ABG, Giovanni/IK5BCM, Oliviero/IK5BQW, Giuseppe/IK5CBE and Giovanni/IK5CRH will be active from the Island of Montecristo (I.I.A. LI-015), October 1-5th. The team has asked for a special callsign, but at moment they may use IA5/homecall since the special callsign has not been issued yet. This island is rather rare, and the last solid operation took place 15 years ago. It is a protected island in the Northern Thyrrenic Sea in the Tuscanian Archipelago. It is impossible to land without permission and usually it is only for 24 hours. It is not allowed to be close to the island (500 meters) with a boat floating. However, the team has received permission to camp on the island for 7 days (September 30th to October 6th). A Web page is under construction at: http://xommer.virgilio.it/gmiross

EU-055. Operators Tom/DL1DVE and Mike/DL3VTA will be active from Sotra Island as LA/homecall, October 9-14th. Activity will be on the HF bands CW, SSB, RTTY and PSK31, maybe also SSTV. He will use only 100 watts and several wire antennas. Tom will also activate JP20 on 2m WSJT. QSL via his home callsign.

NA-112. Remember that some Tennessee Valley DX Association members will be active this week as W4PL from Emerald Island between now and October 6th. Activity will be on 80-6 meters, CW, SSB, RTTY and PSK31. QSL via K4KWK.

OC-115/
OC-153. Operators Derek/G3KHZ, Vincent/G0LMX and Hans/SM6CVX will be active on all bands on the IOTA frequencies from two planned

IOTA locations. Look for them on the following:
OC-115 - Signing P29NI from Trobriand Islands between October 2-10th. QSL via G3KHZ.
OC-153 - Signing P29CVX from PNG Coastal Islands South Island Group between October 11-14th. QSL via SM6CVX.

J3, GRENADA. Bill, VE3EBN, will be active from here between October 19th and November 26th. Callsigns to be used are J37LR and J37T. Activity will be on the HF bands, CW, SSB and PSK31. QSL via the address on QRZ.com.

JERSEY SHORE DXPO. Bob Schenck, N2OO, President SJDXA, announces that the South Jersey DX Association and the Old Barney ARC are co-sponsoring "The Jersey Shore DXPO and Dinner" on Saturday, November 11th. This "show" will be held at the Ocean Acres Community Center in Manahawkin, NJ. Doors will open at 11:00 AM. Seating is limited. First come, first served. There will be an assortment of presentations and forums all afternoon starting at 12:00 noon. They have also arranged for DXCC card checking at the show. So, gather up your QSL cards for DXCC and bring them along. Food and beverages will be available throughout the afternoon. There will be a DX Dinner Buffet in the evening after which K4UEE will give the 3Y0X DX Experience Show. There will be door prizes, and you must be present to win. A separate raffle for a special 3Y0X world map autographed by the entire 3Y0X TEAM. Proceeds benefit "DX Expeditions, LLC" for future DXpeditions. Tickets cost 20 USDs each and cover the entire show and the evening buffet dinner. Contact Bob Pantazes, W2ARP, for tickets at: w2arp@arrl.net
"Day Passes" will be available at the door for 5 USD per person. These passes (good from 11:00 AM until 5:00 PM) give admission to those who can not stay for the evening dinner and show. Please go to the following Web page for full details and current updates on the program at: http://www.sjdxa.org

KH8S, SWAINS ISLAND. At the end of last week there was an announcement stating that Hrane, YT1AD, with a team operators (K1LZ, K3LP, N6TQS, RA3AUU, RZ3AA, UA3AB, RK3AD, YZ7AA, YU1EA, KD7RCD and other potential members of the team: YU7NU, YZ1BX, YU1DX and YZ1EW), will be head of a DXpedition to Swains Island between September 12th to October 3rd, 2007. Team will stay on Swains Island 10 days and will operate with 6 stations on the air at the same time. The announcement also stated that more info will be available soon on a WEB site. HOWEVER, Larry, AH8LG, President of the American Samoa Amateur Radio Association (ASARA) and friend of the family that owns the island, states, "There is no planned trip to Swains Island by anyone at this time. I do not know where this info came from but they had better check with me before they give out any info on going to Swains Island." As President of the ASARA, Larry was asked (by the Jennings Family) to screen all Amateurs that apply to go to Swains Island.

OH0, ALAND ISLANDS. Ari/OH5DX, and others will once again be active as OH0Z during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi/Multi entry. QSL via W0MM.

P4, ARUBA. Tim, WD9DZV, will be active as P40D from October 30th through November 9th. Activity will be on 160-10 meters CW/SSB. QSL via his home callsign WD9DZV.

PACIFIC TRIP. Rick, AI5P, will be finishing his activity as E51APX this week from from Rarotonga, South Cook Islands. Look for him next from Niue as ZK2PX between October 6-20th. From Niue, he will travel to New Zealand and be active as ZL/AI5P between October 25th and November 2nd. Rick has been working mostly on CW on 40-17 meters running an IC-706 into wire antennas. This past weekend he was really active on 40/30 meters CW. QSL via AI5P.

PJ4, NETHERLANDS ANTILLES. Peter, PA3CNX, will be active as PJ4/PA3CNX from Bonaire (SA-006) between now and November 3rd. Activity will be on all bands 80-6 meters CW/SSB. However, his operating times will be limited due to his holiday activities and wife (mainly between 2000-0200z). Look for him to be an entry in the CQ WW DX SSB Contest. QSL via the bureau or direct (QRZ.com).

Barry, WC5N, informs OPDX that he has recently received the LoTW certificates for his VK9WB (1990; Cocos-Keeling) and V63BW (1992) operations. He states that he would be glad to check the log and confirm QSOs through the LoTW for anyone that may still desire a confirmation from those operations. Send and E-mail to wc5n@arrl.net requesting LoTW confirmation. Barry also would be glad to send a bureau card for those DX stations who would like a "paper" confirmation. Again, just send him an E-mail with the contact info so he can check the log.

YU6AO QSL UPDATE. Team YU6AO, with team leader Hrane, YT1AD, finished their activities with 75000 QSOs. They had 35 hams participate and operators from 9 different countries. As of September 29th, they received 8000 requests and confirmed more than 25000 QSOs for all QSOs between June 28th (2006) and August 15th (2006). All info with photos and on-line logs can be found at: http://www.yu6ao.info

SPECIAL EVENT (ISWL). The International Shortwave League (ISWL), continues with their 60th (Diamond) anniversary celebrations throughout the month of October. Look for the following to be active this month:
GB6SWL - Activity will be October 7-8th from Towcester, in Northamptonshire. Phil, G4DMS, will be the main operator.

GB6SWL - Activity will be October 14-15th from Braintree, in Essex. Keith, M0CLO, will be the main operator.

GB6SWL - Activity will be October 21-22nd from Dagenham, in Essex. John, M0HEM, will be the main operator.

GB60SWL - Activity will be on Sunday, October 22nd, for 1 day from the Cudmore Grove, Country Park in Essex. The Station is being run by the Colchester ARS. (A Club Affiliated to the ISWL).

GB6SWL - Activity will be October 28-29th from Walton on the Naze, in Essex. Herbie, G6XOU, will be the main operator.

The ISWL Club's callsigns GX4BJC/P and MX1SWL/P will also be active throughout October. The ISWL Awards Program is open to non members for a very small fee to cover postage to any country in the world. Please visit the following Web page for all the details, including QSL information and the Special Diamond Anniversay Awards etc... at: http://www.iswl.org.uk

ST2, SUDAN. QSL Manager, Boris, T93Y, reports that after ST0RM license expired, Jovica, T98A (ex. T94FC), will continue his activity from Sudan with his new callsign ST2A. Jovica will continue to operate mostly CW (with some SSB, RTTY and PSK31) on all bands and will do his best to be active on 160m during the coming winter season. Over the past week, Jovica was very active on 40 meters CW between 1900-0200z. QSL via T93Y: Boris Knezovic, P.O. Box 59, BA-71000 Sarajevo, Bosnia and Herzegovina. Visit the Web Page at: http://www.t93y.com/st2a

TIME FOR A REMINDER (Only 3 months left!). Alan, VK4AAR, states, "ATTENTION ALL DXers!! This is a reminder about IRCs. The Universal Postal Union (UPU) has decided that the current style of IRCs will NOT be exchanged for stamps after the expiry date, 31-12-2006 (31st December 2006). I can not accept this type of IRC after that date because the post office will not give stamps in exchange. YOU CAN SEE THAT DATE ON THE RIGHT HAND SIDE, ABOUT HALFWAY DOWN. The new style of IRC looks similar but shows two hands with fingers touching and these are already on sale ... valid until 31-12-2009. Please use THIS type or U.S. dollars. Time to use up these older ones and stock up with the newer ones."

V2, ANTIGUA. Team Antigua, V26B, will once again be in action for the Fall 2006 running in the CQWW SSB Contest. Most of their operators will be arriving the week before and will be active on any and all modes using their own callsign listed below until a few days after the contest. The Team Antigua will be activating V26B for the 13th consecutive year and would love to thank everyone for their continued support over the past years and looks forward to many more years of operating from the fun in the sun from their Island Paradise in the Caribbean Sea, Antigua. The 2006 V26B operator lineup and QSL routes are as follows:
V26B QSL via KA2AEV V26MH QSL via HB9OCR
V26BZR QSL via W2BZR V26OC QSL via N3OC
V26G QSL via N2ED V26R QSL via KA2AEV
Also WX3B will be active, but his Antiguian callsign is unknown at this time.

VP2M, MONTSERRAT. Look for Bill/W4WX and Jan/K4QD to be active as VP2MHX and VP2MQD, repsectively, between October 23-31st. Both operators will enter the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Band entry. Look for activity before and after the contest on 80-10 meters, CW, PSK-31, RTTY and SSB. QSL VP2MHX direct to W4WX and VP2MQD by the Bureau or direct to K4QD. Bill informs OPDX that baggage limits via WinAir between Antigua and Montserrat is only one check-in at 44 pounds, so antennas will be limited.

VU7, LAKSHADWEEP ISLANDS. Pai, VU2PAI, informs OPDX that he is part of an Amateur Radio Society of India (ARSI) group that has obtained permission to operate from Lakshadweep Islands in December 2006. The DXpediton will consist of Pai/VU2PAI, Sarla/VU2SWS, Basappa/VU2NXM, Manohar/VU2UR, Milind/VU2IZO, Gopal/VU2GMN and Rajaram/VU3KKZ. Operators will be signing with the callsign VU7LD. The team will operate on SSB/CW and the Digital modes. More details will be forthcoming. The group is looking for funding and equipment. ADDED NOTE: Pai also mentioned to OPDX that he has been extrememly busy with his office duties and has not been active on the air for more than 1 year. He does have some pending outgoing QSLs but will send them out soon. He states that if anybody needs a QSL from him for any of his previous activations (such as AS-096 and AS-161) or for a regular contact, please E-mail him at: ananthpai@hotmail.com
Pai will be happy to send you a card via direct if you provide him with your QSO details and mailing address.

WORKED ALL BRITAIN (Special Event Station Award). Chris, G1VDP, WAB Awards Publicity Officer, reports: "The intention of this award, apart from that of giving members something to aim for, is to raise awareness of WAB amongst those who activate special event stations. This award will run from 1st January until 31st December each year, commencing 2007. In common with all WAB awards, this is open to SWL�s also. Only contacts with special event stations using a �GB� prefix will be valid. The WAB area of the Event Station should be ascertained during the contact with them. Certificates may be endorsed for any band/mode. A station may only be claimed once during each 12 month period for any particular endorsement. A certificate will be awarded for working/hearing 10 stations, with endorsements for each subsequent 10. On working/hearing 100 stations, a further certificate will be awarded. A claim sheet is available for this award, but if using your own or any logging program, the WAB area of the station should be recorded. The usual cost of WAB awards applies � i.e. only �1 per certificate and 50p for each endorsement." Further details and sample certificate may be viewed on the WAB web site at:
http://www.worked-all-britain.co.uk

XU, CAMBODIA. Tony, KM0O, will be active as XU7MWA during the CQWW DX CW Contest (November 25-26th) as a Single-Op/All-Band entry. QSL route will be announced later.

XX9, MACAU. Members of the Macao Amateur Radio Association will be active as XX9C during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi/Multi entry. Activity will be on 160-10 meters. Please QSL via the Macau Bureau: Macao Amateur Radio Association, P.O. Box 6018, Macao SAR, CHINA.

YU3, MONTENEGRO. Hrane, YT1AD, will be active from here during the month of October with his Montenegrin callsign YU3AD. QSLs for this operation is via YT1AD.

ZONE 2 (Operation Cut Short!). Steve, VE2TKH, informs OPDX that his VY0ICE activity from Baffin Island (NA-047, CISA NT001) in the heart of CQ Zone 2 (Iqaluit, Nunavut), will be cut short. His VY0ICE operations will end on October 11th for many personal reasons. "Steve his going back home south to reunite with the love of is life, and is so missing his girlfriend Lyna." However, he also reports that the 2000 QSLs cards from UX5UO are in the hands of his QSL Manager VE2AWR and Serge is replying fast to all direct requests he receives each day. They accept BUREAU cards, but please be aware to send your VY0ICE request to the VE2AWR manager (via the VE2 BUREAU only). To see what the front of the QSL card looks like, visit: http://www.qrz.com/vy0ice

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them up." -- William Rivers Pitt

Some truth to that notion, but the reason that is true is because they would have used CW to discuss their current prostrate and bowel health.

There is this pithy little thing I found in the ARRL Handbook:

The Amateur's Code

The Radio Amateur is

CONSIDERATE...never knowingly operates in such a way as to lessen the pleasure of others.

LOYAL.....offers loyalty, encouragement and support to other amateurs, local clubs, and the American Radio Relay League, through which Amateur Radio in the United States is represented nationally and internationally.

PROGRESSIVE...with knowledge abreast of science, a well-built and efficient station and operation above reproach.

FRIENDLY......slow and patient operating when requested; friendly advice and counsel to the beginner; kindly assistance, cooperation and consideration for the interests of others.
These are the hallmarks of the amateur spirit.

BALANCED......radio is an avocation, never interfering with duties owed to family, job, school or community.

PATRIOTIC.....station and skill always ready for service to country and community.

--The original Amateur's Code was written by Paul M. Segal, W9EEA, in 1928.

Kind of old, and flavored a lot like the US was during the time, but never-the-less, it has some important lessons in behavior and compassion that seem to be lacking in your vision for the hobby.

The oil burner used in my home heating system uses constant ignition for the spark gap electrodes. Whenever the burner is running, I am bothered by a high level ignition spark noise in my FT1000D receiver.

Anybody have any experience with suppression methods for this type of situation ?

perhaps you should change that to "Nice little story about a couple of CBer's who took matters just a bit too far".

1. they were not hams in any way, shape or form (you can check for their names on qrz or the fcc database to verify that)
2. they got in an argument on CB radio

The original poster has an agenda, otherwise he would of also posted the message in the no-code cell phone newsgroup.

BWHAHAHAHAHAHA!

BILLY SMITH STEPS ON HIS OWN DICK THUSLY WITH THESE FUCK-UPS:

Billy "I can't read" Smith fucks up again when he claims in <gsJRg.2244$o71.124@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"By the way, weren't you required to retest per a letter from FCC enforcement bureau? Shall we post the record for all to see again? They don't make people retest unless you have been accused or proven to have committed rules violations."

Billy can't read the ARRL website which states:
NOTE: Issuance by the FCC of a Warning Notice indicates that the FCC has what it believes to be reliable evidence of possible rules
infractions and not necessarily that the recipient has violated FCC rules. The FCC has the authority, pursuant to §97.519(d)(2) of the rules to readminister any examination element previously administered
by a volunteer examiner.

Billy "Dumbass who can't put together a sentence" Smith shows off those English skills, quite ironically in <VfQHf.14581$rH5.8121@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"That's interesting there idiot. I bet you really did flunk high school math and probably elementary too. Oh thats right, wasn't that when was in Floriduh. Spelled Florida but the DUH is for your Dumb Ass."

"wasn't that when was in Floriduh" - Billy makes good fuck up!

Billy "shoots" himself in his palsied club foot once again in Message-ID <Q0bJf.19641$vU2.7735@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Roger, shots himself in the foot"

Billy the "Rhodes" scholar fucks up again and even demonstrates he is an imbecile in <8uqwg.8275$vO.7632@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Right you are, wannabe Rhode's Scholar!"

Billy the illiterate retard Smith screws up again, and his illiteracy is exposed. "It serves him right."
in<hauKf.1410$S25.940@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:

"Deserves him right."

Billy "retard" Smith confesses to his generally accepted retarded
status in <LwpLf.2321$F56.2317@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"I'm a general retard. bwhahaha"

Billy "spelling champ of the general retards" Smith admits his bad hygiene but is still in denial about his English skills in <QxpLf.2322$F56.1169@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>
"Sure I can spell and smell."

"Billy" the NOtwordSmith fucks up again with this incompete sentence in <qgyNf.5576$S25.341@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"So when you got divorced boy, did your finally figure out that your more"

Billy "cumgargler" Smith managed to awaken from his drunken stupor to slobber
in <fbIOf.442$sL2.25@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Isn't that you mom weighed"

Mr."Education" Billy Smith steps on his own dick again when he talks about others' "educations" (or educatiion" as he spells it) in <w7IOf.436$sL2.167@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Uh, huh. Right LOSER. Still smoking that dope again? By the way how is your
so called educatiion actually doing for you? Those online classes."

<B9IOf.439$sL2.255@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"You're whole life has been exhaled before."

Billy "illiterate retard" Smith spikes the "HUH?" factor in this slobbering in <MGqUf.16833$S25.8455@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Come on, do it just have you some spiked Kool Aid."

"Didn't" your special-Ed teacher teach you how to spell, Billy?
in <OCqUf.16826$S25.10695@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"...didnt Marie teach you to play nice"

"Rhodes scholar" Billy Lardass Davies Smith blunders and blows his cover again in <Et%0g.6340$sq5.1769@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Rhode's scholar Scheissman blows his cover again."

Billy "dumbass" Smith steps on his own tiny dick when he tries to criticize others' typos,but he doesn't "perform" well as usual with his blatant "stupidity" in <oCk1g.5958$Es3.3907@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Noteed!!!!!!!!!!!!! Bwhahahahahahah. You're a brilliant one Scheissman.
You even peform stupid acts on your blatant stupidty"

Billy "dropout Lardass" Smith steps on his own dick when he tries to comment on others' spelling abilities, but he "can't" do any better in Message-ID: <mQr3g.8970$sq5.4914@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>: "Woger cant spell very well anyway."

Billy "dropout pizza BOY" Smith fucks up his sentence again when he blathered in <WdZfg.629$lp.259@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "How about those retest letter you received for jamming."

Billy "illiterate " Smith claims to have been in the Library, but he can't even spell "I've" correctly, maybe Billy should check out the English tutoring books there in WpFgg.1310$lf4.1288@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "Ive been to quite a few libraries on Sunday and a lot of them are open."

Billy Smith "the" ill-educated moron fucks up again in <4zxLg.15720$Qf.5115@newsread2.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "Roger is about to finally have th final episode where..."

Billy Smith stumbles on his club foot in his fat mouth when he tries to claim "hillbillies" are somehow inferior(he squeaks from "experience"?) in <7CdRg.11366$v%4.8492@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "Is that another fine quality of the Hillbilly state? You know, that third world one where you live full of miscegenation, inbreeding, and the like. Speaking from experrience again?"

Billy the spelling bee champ Smith fucks up again while trying to make fun of others' typos and pegs the irony meter in <my5Sg.1536$Y24.130@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "Would that by "that" Woger? How abou that Todd rather than "Taod"?"

Poor Billy, he works his restaurant high school kid's job lives in low income public housing and is projecting his loser life onto others. Billy has no education as you can see:

BILLY SMITH STEPS ON HIS OWN DICK THUSLY WITH THESE FUCK-UPS:

Billy "I can't read" Smith fucks up again when he claims in <gsJRg.2244$o71.124@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"By the way, weren't you required to retest per a letter from FCC enforcement bureau? Shall we post the record for all to see again? They

Billy can't read the ARRL website which states:
NOTE: Issuance by the FCC of a Warning Notice indicates that the FCC has what it believes to be reliable evidence of possible rules infractions and not necessarily that the recipient has violated FCC rules. The FCC has the authority, pursuant to §97.519(d)(2) of the rules to readminister any examination element previously administered by a volunteer examiner.

Billy "Dumbass who can't put together a sentence" Smith shows off those English skills, quite ironically in <VfQHf.14581$rH5.8121@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"That's interesting there idiot. I bet you really did flunk high school math and probably elementary too. Oh thats right, wasn't that when was in Floriduh. Spelled Florida but the DUH is for your Dumb Ass."

"wasn't that when was in Floriduh" - Billy makes good fuck up!

Billy "shoots" himself in his palsied club foot once again in Message-ID <Q0bJf.19641$vU2.7735@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Roger, shots himself in the foot"

Billy the "Rhodes" scholar fucks up again and even demonstrates he is an imbecile in <8uqwg.8275$vO.7632@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Right you are, wannabe Rhode's Scholar!"

Billy the illiterate retard Smith screws up again, and his illiteracy is exposed. "It serves him right."
in<hauKf.1410$S25.940@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Deserves him right."

Billy "retard" Smith confesses to his generally accepted retarded status in <LwpLf.2321$F56.2317@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"I'm a general retard. bwhahaha"

Billy "spelling champ of the general retards" Smith admits his bad hygiene but is still in denial about his English skills in <QxpLf.2322$F56.1169@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>

"Sure I can spell and smell."

<qgyNf.5576$S25.341@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"So when you got divorced boy, did your finally figure out that your more"

Billy "cumgargler" Smith managed to awaken from his drunken stupor to
in <fbIOf.442$sL2.25@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Isn't that you mom weighed"

Mr."Education" Billy Smith steps on his own dick again when he talks about others' "educations" (or educatiion" as he spells it) in <w7IOf.436$sL2.167@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Uh, huh. Right LOSER. Still smoking that dope again? By the way how is your

<B9IOf.439$sL2.255@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"You're whole life has been exhaled before."

Billy "illiterate retard" Smith spikes the "HUH?" factor in this
slobbering in <MGqUf.16833$S25.8455@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Come on, do it just have you some spiked Kool Aid."

"Didn't" your special-Ed teacher teach you how to spell, Billy?
in <OCqUf.16826$S25.10695@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"...didnt Marie teach you to play nice"

"Rhodes scholar" Billy Lardass Davies Smith blunders and blows his cover again in <Et%0g.6340$sq5.1769@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Rhode's scholar Scheissman blows his cover again."

criticize others' typos,but he doesn't "perform" well as usual with his blatant "stupidity" in <oCk1g.5958$Es3.3907@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Noteed!!!!!!!!!!!!! Bwhahahahahahah. You're a brilliant one Scheissman.

comment on others' spelling abilities, but he "can't" do any better in Message-ID: <mQr3g.8970$sq5.4914@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Woger cant spell very well anyway."

Billy "dropout pizza BOY" Smith fucks up his sentence again when he
blathered in <WdZfg.629$lp.259@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"How about those retest letter you received for jamming."

Billy "illiterate " Smith claims to have been in the Library, but he can't even spell "I've" correctly, maybe Billy should check out the English tutoring books there in WpFgg.1310$lf4.1288@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Ive been to quite a few libraries on Sunday and a lot of them are open."

Billy Smith "the" ill-educated moron fucks up again in <4zxLg.15720$Qf.5115@newsread2.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Roger is about to finally have th final episode where..."

Billy Smith stumbles on his club foot in his fat mouth when he tries to claim "hillbillies" are somehow inferior(he squeaks from "experience"?) in <7CdRg.11366$v%4.8492@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Is that another fine quality of the Hillbilly state? You know, that third world one where you live full of miscegenation, inbreeding, and the like. Speaking from experrience again?"

Billy the spelling bee champ Smith fucks up again while trying to make fun of others' typos and pegs the irony meter in <my5Sg.1536$Y24.130@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Would that by "that" Woger? How abou that Todd rather than "Taod"?"

139. Monthly Post of 30 helpful tips for no-code hams.

The 30 Steps below will help all No-Code Hams, it will also help you to find others just like yourself. These 30 steps should also be added to the present writtens.

Step One: Use as many "Q" signals as possible. Yes, I know they were invented solely for CW and are totally inappropriate for two meter FM, but they are fun and entertaining. They keep people guessing as to what you really meant. I.E. "I'm going to QSY to the phone." Can you really change frequencies to the phone? QSL used to mean, "I am acknowledging receipt", but now it appears to mean, "yes" or "OK". I guess I missed it when the ARRL changed the meaning. It is also best to use "OK" and "QSL" together. Redundancy is the better part of Lid-dom.

Step Two: Never laugh when you can say "HI HI". No one will ever know you aren't a long time CW rag-chewer if you don't tell them. They'll think you've been on since the days of Marconi.

Step Three: Utilize an alternative vocabulary. Use words like "destinated" and "negatory". It's OK to make up your own words here. I.E. "Yeah Tom, I "pheelbart zaphonix" occasionally myself."

Step Four: Always say "XX4XXX" (Insert your own call) "for I.D." As mentioned in Step One, anything that creates redundancy is always encouraged. That's why we have the Department of Redundancy Department. (Please note that you can follow your call with "for identification purposes" instead of "for I.D." While taking longer to say, it is worth more "LID points".

Step Five: The better the copy on two meter FM, the more you should use phonetics. Names should be especially used if they are short or common ones. I.E. "My name is Al... Alpha Lima" or "Jack.. Juliet Alpha Charlie Kilo." If at all possible use the less common HF phonetics "A4SM... America, Number Four, Sugar Mexico." And for maximum "LID points", make up unintelligible phonetics. "My name is Bob... Billibong Oregano Bumperpool."

Step Six: Always give the calls of yourself and everyone who is (or has been) in the group, whether they are still there or not. While this has been unnecessary for years, it is still a great memory test. You may also use "and the group" if you are an "old timer" or just have a bad memory. Extra points for saying everyone's call and then clearing in a silly way "K2PKK, Chow, Chow."

Step Seven: Whenever possible, use the wrong terminology. It keeps people guessing. Use "modulation" when you mean "deviation", and vice-versa.

Step Eight: If someone asks for a break, always finish your turn, taking as long as possible before turning it over. Whenever possible, pass it around a few times first. This will discourage the breaker, and if it is an emergency, encourage him to switch to another repeater and not bother you.

Step Nine: Always ask involved questions of the person who is trying to sign out. Never let him get by with just a "yes" or "no" answer. Make it a question that will take him a long time to answer.

Step Ten: The less you know on a subject, the more you should speculate about it in the roundtable. Also the amount of time you spend on the subject should be inversely proportionate to your knowledge of the subject even though you have no damn clue.

Step Eleven: Always make sure you try to communicate with only a handheld and a rubber duck antenna. Also, make sure you work through a repeater that you can hear very well, but it cannot hear you. This will put out a kind of "LID mating call": "Well, Joe, I can hear the repeater just fine here. I wonder why it can't hear me?" You will score maximum LID points if you are mobile, and with the radio lying in the passenger seat.

Step Twelve: If you hear two amateurs start a conversation, wait until they are twenty seconds into their contact, and then break in to make a call, or better yet to use the auto-patch. Make sure you keep the repeater tied up for at least three minutes. This way, once the two have re-established contact, they won't even remember what they were talking about.

Step Thirteen: You hear someone on the repeater giving directions to a visiting amateur. Even if the directions are good, make sure you break in with your own "alternate route but better way to get there" version. This is most effective with several other "would-be LIDs", each giving a different route. By the time the visiting amateur unscrambles all the street names whizzing by in his mind, he should have moved out of the range of the repeater. This keeps you from having to stick around to help the guy get back out of town, later.

Step Fourteen: If an annoying station is bothering you, make sure your other "LID" buddies have a "coded" frequency list. Even though "CODES" are strictly forbidden on Amateur Radio, it's really neat to practice "James Bond" tactics.

Step Fifteen: Always use the National Calling Frequency for general conversations. The more uninteresting, the longer you should use it. Extra points are awarded if you have recently move from an adjacent frequency for no reason. Make sure when DX is "rolling" in on 52.525 that you hang out there and talk to your friends five miles down the road about the good old CB days!

Step Sixteen: Make sure that if you have a personal problem with someone, you should voice your opinion in a public forum, especially a net. Make sure you give their name, call, and any other identifying remarks. For maximum points, make sure the person in question is not on the repeater, or not available.

Step Seventeen: Make sure you say the first few words of each transmission twice, especially if it is the same thing each time. Like "roger, roger" or "fine business, fine business". I cannot stress enough about encouraging redundancy.

Step Eighteen: If you hear a conversation on a local repeater, break in and ask how each station is receiving you. Of course they will only see the signal of the repeater you are using, but it's that magic moment when you can find a fellow "LID", and get the report. Extra points are awarded if you are using a base station, and the repeater is less than twenty-five air miles from you.

Step Nineteen: Use the repeater for an hour or two at a time, preventing others from using it. Better yet, do it on a daily basis. Your quest is to make people so sick of hearing your voice every time they turn on their radio, they'll move to another frequency. This way you'll lighten the load on the repeater, leaving even more time for you to talk on it.

Step Twenty: See just how much flutter you can generate by operating at handheld power levels too far away from the repeater. Engage people in conversations when you know they wont be able to copy half of what your saying. Even when they say your uncopyable, continue to string them along by making further transmissions. See just how frustrated you can make the other amateur before he finally signs off in disgust.

Step Twenty One: Use lots of radio jargon. After all, it makes you feel important using words ordinary people don't say. Who cares if it makes you sound like you just fell off Channel 19 on the citizen's Band? Use phrases such as "Roger on that", "10-4", "I'm on the side", "Your making the trip" and "Negatory on that".

Step Twenty Two: Use excessive microphone gain. See just how loud you can make your audio. Make sure the audio gain is so high that other amateurs can hear any bugs crawling on your floor. If mobile, make sure the wind noise is loud enough that others have to strain to pick your words out from all the racket.

Step Twenty Three: Start every transmission with the word "Roger" or "QSL". Sure, you don't need to acknowledge that you received the other transmission in full. After all, you would simply ask for a repeat if you missed something. But consider it your gift to the other amateur to give him solace every few seconds that his transmissions are being received.

Step Twenty Four: When looking for a contact on a repeater, always say your "listening" or "monitoring" multiple times. I've always found that at least a half dozen times or so is good. Repeating your multiple "listening" ID's every 10 to 15 seconds is even better. Those people who didn't want to talk to you will eventually call you, hoping you'll go away after you have finally made a contact.

Step Twenty Five: Always use a repeater, even if you can work the other station easily on simplex ... especially if you can make the contact on simplex. The coverage of the repeater you use should be inversely proportional to your distance from the other station.

Step Twenty Six: When on repeaters using courtesy tones, you should always say "over". Courtesy tones are designed to let everyone know when you have unkeyed but don't let that stop you. Say "over", "back to you" or "go ahead". It serves no useful purpose but don't worry, it's still fun!

Step Twenty Seven: Use the repeater's autopatch for frivolous routine calls... especially during morning or evening commute times. While pulling into the neighborhood, call home to let them know you'll be there in two minutes.... or, call your spouse to complain about the bad day you had at work. After all, the club has "measured rate" service on their phone line so they get charged for each autopatch call. Your endeavor is to make so many patches in a year that you cost the club at least $20 in phone bills. That way you'll feel you got your money's worth for your dues!

Step Twenty Eight: Never say "My name is ....." It makes you sound human. If at all possible, use one of the following phrases: a) "The personal here is ..." b) "The handle here is..."

Step Twenty Nine: Use "73" and "88" incorrectly. Both are already considered plural, but add a "s" to the end anyway. Say "73's" or "88's". Who cares if it means "best regards" and "love and kisses." Better yet, say "seventy thirds"! (By the way, seventy thirds equals about 23.3).

Step Thirty: If the repeater is off the air for service, complain about the fact that it was off the air as soon as it's turned back on. Act as though your entire day has been ruined because the repeater wasn't available when you wanted to use it. Even thought you have never paid a penny to help out with the upkeep of it.

Now if we can just get rid of the Beer Enema brigade, Woger, Stevie, Lloydie, Billy Smith, and Toad, these groups can get back to being radio groups again and we can talk about how to employ CW to save ham radio, because I know we all agree CW is what will save it.

Catch you on the bands unless you're a No-code ham, then I won't because I don't do CB.

It is spelled "prostate," but you did get "hemorrhoids" right. If you had to spell things via CW, you wouldn't have spelled only 50% of the big words right. I admit that you could use the Q signal for "How is your prostate?" (QYP?), but most good ops spell things out instead.

QYH?

Saggytits Lee steps on his own tiny dick when he tried to correct somebody else's English use first by saying one "operates" a dictionary

In your demented mind, post editing your original "CW" just changed the truth of the matter, didn't it?

The truth is, you couldn't even cuss in Morse code on your first

One dead, one arrested after CB radio argument at Vancouver mall

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) -- A Vancouver man was shot to death Saturday in the parking lot of Westfield Vancouver mall following an argument over citizens band radio.

Kenneth Eichhorn, 47, died after surgery at Southwest Washington Medical Center, police said Saturday. Jon William Loveless, 44, also of Vancouver, was arrested for investigation of second-degree murder in the shooting.

Police responded about 1:30 a.m. Saturday to reports of multiple shots fired in the mall parking lot. Officers found the wounded Eichhorn in his pickup truck.

Loveless called 911 a short time later, reporting that he had been involved in a shooting. He was being held without bail in the Clark County Jail.

The two men apparently did not know each other, but got into an argument over CB radio before they met at the mall. Both men were armed, police said. The nature of the disagreement was not disclosed.

Later Saturday, CB users were still talking about the early-morning argument between "Ken" and "Brander."

Longtime CB user Noel Perkins, 41, of Vancouver said he often hears arguments over the radio. "It's part of the game," said Perkins, whose CB handle is Snakebite. "Some people take it seriously, some people don't."

A question well stated, Slow Code...
No, it is a telephone conversation. Period. And that is what the whole hobby will turn into if the self-righteous, lazy whiners get their way and code is, once and for all, abolished. They all have contributed to the hobby's deterioration so far and don't like the fact that a few of us have got their number and can assess them for what they are. What do these simple-minded idiots think will happen if, as they press forward, they get all testing removed? The simple fact is that this is all a set up so the frequencies can be auctioned to non ham interests. The morons in Newington whimper about the reduced ham population. Geez Louise...there are many times more hams today (including those with the "faux" ham licenses not requiring code) than in the post WWII ham "boom." Not enough?

No kids...this whole code thing and the watering down of the test is simply a matter dividing and conquering so "they" can come in and tell us that our numbers don't justify the spectrum. Then...pfssssst!!!...there goes one band after another.

If any of the no coders had any balls they'd be asking the fcc for real testing and redevelop the hobby into what it used to be instead of the inane weekend contesting and buffoons sitting there are sideband comparing which rigs have the most features.

Idiots.

Oh yeah, I really miss the days when the grouchy old AM hams ceaselessly complained loud and long about those "Single Side-Winders" on their personal AM frequencies with that new fangled Mickey Mouse mode from hell (SSB).

How many times did you get emails from former congressman Foley? Did they make you horny? Either way, we would like to interview you just as soon as possible on THE TODD SHOW -- heard by millions of people on Omega One Radio. Please RSVP.

KB9RQZ is like a turd, and K4YZ, N0VFP, AB8MQ, N9OGL, & others are like shit flies that love to land and feed on it.

If we can flush the turd, the shit flies might go with it, but to have our radio groups back the shit Flies have to go too. They're as bad as the turd.

Please help flush the turd, and smack a shit fly if you see one.

WRONG! The radio IS illegal and especially illegal to use on 11 Meters. This radio appears on FCC's Office of Technology list of non-certified radios and is not to be used as a CB.

FCC HAS been citing people for using "export" radios, has been after truckers operating ON 10 Meters without license, AND has cited/fined a number of CB dealers and truck stops for selling them. They include Pilot Travel Centers ($90,000 settlement), Love's Travel Stops ($25,000), TA, Flying J, and others. Flying J will likely be getting a fine over the Cobra 150 and 200 series "export" radios soon. Trucking companies include, UPS,

FedEx, Quality Carriers, Superior Carriers, Tidewater Transit, United Van Lines, JW Randolph, Melton Truck Lines, Cardinal Express, a whole list with MORE pending. Individuals in Texas and Oklahoma have been warned to stop operating with "export" (10 Meter) radios and excessive power. So, yes, FCC DOES care and intends to stop the theft of the 10 Meter band by unlicense people and the sales of uncertified "CB" radios. You might get away with it, you might not.

Scheissman is just jealous that he can't afford to buy an AL-80B. After all, he barely paid for that FT-920 that he sponged out of Marie. Not that it makes that much difference because he can't put up a decent station ro any sort of a signal. Ever notice how you never hear him on the air. Is it because he is such a social pariah that no one wants to talk to him. So much for that ham license. Not much good unless you can use it, huh Scheissman.

Mwhahahahhahahaha, isn't it done? Nice try DUMBASS!

The series of questions to Mark was done with a small bit of humor, but were based upon statements Markie had made in the past.
Yes, it was "jest" but Mark indeed has admitted on several occasions that he self-administers beer enemas to himself. Really! The fool actually admits to it!
Mark Morgan, the admitted Pagan slash Jew slash Bisexual once commented that he uses beer enemas to lessen the pain of his rectal issues/hemorrhoids.
Mark said that beer aids in lessening the nagging pain of his bothersome hemorrhoids.
We simply took it a step further in that some of us wanted to know if Mark prefers warm beer to cold, if he uses a small hose vs. a garden hose, if he administers Lite or Miller or Buttweiser and if he does so while standing, sitting or plopping his dyslexic ass over the neighborhood bar.
While I couldn't care much, the mental image of this dyslexic shoving a rubber tube up his rectum and pouring 12 ounces of Milwaukee's Best into a funnel does present a humorous image. Does Mark do this in the privacy of his own bathroom? Or does he sneak outside behind his car so he can "spew" into the grass afterwards?
And you gotta admit. Anybody who'd post a blog wherein they tell everybody that they are bisexual is reason enough to laugh at the clown. And beer enemas? More reason to laugh.
Put the two together? Wow! You have, in effect, a Doofus 42 year old man who is sure of his dual sexual proclivities, and one who uses beer in a manner that leaves the rest of us laughing.

Hey, Mark. I bet you were quite the attraction at your high school Keggers. While your buddies were holding the keg hose over their mugs to fill them, you were standing by waiting to shove the hose into your posterior to relieve those inflamed veins in your well-used rectum.

So, bottom line for you AUK landers who thought we were joking. Not so! Mark really DOES use beer as an enema.
Mark is on record as stating that he doesn't drink. That never stopped him from shoving a beer up his ass.

Take a known homosexual like Scheissman to call anyone a pervert. After all, he was a 40 year old Mommas boy.

''''''''''''''''''

Now he's a fifty year old Momma's Boy.
Except that this time his Momma is no longer with us.
He inherited her house but claims that he bought it.
Past tax records prove otherwise.
The house only went to Roger after his adoptive mother, Marie, passed away.

All for an appraised value of $33,000.

"By the way, weren't you required to retest per a letter from FCC enforcement bureau? Shall we post the record for all to see again? They don't make people retest unless you have been accused or proven to have

committed rules violations."
Billy can't read the ARRL website which states:
NOTE: Issuance by the FCC of a Warning Notice indicates that the FCC
has what it believes to be reliable evidence of possible rules
infractions and not necessarily that the recipient has violated FCC rules. The FCC has the authority, pursuant to §97.519(d)(2) of the rules to readminister any examination element previously administered
by a volunteer examiner.

Billy "Dumbass who can't put together a sentence" Smith shows off those English skills, quite ironically in <VfQHf.14581$rH5.8121@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"That's interesting there idiot. I bet you really did flunk high school math and probably elementary too. Oh thats right, wasn't that when was an imbecile in <8uqwg.8275$v0.7632@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>:

"Right you are, wannabe Rhode's Scholar!"

Billy the illiterate retard Smith screws up again, and his illiteracy is exposed. "It serves him right."
in<hauKf.1410$S25.940@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Deserves him right."

Billy "retard" Smith confesses to his generally accepted retarded
status in <LwpLf.2321$F56.2317@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"I'm a general retard. bwhahaha"

Billy "spelling champ of the general retards" Smith admits his bad
hygiene but is still in denial about his English skills in <QxpLf.2322$F56.1169@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>
"Sure I can spell and smell."

"Billy" the NOtwordSmith fucks up again with this incompete sentence in

in <OCqUf.16826$S25.10695@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"...didnt Marie teach you to play nice"

"Rhodes scholar" Billy Lardass Davies Smith blunders and blows his cover again in <Et%0g.6340$sq5.1769@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Rhode's scholar Scheissman blows his cover again."

criticize others' typos,but he doesn't "perform" well as usual with his blatant "stupidity" in <oCk1g.5958$Es3.3907@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Noteed!!!!!!!!!!!!! Bwhahahahahahah. You're a brilliant one Scheissman.
You even peform stupid acts on your blatant stupidty"

comment on others' spelling abilities, but he "can't" do any better in Message-ID: <mQr3g.8970$sq5.4914@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Woger cant spell very well anyway."

blathered in <WdZfg.629$lp.259@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"How about those retest letter you received for jamming."

Billy "illiterate " Smith claims to have been in the Library, but he can't even spell "I've" correctly, maybe Billy should check out the English tutoring books there in WpFgg.1310$lf4.1288@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Ive been to quite a few libraries on Sunday and a lot of them are open."

Billy Smith "the" ill-educated moron fucks up again in <4zxLg.15720$Qf.5115@newsread2.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Roger is about to finally have th final episode where..."

claim "hillbillies" are somehow inferior(he squeaks from
"experience"?) in <7CdRg.11366$v%4.8492@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Is that another fine quality of the Hillbilly state? You know, that third world one where you live full of miscegenation, inbreeding, and the like. Speaking from experrience again?"

fun of others' typos and pegs the irony meter in <my5Sg.1536$Y24.130@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Would that by "that" Woger? How abou that Todd rather than "Taod"?"

If he "sponged" it then he didn't have to "barely pay" for it. Too bad for you he bought it.
Unlike you who has to get second and third hand used equipment, he can afford new equipment.

Poor Billy, sitting on his fat ass in his parents' unfinished basement.

BILLY SMITH STEPS ON HIS OWN DICK THUSLY WITH THESE FUCK-UPS:

<gsJRg.2244$o71.124@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"By the way, weren't you required to retest per a letter from FCC enforcement bureau? Shall we post the record for all to see again? They don't make people retest unless you have been accused or proven to have

committed rules violations."
Billy can't read the ARRL website which states:
NOTE: Issuance by the FCC of a Warning Notice indicates that the FCC
has what it believes to be reliable evidence of possible rules
infractions and not necessarily that the recipient has violated FCC rules. The FCC has the authority, pursuant to §97.519(d)(2) of the rules to readminister any examination element previously administered
by a volunteer examiner.

Billy "Dumbass who can't put together a sentence" Smith shows off those English skills, quite ironically in <VfQHf.14581$rH5.8121@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"That's interesting there idiot. I bet you really did flunk high school math and probably elementary too. Oh thats right, wasn't that when was in Floriduh. Spelled Florida but the DUH is for your Dumb Ass."

"wasn't that when was in Floriduh" - Billy makes good fuck up!

Message-ID <Q0bJf.19641$vU2.7735@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Roger, shots himself in the foot"

Billy the "Rhodes" scholar fucks up again and even demonstrates he is an imbecile in <8uqwg.8275$vO.7632@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Right you are, wannabe Rhode's Scholar!"

Billy the illiterate retard Smith screws up again, and his illiteracy is exposed. "It serves him right."
in<hauKf.1410$S25.940@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Deserves him right."

Billy "retard" Smith confesses to his generally accepted retarded
status in <LwpLf.2321$F56.2317@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"I'm a general retard. bwhahaha"

Billy "spelling champ of the general retards" Smith admits his bad
hygiene but is still in denial about his English skills in <QxpLf.2322$F56.1169@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>
"Sure I can spell and smell."

<qgyNf.5576$S25.341@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"So when you got divorced boy, did your finally figure out that your more"

Billy "cumgargler" Smith managed to awaken from his drunken stupor to
slobber
in <fbIOf.442$sL2.25@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Isn't that you mom weighed"

Mr."Education" Billy Smith steps on his own dick again when he talks about others' "educations" (or educatiion" as he spells it) in <w7IOf.436$sL2.167@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Uh, huh. Right LOSER. Still smoking that dope again? By the way how is your

<B9IOf.439$sL2.255@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"You're whole life has been exhaled before."

Billy "illiterate retard" Smith spikes the "HUH?" factor in this
slobbering in <MGqUf.16833$S25.8455@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Come on, do it just have you some spiked Kool Aid."

"Didn't" your special-Ed teacher teach you how to spell, Billy?
in <OCqUf.16826$S25.10695@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"...didnt Marie teach you to play nice"

"Rhodes scholar" Billy Lardass Davies Smith blunders and blows his cover again in <Et%0g.6340$sq5.1769@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>: "Rhode's scholar Scheissman blows his cover again."

Billy "dumbass" Smith steps on his own tiny dick when he tries to criticize others' typos,but he doesn't "perform" well as usual with his blatant "stupidity" in <oCk1g.5958$Es3.3907@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>: "Noteed!!!!!!!!!!!!! Bwhahahahahahah. You're a brilliant one Scheissman.
You even peform stupid acts on your blatant stupidty"

Billy "dropout Lardass" Smith steps on his own dick when he tries to comment on others' spelling abilities, but he "can't" do any better in Message-ID: <mQr3g.8970$sq5.4914@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>: "Woger cant spell very well anyway."

Billy "dropout pizza BOY" Smith fucks up his sentence again when he blathered in <WdZfg.629$lp.259@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "How about those retest letter you received for jamming."

Billy "illiterate " Smith claims to have been in the Library, but he can't even spell "I've" correctly, maybe Billy should check out the English tutoring books there in WpFgg.1310$lf4.1288@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "Ive been to quite a few libraries on Sunday and a lot of them are open."

Billy Smith "the" ill-educated moron fucks up again in <4zxLg.15720$Qf.5115@newsread2.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "Roger is about to finally have th final episode where..."

Billy Smith stumbles on his club foot in his fat mouth when he tries to claim "hillbillies" are somehow inferior(he squeaks from "experience"?) in <7CdRg.11366$v%4.8492@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "Is that another fine quality of the Hillbilly state? You know, that third world one where you live full of miscegenation, inbreeding, and the like. Speaking from experrience again?"

Billy the spelling bee champ Smith fucks up again while trying to make fun of others' typos and pegs the irony meter in <my5Sg.1536$Y24.130@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>: "Would that by "that" Woger? How abou that Todd rather than "Taod"?"

Truth is, you edited the post.

Pious Davey Heil, K8MN blatantly lies even when a call to (304) 845-5511 can verify Glen Dale has no jail facility in

Omega One went tits up. No one listens now. The FCC knew Todd wouldn't be able to keep an HF station running 24/7 so why waste a stamp to send him a license. Besides, his music was shitty anyway.

Markie uses it on 11 meters. He transmits to Roger and Lloyd when he hears skipland on CB. They love to hear his beer farts when they can't be there in person to enjoy the smell. Lloyd has big woofer speakers in his pizza delivery car. He like to play Markies farts loud when the skipland is rolling in. Roger likes to hear the farts because he is too loose to do his own farting. Prison life will do that to you.

I can't help it if you're a lazy-ass Kanadian, but lucky for you being north of the border your govt believes in free-handouts. Too bad it makes for poorer radio amateurs. Ten-Four, Ten-Four, breaker, breaker, breaker?

I figured out why you're so upset. You weren't born with a prostate or a set of balls so you can't take part in the conversations. Maybe you can find yourself an XYL net and discuss sewing, menstration and tampons.

Canadian no-code radio amateurs have to pass with a HIGHER grade than code amateurs.

Can you please explain what my handouts are? Because I seem to have missed them all. I still have to work to pay my rent, pay all my utilities, pay for the fuel in my vehicles...fuel that is MORE expensive here than down south....etc.

And an F.Y.I, Canada is the LARGEST supplier of crude oil to the United States and YOU guys can buy OUR petroleum products CHEAPER than we can here. Nice handout you're getting there, lazy ass.

Actually..I DID get a free education at a public school. I get it now..you are jealous because you didn't get any kind of education, as observed by your misspelling of *C*anada and your other mindless rantings.

You have my sympathy but it's not too late to get an education.

Woger squeals like the Deliverance boy that he is. In fact, they wanted to do a sequel to the 1972 classic but instead have Woger play the part of the one squealing like a pig. After all, it's West Virginia and some of the natives there do squeal like a pig.

As much as you have talked about it, we would almost think he would be dead. But he is still here and you are still drooling over it just like you do when you see the Lavender Lads.

Nice try bubba. I don't live in a basement nor do I live with my parents but you lived with your momma from the tender age of 40 until she kicked the bucket a couple of years ago. And it wasn't like you tried to lie about how you owned the house and she lived with you. Mwhahahahah. That was a lie wasn't it Scheissman. Just like that crappy degree you received from USF or claimed to receive.

Jamming 20 meters again? That's right you don't have enough sense to put up a dipole these days to actually operate. Therefore, you're relegated to 2 meter operation.

Like when you spelled "Florida" as "Floriduh?" or these other fuck ups?:

BILLY SMITH STEPS ON HIS OWN DICK THUSLY WITH THESE FUCK-UPS:

<gsJRg.2244$o71.124@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"By the way, weren't you required to retest per a letter from FCC enforcement bureau? Shall we post the record for all to see again? They don't make people retest unless you have been accused or proven to have

committed rules violations."
Billy can't read the ARRL website which states:
NOTE: Issuance by the FCC of a Warning Notice indicates that the FCC
has what it believes to be reliable evidence of possible rules
infractions and not necessarily that the recipient has violated FCC rules. The FCC has the authority, pursuant to §97.519(d)(2) of the rules to readminister any examination element previously administered
by a volunteer examiner.

Billy "Dumbass who can't put together a sentence" Smith shows off those English skills, quite ironically in <VfQHf.14581$rH5.8121@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"That's interesting there idiot. I bet you really did flunk high school math and probably elementary too. Oh thats right, wasn't that when was in Floriduh. Spelled Florida but the DUH is for your Dumb Ass."

"wasn't that when was in Floriduh" - Billy makes good fuck up!

Message-ID <Q0bJf.19641$vU2.7735@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:

"Roger, shots himself in the foot"

Billy the "Rhodes" scholar fucks up again and even demonstrates he is an imbecile in <8uqwg.8275$v0.7632@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Right you are, wannabe Rhode's Scholar!"

No, But I hear you jamming and making unidentified transmissions there.
BTW, clueless, the FCC can require any ham tested under the VE system to retest. They don't have to give a reason. In Roger's case, it sure backfired because he passed them and even upgraded. It's not much of a "sanction," is it?

Call the USF registrar's office and see. Oh, that's right, you'd have to

1)get mommy and daddy's permission to make long distance calls
2) get a real job so you can pay the LD bill.

[nothing important]

I was looking at the Glen Dale Police web page to see what, if anything, they had to say about their jail facilities. I also was hoping that they might have "Roger Wiseman Slept Here" souvenirs for sale, or something else equally interesting. Apparently, Woger isn't important enough to warrant that kind of attention.

While browsing the city's web pages, I noticed acknowledgements which said:

"Web page hosted by Ohio Valley Internet Service, 1816 7th Street, Moundsville, WV 26041"

For some reason, Woger isn't welcome at Ovis any longer.

Woger once had an account with Ovis, but the President of Ovis (Pam Hoffer) had him kicked off. Could it have been because Woger posted things like this?

"And that fat hog Pam shouldn't caterwaul with her hunchbacked fatass mommy with the Xtian band anymore, she caused more stray dogs to come around that run-down shack that Ovis is housed in. Another Xtian hypocrite, that radio station is a known haven for child abuse in the mound town. She is a fucking idiot." -- ab8mq in message <akd8bpkce8@pita.alt.net>

And this?

"Wrong again, FATASS, I told Pammy to go fuck herself after she called here, all upset. I guyess it was because she was behind giving the black system admin she has a blowjob in the server room and giving one to her dog." -- AB8MQ in message-id <737589ee.0405220528.371d3f66@posting.google.com>

Or was Woger's ejection from Ovis like his FCC retest and just another random event in his life that had no connection to anything else that he did?

You don't get $100 Mark, but if you're nice and a good boy, maybe you can sweet talk Lloyd, Roger, or Steve into giving you a Beer enema. Steve knows medical things and can administer an enema. Lloyd or Roger could give you an enema too. They're good at sticking things in another man's butt.

Here's a photo of Anne Hoffer (remember Pam Hoffer?) hugging some skinny, short-haired guy who is beating Woger's time. From the info on the web site, the guy is a pizza delivery man. The ladies always go for the bad boy, pizza delivery types, and that always enrages Woger, because all he can get are the dregs.

http://www.wrkp.com/images/ovis/ovis2.jpg

Too bad Woger alienated Pam Hoffer of Ovis. Otherwise, he could have been the guy in that photo instead. That's the story of Woger's life: He's always on the outside looking in.

I've never worked at Honeywell and since there isn't a Honeywell facility for 50 miles you're obviously wrong again. Not to mention I've never held a job as a janitor. Nice try bubba.

You can't even solder a PL-259 plug to some RG-8X Coax and then make a dipole. You're stuck with using those shitty whip antennas because you don't have the technical skill to put up a dipole, beam, inverted V, cloudwarmer etc. Try again bubba.

Writing that ghetto language again? You did learn to write and talk like that down in that rat infested dump in Hillsborough County, Florida.
With my Florida misspelling I was illustrating the "DUH" factor in your reasoning. Of course, intellect was never your strong suit anyway. After all, you have to consult a dictionary even to spell half of the words you use.

I've been a ham for years and never had to retest. 99.9 percent of the rest of the amateur community has never had to retest. The only people that retest are rules breakers and those who may have fraudulently received a license courtesy of a VE team. They don't just make one retest on basis that they can but it takes some pretty stupid actions to do so. That is right though, you do have that level of stupidity to require retesting. I think the commission should revoke your license due to character qualifications. They can and have done that in the past.

Hmm. OK, how about talking to a no-code with a yet-to-be-activated General? I sat for & took the Tech, passed and they mentioned I could take the General. Great. Passed that one as well. Working on Morse now.

Missed the Extra, though, by a few questions.

Was my first shot at any exam.

Neither a Tech nor a General makes one a Ham, though.
Nor Morse.

That only qualifies you to be a good student of the avocation.
I don't expect to be really good at ham radio until I've played around with a transceiver for a year or two, maybe. Still need to learn the lingo, learn electronics, get my feet wet, build a receiver and maybe a transmitter, blow up a few caps..you know, OJT. Plus lots of hamfests where I'll be looking for a cute hamette.

When I finally DO get a rig of some kind, I sorta kinda might be Ready for going after QSOs.

Even from folks who think I've got an honorary degree.

Good DX & 73,
Terry, KC9KEL newly minted

Liar. You don't even have the beginner's training wheel no code tech license. You couldn't pass any of the tests or the code. The FCC can retest anybody under the VE system. what part of that can't you understand, stupid? The FCC has the authority, pursuant to §97.519(d)(2) of the rules to readminister any examination element previously administered by a volunteer examiner.

What does General Telephone have to do with ham radio, stupid? Besides, they merged with Bell to become Verizon.

BILLY, DON'T BE A ZERO

Vocal: Bo Donaldson & The Heywoods

[Words and Music by Mitch Murray and Peter Robin Callander]

The gay pride band came down along Main Street
The Village People fell in behind
I looked across and there I saw Billy Smith
Waiting to go and join the line
And with her head upon his shoulder
Mary, his old and hideous she-male mommy
>From where I stood, I saw she was cryin'
And through her tears I heard her say

"Billy, don't be a zero, don't be a fool all your life"
"Billy, don't be a zero, you can go back to school at night"
And as he started to go she said "Billy, keep your your head back as you blo-o-ow"
"Billy, don't be a zero, don't forget we can give 'em a two for one you know"

The whining faggots were trapped in a alley
The gay orgy raging all around Dick Sergeant cried "We've got to hang on, boys"
"We got to hold this piece a'ground"
"I need a volunteer to ride me"
"And bring us back some extra men"

And Billy Smith's hand was up in a moment
Forgettin' all the words she said

Everybody said
"Billy, don't be a zero, don't be a fool all your life"
"Billy, don't be a hero, you can go back to school at night"
And as he started to go she said "Billy, keep your head back as you blo-o-ow"
"Billy, don't be a hero, don't forget we can give 'em a two for one you know"

I heard his she-male mommy got a letter
That told how Billy swallowed that day
The letter said that he was a zero
She should be proud he swallowed that way
I heard she threw that letter away

[military drums and fifes to end]

I almost didn't see your post, because my standard filters remove all posts which contain 500 or more lines. Quite by accident, I found the post while using a news server that I only rarely use. Here's the only response you'll get, CW Man.

: BACKPEDAL BOY SLee@houston-hunks.com (Stagger Lee) talks tough, yet

: "Ready to lose that ISP too, mensa-boy, after trying to hide it for a
: year?
: Mess with me in real life, and you will always pay a price."

This is a typical rant which is totally in error. It turns out that Woger was quoting a post which is still in Google's archives, and that's the reason I chose it as an example. Everyone can verify it by using Google Groups advanced search for a specific message ID. The original post reads as follows:

--(begin quote)-- Newsgroups: rec.radio.amateur.misc
Subject: Wiseman -- pants down -- outs himself from StratusWave.net

Organization: Houston's least reliable ISP Message-ID: <pants.down.wiseman@houston-hunks.com>

: Apparently, that doesn't include YOU.

And DUMB people try to netcop a second time while stupidly revealing that stratuswave.net is their ISP. Ready to lose that ISP too, mensa-boy, after trying to hide it for a year? Mess with me in real life, and you will always pay a price.

As Darth Vader said, "You should not have come back."
--(end quote)--

I should point out to you, Woger, that you HAVE lost that ISP. You aren't still sitting around waiting for Stratuswave to dump you; they dumped you long ago. Thus the claim you made ("I'm still waiting to lose my ISP") is an outright lie.

[462 additional lines of drivel snipped.]

I am flattered that you save and edit everything that I post. Quite obviously, you recognize my greatness. Do you reread my old posts whenever you need inspiration, or are they background material for the next great novel you're writing?

Funny that no one hears your shitty station these days on the air. It's because no one wants to talk to a social pariah such as yourself. So you had to use a purchased antenna which says that you lack the technical skill to put together a real antenna. Nice try, ham radio wannabe.

Any 12 year old can learn code in 2 weeks. Getting rid of it would not dumb down Ham radio at all. Code is a good thing to know. Whether you use it or not is a personal preference. I think programming you're own software to send code yourself and building your own radio is a lot more technical than learning code.

Today on the Show more talk on the ASSHOLES called CONSOLIDATED COMMUNICATIONS and CTITECH and why they would rather listen to members of a NEO-NAZI BOARD then their own users...and the possible law suit I might be bring to the Courts, including but not limiting to....CITITECH not notifying the phone company to shut the DSL line off (according to the phone company they (CTITECH) should of notified them) and since the Service had been shut off in July I had to pay for a DSL line up to September and CTITECH CLAIMS that I OWN them money...That DSL line isn't cheap!! How Consolidated claims that my service was removed after a warning and then claims I had no service with them?? How CTITECH and CONSOLIDATED COMMUNICATIONS suppresses speech, CITECH CLAIMS that their are other internet services in this town yet, those services in this town and surrounding area doesnot have software for their service for MAC...I'm also looking to sue the state for do little to resolve this problem and allowing indiviuals on a NEO_NAZI board make death threats against me..the same NEO-NAZI'S that complainted to ISP. When CW is eliminated they may want to do CB reviews to sell more magazines because there will be a whole new type of down-graded ham to market memberships to. In fact, they should change the name of "QST" to "Ten-Four Good Buddy" magazine.

You think that's bad? Wait until HF sounds 11 meters and you can't find a decent contact anywhere. You'll see I was right.

I crawled out of my hole around restructuring time. Then the ARRL and FCC screwed ham radio. I went back in my hole again. Now the FCC and it appears with the blessings of the ARRL is planning to toss CW all together. I come out of my hole to fight for the integrity of ham radio once again, but when the R&O comes out eliminating CW, I'll crawl back into my hole again. Leaving you and everyone else the problem of trying to deal with poor behavior and operating practice on the bands. The result of dumbing down licensing.

Outcome based education doesn't work, what makes you think outcome based licensing will?

But people don't want to be skilled at anything anymore. They don't want to make an effort to learn CW, they may not make an effort to learn other things to advance themselves technically either.

Ham radio is dead when the CW requirement goes. Then that last step to pull the plug on it totally will be to eliminate the written exams.

Yet you don't backpedal at all, do you UnWiseman? Your three versions of the

Your uncountable versions of why Riley Hollingsworth made you retest to keep non-sequitor....

I find it rather amusing. here you are trying to hurl insults at me and yet, you haven't even mastered the barest concepts of an intellectual conversation.

and here is what pisses you off: I am right and you know. and thats what scares you the most.

you really are clueless. you dump on me simply because you can't deal with your own problems. In fact, at this point, you can't deal with any problems. This is why you lash out to so little effect.

I was right before too. this is another of your various nyms. Hell, I even know who you are in real life and frankly, I feel sorry for you. all that grey matter and you did nothing with it. so sad really.

ah well, time to put you back on the shelf like many of my other toys. :)

I have apologized to the NG. I also have stated what it will take to stop such behavoir so go talk to Robeson he was accusing Todd of both right I returned to ng he ha accused in my absense Hans of both pedo- and Zoo- phlia. he accused BB of child molesting

I will not allow Robeson or anyone else to sence by harrassment if that means firing back so be it

I am sorry that I have found it needfull to use such tactics I apologize again to the NG in generalmore like 50 perscent the rest would go

..... ALMOST TIME FOR THE GREAT LIBERTY NET !!!

Yes, ladies and gentlemen (and hams too), your wait is almost over, for in just a few short hours the GREAT LIBERTY NET will take command of the airwaves. Millions of Hams and SWLs from all over the world have waited all week for this event, trying to go about their everyday lives, trying to pay attention at work, trying to act like they care about their familiy, when in fact all they could think about is what will happen tonight at 22:00 EDT (02:00 UT) on 75 meters LSB.

Come join them and find out what life is really all about. You'll have to tune around a bit to find the Liberty Net, as they don't have a consistent frequency anymore. Try 3950 or somewhere above that, maybe 3978. But last week they were way down on 3922.

Be there, or be square!

"My life would have been meaningless without the chance to jam the Liberty Net. So get it straight, Bucky." Krazy Jewish Injun (WA9KJI)

Mark,

You provide nothing useful to the internet, you're a retard. If you were intelligent enough to post something someone could agree with or argue with you about, things would be different, but all your retarded ass can do is cut & paste one line mis-spelled babble, you contribute nothing to the group so you should keep your dumb-ass mouth shut until you have something useful to say. People may disagree with me on whether or not to keep CW, but at least it's discussion. Your posts are mindless retard cut & paste babble.

I get teased and forged by K4YZ and others too. I read the posts and have a good laugh, I don't need to follow up to them. You're too retarded to understand that and that's why they keep teasing your dumb ass.

From this point on anyone that teases your stupid ass has my blessing, I can understand after this last batch of cut & paste of yours why they do it. I tried to be as nice to you as I could, but you're just too fucking retarded to deal with.

While you guys are waiting for the Great Liberty Net
(the greatest net on ham radio - Sat evenings 10:00 PM on 3.950 LSB +/1 20kc QRM) check out the website http://www.ve7kfm.com/ for some VERY AMUSING audio clips of the guy from "Can-Ahhh-Duh" who loves Americans and other peoples. Where else caoud you get great DOWNLOADABLE SOUND FILES like the great Sid-the-Lid talking about "nig-er ballgames" and other stuff like this..?

Example: http://www.ve7kfm.com/niggers.mp3
"Madera's good friend Sid (BLB) discusses niggers: "Out of five channels on, we had six nigger ballgames." "

Where else but on HAM RADIO can you get such STELLAR ENTERTAINMENT as this ?? !!

Who is Slow Code? What is his call???
Does anybody know???

Slow Code may be AB8MQ.
However...comma...
AB8MQ has opined that Slow Code is Stagger Lee, hot-ham-and-cheese, or Dave Heil, or Lloyd Davies, or Arf! Arf! or Billy Smith (who IS hot-ham-and-cheese), or whoever else's name happens to pop into his demented head at the time.

Dummy Mark, Resident Flamer Supreme and Bisexual No Coder, thinks Slow Code is K4YZ, but in Mark's world EVERY post comes from YZ. Mark has not mastered the fine art of reading headers.

I guess this does little to answer your question, but I'm sure that Mark Morgan will post ten, fifteen or twenty posts minimum in response. On some days Mark has made as many at 125 posts in as few as eight hours. It will be totally up to you to try to interpret what Mark says simply because he uses a strange dialect heretofore unseen in these groups.

If AB8MQ responds, his posts will be over anonymous sockpuppets, usually three or four, but his trademark will be that his posts all contain filthy comments that he cuts and pastes from one group to another. No originality there.

Good luck.

* PLEASE NOTE: The report "could" contain "Pirate/SLIM" operations or more likely a "BUSTED CALLSIGN". As always, you never know - "Work First Worry Later" (WFWL).

3C0, ANNOBON ISLAND. Elmo, EA5BYP, informs OPDX that his next DXpedition is to the Island of Annobon (Pagalu). He will arrive via Malabo-Bata-Annobon on October 20th, and will remain on the island for 15 days and be activate as 3C0M. His equipment will be a line amplifier, two HF equipment, a yagi antenna and dipoles. Elmo will be on air on SSB (80-10m), RTTY (20-15m) and CW (160m). He reports that making a radio DXpedition to Annobon Island has been a very difficult and complicated enterprise. Elmo has been talking to different Ministries of the Republic of Equatorial Guinea since 2004 to explain to them that ham radio enthusiasts are interested neither in politics nor religious differences, but to just practice ham radio without paying attention to the frontiers. He hopes with all his efforts that in the future he may launch a multinational ham radio DXpeditions there soon. This DXpedition is costly for only one operator, and he is looking for help in funding his operation.

3W, VIETNAM. Reports indicate that Shim, XV3AA/3W3A, is expected to be active for a couple of weeks starting October 11th. It is suggested to look for him between 2330-0030z on 20 meters. QSL via JA6UHG.

6W, SENEGAL. Jacques, F6BEE, will be active as 6W1RW during the CQWW DX CW Contest (November 25-26th) as a Single-Op/All-Band/High-Power entry. QSL via F6BEE.

9M0, SPRATLY ISLANDS (Update). Tex, 9M2TO, sent out a press release this week titled "Project 2007 Spratly Island 9M0 DXpedition by Team Blue Marlin Ventures". It reports that the Malaysian Communication and Multimedia Commission has approved Ham Radio operations from Pulau Layang Layang (AS-051) in the Spratly Island group. Operation is scheduled to take place between March 9-20th. Operators will include members of the Malaysian Amateur Radio Transmitter's Society (MARTS) and a group of JA operators. Malaysian operators mentioned are: Chow/9M2CF, Phoa/9M2KT, Tex/9M2TO and Yasumasa/9M8YY. JA operators mentioned are: Yoshiaki/JA1OCZ, Tack/JE1CKA, Harumi/JF1PJK, Naoyuki/JK1FNL, Yasuyuki/JR1AIB, Kazuyuki/JR1VMX, Miho/JJ2VLY, Yutaka/JQ2GYU, Takashi/JR7TEQ and Kiyohiro/9M2/JH3GCN. The team plans to have a total of 20 operators. They also plan to have 2-4 stations up and running for 24 hours on all bands and modes. The 9M0 callsign and QSL route has not been announced yet.

9N, NEPAL. Tohru, JA0UMV, will be active from Katmandu as 9N7MV between October 26-30th. This is his second DXpedition from Nepal. Activity this time will be on 40/30/20/17/15 meters only, SSB, CW and possibly RTTY. He will participate in the CQ WWDX SSB Contest as a Single-Op/All-band/Low-Power entry. Tohru will operate CW outside of the contest, so look for him on the following suggested frequencies: 7017, 10117, 14027, 18077 and 21027 kHz. QSL via his home callsign: Tohru Kataoka, 15-9 Sakae, Kamo, Niigata 959-1382 JAPAN.

ANTARCTIC NEWS.....
The French Polar Team is proud to announce the "ANTARCTICA CHALLENGE". The goal of the "Antarctica Challenge" is to promote the Antarctica Hamradio traffic; it should reflect the global and coherent hamradio traffic with the Antarctica. Another main goal of the Challenge is to gather funds to help Antarctica's stations (QSL printing, Materials supply and so on..). The "Antarctica Challenge" is not an Award, but a Challenge. As you will see in the rules it's not simply to count bases and confirm the QSOs, but you must find the exact and accurate

Antarctica station positions (on the island). Your Geographic skill and documentations will help you achieve this goal. Visit the Antarctica Challenge Web site at: http://f6kdf.ath.cx/f5nod/

B7, CHINA. A group of hams from BY7-land will be active as B7P during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-2 entry. Operators mentioned are: Terry/BA7NQ, Junxiang/BD7IN, Jinquan/BD7JLR, Yang/BG7IXG, Xijiang/BG7MCE, Guanqiu/BG7KTA, BG7IBV and BG7KSF.

CT3, MADEIRA ISLANDS. Operators CT1BOH, CT1BOP, CT4NH, CT3BD, CT3DL, CT3DZ, CT3EE, CT3EN, CT3HK, CT3IA, CT3IQ, CT3KU and CT3KY will be active as CT3IA during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-2 entry. QSL via CQ9K.

DXCC NEWS.....
Bill Moore, NC1L, ARRL DXCC Branch Manager, informs OPDX that the following operation is approved for DXCC credit:
TT8LN - Chad; Operation from February 12th through June 5th, 2006

YU6AO CREDITS ON HOLD! On October 4th, 2006, Bill Moore, NC1L, ARRL DXCC Branch Manager, reports: "A number of DXers have had their YU6AO credits rejected by the DXCC Desk. Although we are entering these confirmations, we are currently not allowing DXCC credit because of possible irregularities in the QSLing process. We have received several independent reports relating to the QSO dates, some QSOs made prior to July 4th, 2006, being post-dated to dates July 4th and later. We take this very seriously, and we are seeking clarification, but our latest attempt to communicate with YU6AO has not been acknowledged. Once this matter is cleared, credits already submitted can be claimed with a note to the DXCC Branch Manager, Bill Moore at dxcc@arrl.org."

EF8, CANARY ISLANDS. A team of EA and EA8 operators will activate EF8A during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-? or possibly a Multi-2 entry. QSL via EA8URL.

FT5X, KERGUELEN ISLANDS. As this was being written, Gildas (Gil), TU5KG, who has been active as FT5XP/mm in the Austral Sea (in Southern Indian Ocean) on a fishing boat near/around the Kerguelen Islands, was expected to be active from Kerguelen Islands. The reports states, "Gildas is 'full ahead' to Kerguelen Island, he will be FT5XP from 'Port aux Francais' this weekend October 7th (He should arrive this evening) untill 8th. He will also be on Kerguelen the weekend of November 26th (for fuel refill)." QSL via F4EFI.

HR, HONDURAS (Topband). Dan, HR2DMR, is now active on the topband. He will be trying out a new set of antennas on 160 meters during October and November to be ready for the ARRL 160 Contest and CQ 160 Contest. Dan states that this is a good chance to work HR on 160 on CW, SSB and maybe RTTY between 0000-0500z. Suggested frequencies are: 1835, 1830 and 1825 kHz. He was also heard this past week on 40 meters SSB.

IOTA NEWS.....
AF-018. Raf, IH9YMC, is currently a resident of Pantelleria Island

(IIA TP-001, MIA MI-124, WLOTA LH-0041). He plans to be active on the bands through January 31st. He has also been active on 160 meters. QSL direct or by the bureau.

AS-093. Operators Han/DS2GOO, Son/DS3HWS, Lee/6K2CEW and maybe a few others will be active from Hong Island (WLOTA 1528, Grid Loc PM24OQ and Korean Districtionn Number H32) during October 13-15th. They will sign homecall/4 and D90HE/4. They will concentrate on 80-10 meters SSB but some digital modes like FSK or PSK31 are preferred. QSLs for D90HE/4 go to DS2GOO and all others via their home callsigns. More information and a log search will be available at: http://myhome.naver.com/dxer2han/as_093/

EU-004. Operator Tom, DK3DUA, will be active as EA6/DK3DUA from the Island of Mallorca (DIE E-021, MIA MB-004, WLOTA LH-1902), Balearic Islands, from October 15-22nd. Activity will be on CW on 80-10 meters with a FD3 and 6 meters with a dipole. QSL via his home callsign, direct or by the bureau.

LIGHTHOUSE ACTIVITY. A team of 8 LU operators will be active from Claromeco Lighthouse (ARG-014) as LU4AAO/D between October 14-15th. Activity will be on all HF bands, on SSB and CW. QSL only via LU4AAO (Radio Club QRM Belgrano). The Claromeco Lighthouse is located in the south of the Buenos Aires Province. More information is available at: http://www.lu4aao.org.ar/ Or you can contact via E-mail at: lu4aao@yahoo.com.ar

LX, LUXEMBOURG. Philippe, LX2A, will be active as LX7I during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Op/All-Band entry. He informs OPDX that "If you work me on 3 bands you can request 1 direct QSL." QSL is OK via his new callsign LX2A (ex-LX2AJ) by the Bureau, direct and LoTW (no EQSL). His new Web page is: http://www.lx2a.com

NEW OFFICERS FOR 2006-2007. Gary, K4MQG, informs OPDX that the results of the 2006-2007 INDEXA election which ended September 30th are now official and is being distributed for publication. The results are as follows: President: Ron, ZL1AMO
Vice President: Gary, K4MQG
Secretary-Treasurer: William, W4UNP
Director: Bob, K4UEE
Director: Nellie, XE1CI
Director: Franz, DJ9ZB
Director: Rich, W9RG
Newsletter Editor: John, K8YC

P40, ARUBA. Operators Dave/K9UK, John/W9KXQ, Bill/WW9WW, Dave/WG9J and Tom/W9AEB will be active as P40Z between November 28th and December 5th. QSL via K9UK.

P40, ARUBA (Update/Change). Ken/K6TA and Kay/K6KO will be active from here as P40TA and P40K, respectively, from November 30th to December 21st. Kay plans to be active in the ARRL 10 Meter Contest (December 11-12th)

as a Single-Op/High-Power/Phone entry. Also, look for P40TA in the ARRL 160m Contest (December 1-3rd) as a Single-Op/High-Power entry. QSL both callsigns via WM6A.

PJ2, NETHERLAND ANTILLES. Operators Dan/K1TO, John/K4BAI and Vic/N4TO will be active as PJ4A from Bonaire during the CQWW DX CW Contest (November 25-26th) as a Multi-Single/High-Power entry. Before and after the contest, they will use PJ4/homecalls between November 21-28th. QSL all callsigns via K4BAI. The team of operators set the North American Multi/Single record for CQWW DX CW Contest as 8P9Z in 1999. The operation will be from the K2NG/PJ4G "Radio House" on Bonaire. John/K4BAI and Jeff/KU8E, won the Multi/Single category in the ARRL DX CW Contest in February of this year from the same QTH. IOTA is SA-006. Grid is FK52.

Activity will be on 160-6 meters including the WARC bands, CW, SSB and RTTY. They plan to have 3 stations on the air. Operators mentioned are: Josep/EA3BT (Team Leader/SSB/Digital), Tony/EA2PA (CW), Nuria/EA3WL (YL/SSB/Digital), Fernando/EA5FX (CW) and Juan/EA8CAC (CW/SSB). QSL via EA3BT, by the Bureau or direct. A Web page is currently under construction for this operation and its URL address will be: http://www.ea3bt.com/s21ea.html

ST2, SUDAN (Bird Activities). Nader, HZ1NH, is back in the Sudan as ST2NH. He will be active on satellites trying to work Europe. His stay in Sudan is unkown. QSL via EA7FTR: Francisco Lianez Suero, Asturias 23, 21110 Aljaraque, HUELVA, SPAIN.

SX1, GREECE (Special Event). Look for special event station SX1VAR to be activated during the JOTA from October 21-22nd. Also, look for special event station SX100VAR to be active during the year 2007 (January 1st to December 31st) to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Boy Scouts. QSL info will be available on QRZ.com. Look for details to become available soon on how to earn a award for working SX100VAR.

TI8, COSTA RICA. Operators Carlos/TI2KAC, Eddie/K4UN, Bob/W4BW, Keith/W4KTR and Alexis/W4XO will be active as TI8M during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-2 entry. QSL via TI2KAC, direct or by the Bureau. Look for activity before the contest on 160-10 meters.

TK, CORSICA. Operators Kazik/DL2SBY, Tomi/HA4DX and Laci/HA0HW will be active as TK/homecall between November 2-11th. Their QTH will be on the north part of Corsica (EU-014) near a small village called Sisco. Activity will be on all HF bands (CW, SSB, and Digital modes) but they will focus on the lower bands. On 160m, they will use an Inverted L for transmitting and 2 lambda long beverages for reception, on 80m an Inverted Vee, on 40m a monoband Gp. On the higher bands, they will be using DunaX GPN4B and DunaX GPW3B multi-band Gp antennas. They will use two radios and a small amplifier with 500 watts output. QSL via the operator's home callsign, by his national QSL Bureau, or via the QRZ.com address.

TZ, MALI. Eric, ON4LN, has announced that a team of 4 operators will be active from Bamako, Mali, between April 1-8th next year. No other details were released other than a Web site will be online soon with more info.

V6, MICRONESIA (Also KH2). Four members of the Yamato Club (JA1ZEK) will be active from three different islands of Micronesia between November 1-13th. Look for the following operators: Sasi/JA1KJW (V63JQ), Mat/JA1JQY (V63JY), Hiro/JI1FOP (V63OP) and Kuni/JA8VE (V63VE). Their planned schedule and destination is as follows:

November 1-6th - Kosrae Island (OC-059)
November 7-8th - Pohnpei Island (OC-010)
November 9-13th - Chuuk Island (OC-011)
November 14-15th - Guam Island (OC-026)
They will set up two stations and operate on 160-10 meters, SSB, CW and RTTY. QSL V63JQ via JA1KJW, V63JY via JA1JQY, V63OP via JI1FOP and V63VE via JF1OCQ.

VP2V, BRITISH VIRGIN ISLANDS. Steve, AK0M, will be active from here next year between February 12-19th. His VP2V callsign is unknown as of yet. Operation will be from the Island of Anegada (NA-023), and he plans to be a casual entry in the ARRL DX CW Contest. QSL via AK0M. Look for updates in the future as plans finalize.

VU7, LAKSHADWEEP ISLANDS. NIAR PRESS RELEASE (dated October 6th, 2006):
"We are happy to inform you that the Hon�ble Minister for Communications and IT has approved the NIAR proposal for holding Hamfest � a convention of International amateur radio operators in Lakshadweep Islands (VU7).
The event will be held during December 1-3rd, 2006. The event also coincides the year of Golden Jubilee celebrations of Union Territory of Lakshadweep.
Another major attraction for the event is that Indian and Foreign hams can obtain permission from Government of India to operate their Amateur Radio stations during the HAMFEST being held at Lakshadweep Islands during December 1-10th, 2006.
Several agencies of the Government of India have come together to support Amateur Radio activity in our country, particularly the Department of Information Technology, Ministry of Tourism, Lakshadweep Administration, Ministry of Home Affairs, Ministry of Defence, Ministry of HRD and Department of Telecommunications. This was made possible with encouragement we received from DX agencies like GDXF, Germany and DERA, USA etc.
Hamfest is likely to attract a large number of operators. It has been decided to spread amateur radio stations to different islands to ensure most efficient operations with their physical separation of 10-60 km.
The operations will take place at least from: Agatti Island, Bangaram Island and Kadmat Island.
Lots of attention will be put in the organisation of each island operation site: Experienced operators, carefully selected equipments, large antenna farms, and awareness of conditions to all continents on all bands
In addition NIAR has assigned reliable QSL Managers to ensure quickest and most efficient QSL handling for each of the 3 ITU Regions:
Region 1: German DX Foundation (GDXF)
Region 2: N2OO, Bob Scheck
Region 3: The I-House Radio Club
Your contribution, in any amount, will make you a valued member of our VU7 operation. We need your support! We plan a special acknowledgement for Individual Donators. Further details will follow in due time. More details will be released on the official webpage www.vu7.in as plans and details firm up. Regards... Mohan, VU2MYH"

WRTC 2010. The World Radiosport Team Championship Sanctioning Committee (WRTC-SC) have announced that the 2010 WRTC will be held in Russia. The Soyuz Radiolyubitelei Rossii (SRR) will sponsor the event under the leadership of their SRR President, Roman Thomas, RZ3AA, who will be the host Committee Chairman. The WRTC and the IARU Championship will be held next July 2010.

XU, CAMBODIA. Retu, OH4MDY, reports that the members of the Finnish radio group called the "Pieksamaen Radioamatoorit ry." (OH4AB) will be active in XU with the callsigns XU7MDY and XU7JGE between October 20th and November 5th. Activity will be on 160-10 meters CW. Suggested frequencies are: 1825, 3507, 7003, 10104, 14007, 21007, 24897 and 28020 kHz. There will be an emphasis on the lower bands. Also, look for XU7MDY to be active in the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Band entry (band not provided). QSL only direct and QSL info is available on QRZ.com.

YN2, NICARAGUA. Operators Ed/W5GCX, Mike/K5UO and Frosty/K5LBU will be active as YN2EJ from Granada during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-Single entry. QSL via K5LBU.

Once again, Woger will be released from weekend jail, and he will be in his usual foul mood on Monday morning. Mark Morgan and Billy Smith should probably both spend the day avoiding Woger.

Tuesday would be a better day for them to reappear in the news groups. I suggest that they both resume posting on Tuesday, Oct 12, 2100.

Since it's not Roger posting as he's in jail, it must be his mother. I wonder if she uses his callsign on the hams bands and makes contacts for him too? No one would ever know if she's good at CW, PSK31, RTTY, and packet. But if she does ATV, that would be one friggen scary image on your TV set. Also as bad as Woger at himself.

I think it's because candidates don't have to study as much as they used too before taking the exams. Exams are easier now so some of the more smarter CB'ers have been able to pass and they brought some of their old CB operating habbits to ham radio.

We're rebuilding RRAP. We need to alert internet hams that we are getting general amateur radio and policy threads going again there. Many of the good hams on usenet left RRAP when Mark Morgan, and Roger Wiseman polluted the group, but discussions have started there again. Cross-posting will end in earnest once good hams move back into RRAP, and the riff-raff like KB9RQZ, AB8MQ and N0VFP move out.

Looking forward to more policy and pro-CW discussions with all you fine hams. :)

It's not AB8MQ posting, it's his mother or someone else he's paid to make

After someone (I forget who) said that he had heard from Mark's ISP, Mark has suddenly gone silent. Is it really possible that Mark might have been dumped by direcpc?

That's probably too much to wish for. Mark is probably trapped in his outhouse.

Suppose someone visited your office or home and tried to make a voice recording using a hidden recorder.

If they used a older-style dictation machine based on tape then you could detect the electromagnetic transmissions from the dictation machine when it was recording.

But how would you detect if someone was secretly recording with an MP3 player that recorded to flash memory?

Is there some transmission which could be detected?
Perhaps some low power ultra high frequency from chip refresh cycles?

Close. There are devices that are around that do exactly what you want.
Security firms and such use them to verify a room is bug free, etc.

In practice that was always a lot easier to say than to do.

In theory any electronic device will produce some EM so at least in theory that can be detected.

In practice there is so much of that stuff in any normal room anyway that its just not feasible.

Ok, why do you care?
Don't have sensitive conversations with anyone you can't trust, if you're going to be saying anything that shouldn't be recorded.

>If they used a older-style dictation machine based on tape then you

Doubtful, and not worth the bother when you could just scan them or search them physically.

>But how would you detect if someone was secretly recording with an MP3 >player that recorded to flash memory?

Scan them or search them.
What makes you think you should detect it?
Don't they have a right to a recording of any conversation they're participating in?

>Is there some transmission which could be detected?

Do you mean "wild hypothetical way that some future technology or extremely expensive equipment and controlled environment could detect", or do you mean, practically speaking?

>Perhaps some low power ultra high frequency from chip refresh cycles?

... and you're discriminate this from everything else, all other HF noise, how? Get a baseline maybe, but noise is random unless a controlled environment.

You just need to have everyone strip down nude and then do body cavity searches, X-Rays, exploratory surgery, then never let them leave so it doesn't really matter if anything was recorded so long as the environment has sufficient RF shielding.

But Steve took up the slack.

You know steve, when Woger, Markie, and Todd come back and do their routine crap follow-ups to you, this place is going to be a sewer for a few days. Woger's mother has three days to catch up on, and Markie will follow up to everything, and if there's nothing to follow up to, he reloads old stuff and spams that around. And Todd is a whiner.

There probably is a little electro magnetic energy leaving the device, but what frequency would you try to find it on? Other electronic things such as computers, printers, etc in the office most likely emit far more RF noise than the MP3 device. It would be hard to find it. Eventually, the power would run down and the thing would stop recording. Someone would have to come by again and pick up the recorder. So your best bet is to be on the lookout for any suspicious recorder placement and pick up activity.

Or just buy as stereo for your office and play it real loud all the time.

Maybe belch and fart a lot too.

It seems to me they want to eliminate all testing.

That's what happens when no-codes and nickle hams start running

Not really. You could maybe detect that it was turned on with an RF scanner. But if it is low power enough (most MP3 players are, since they are optimised for that) and well shielded, you would likely get nothing in today's RF polluted environment.
In addition the attacker may just add some more shielding to be sure. I think you can basically forget about this, unless you can take the devices away from people.

Naw, ARRL isn't trying to do that. I haven't seen anything in their current goals that would lead me to believe that they are trying to send the rest of our spectrum the way of 11 meters. I may be wrong, but I don't think the FCC would do that again (if any of the current commissioners are students of FCC history that is) even if the ARRL suggested it.

The numbers of Hams out there and how it's been dropping though the more recent years is an alarming trend. With the age of the average ham creeping higher, this hobby is set to all but die out in the USA within a generation unless something changes.

Surely you see the problem that the ARRL is trying to address. You may not agree with their suggested solutions, but you'd have to agree that we have a problem. Right?

Picking up any signal is out of question. However, if you are a paranoid suspecting someone is out to get you by recording, try this one:
When she gets in your room/office, sing some line of song, like,
"Hellooo, is it me you're looking for? I can see in your eyes..." etc.
Stop kind of suddenly, look at her in the eye, and say, "If someone recorded that song wouldn't it play back real nice?" She'll know you'd caught her at her game and would blush or tremble or something.

What is done is to generate a pattern of sound, only part of which is audible, and then detect the low level IF and RF that any sound equipment emits. Then follow the signal detected to its source.

They have the right to record themselves. I have the right not to have Nope, I am not one of "them". This is very much for real.

What is "3 AM".

Generate a pattern of sound part of which is inaudible?

IF and RF?

Your only real option is to hold your meetings in the middle of field, and for everyone to be naked.

Aside from that, unless you work for MI5 or have alot of money then the above would be far easier. If it was that important you wouldn't be asking the question here.

743. 10 Commandments for Navy Radiomen

The Ten Commandments of Electronic Safety

I. Beware of the lightning that lurketh in seemingly uncharged capacitors lest it cause thee to bounce upon thy buttocks in an unseamanlike manner and cause thy hair to stand on end, therby exceeding regulation length.

II. Cause thou the switch that supplieth large quantities of juice to be opened and thusly tagged, that thy days may be long in this earthly vale.

III. Prove to thyself that all circuits that radiateth and upon which thou worketh are grounded and thusly tagged, lest they lift thee to radio frequency potential and causeth thee to radiate with the angels.

IV. Tarry thou not amongst those fools that engage in intentional shocks, for they are not long of this world and are surely unbelievers.

V. Take care thou useth the proper method when thou taketh the measure of high voltage so thou dost not incinerate both thee and thy test equipment. For verily, though thou hast no NSN (National Stock Number) and can be easily surveyed, the test equipment has one, and as a consequence, bringeth much woe to thy supply officer.

VI. Take care thou tamperest not with interlocks and safety devices, for this incurreth the wrath of thy department head and bringeth the fury of thy Commanding Officer on thy head.

VII. Work thou not on energized equipment without proper procedures, for if thou dost so, thy shipmates will surely be buying beers for thy widow and consoling her in ways not generally acceptable to thee.

VIII. Verily, verily, I say unto thee, never service equiment alone, for electrical cooking is a slow process, and thou might sizzle in thine own fat upon a hot circuit for hours on end before thy maker sees fit to end thy misery and drag thee into his fold.

IX. Trifle thee not with radioactive tubes and substances lest thou commence to glow in the dark like a lightning bug and thy wife be frustrated and have no further use for thee except thy wages .

X. Commit thou to memory all the words of the prophets which are written down in the 300th chapter of thy bible which is the 'Naval Ship's Technical Manual' and giveth out with the straight dope and counseleth thee when thou hast suffered a ream job by thy division LPO (Leading Petty Officer).

Sure, but it just isnt practical.

Wouldnt be enough given the minimal leakage from a decently designed solid state MP3 recorder. In spades with one that has been designed to be undetectable.

> But is there any leakage from solid MP3 recorders?

Corse there is, but the level will be so low that you wont be able to find it with all the other stuff around that is radiating, even if you turn off everything in your house when a visitor shows up.

I'm sure there is a tiny bit, but it cannot be much from such a small device operating off very low voltage and the frequency is an unknown variable. it goes back to the idea about a controlled environment and very expensive equipment, that you'll probably have more background noise than what's coming from the recorder, to find it would entail what amounts to an active search.

Would an all nude work environment be acceptable? It would make hiding such devices difficult so you wouldn't have to do anything untoward like searching people.

Then the only practical alternative remaining is to have them consent to and go through a metal detector, and of course it has to be actively manned to discriminate a potential recorder from some other device, object, etc.

If you find what might be an MP player, you won't be able to determine if it's recording, rather than playing, or if recording off the radio. Unless MP3 players become illegal devices, or at least clearly posted as banned on private premises, you can't justify a search or seizure either (depending on laws in your locale). If private property, the other party may still refuse a search and seizure attempt.

Even scanning for such a device's radiated energy at entrance to an area, that wouldn't prevent them from turning on the device later. Unless you have the expectation that you can seize such equipment, you should follow the same guidelines you should have otherwise- not saying anything of importance in the presence of someone who can't be trusted not to repeat, reproduce, etc., in any way.

Ultimately going to such extra lengths will tend to make people suspect you have something to hide and put your activities under more scrutiny.

What are you doing? Water divining with the twig split 90 degrees? Or searching for MP3 recorder output with the birch twig?

Thanks Kony. So the MP3 recorder is essentially undetectable during its operation. OK. Thanks.

Maybe that explains why I can't find any follow-on products for tape recorder detection while many of the the older devices are no longer available.

If a 12 year old can learn it I don't consider it much of a technical skill. Nothing at all technical about CW. Building a transmitter, now that takes somw technical know how.

Acoustic energy then, what the microphone/audio detection picks up. (It will cover more frequencies that humans can hear.)

The pattern is on at a particular time then off, it varies in certain ways that will enable further analysis of any:

Intermediate Frequencies (IF) or Radio Frequencies (RF) given off by a device reacting to the pattern of sound.
If there is any IF or RF detected that corresponds/matches the on off times of the pattern of sound, you know there is a device responding to the sound in the room.

A more sophisticated analysis of the detected response to the pattern, can provide a great deal of information about the device detected. That would be beyond the scope of your question, and your security clearance, as well.

It should not come as a surprise, that security concerns that deal in high level technological detection devices, don't advertise to the general public that much. Search harder.

I hinted at that a couple of days ago.
It has been amusing watching some of the replies from some of the people here.

I'm not so sure this technique will work with an IC that has constant current, continual encoding of even silence as a typical MP3 player/recorder is likely to use. There might be a theoretical difference but one far more difficult to measure than even anything at all from the device.

Newsflash. Your radio will still work just fine and you will still be able to talk to other hams any way you like. That IS what ham radio is for, after all. Other peoples exam scores will have no effect on your ability to operate your equipment. Are you gonna tell another ham in Berlin than you can't talk to him because Jack Sprat in Iowa got his licence without code? Is your radio experience dependent on some strangers [who you many never talk to] credentials? If so, then your ham license was worthless the day you passed your test.

You would be surprised at what is being done.
As one of my techs used to say. "Noise, what Noise".
But then this stuff tends to be kind of pricey.

You know how an IC gives off heat in relation to how hard it is working, ("constant current" is a myth) heat is only one part of the electromagnetic spectrum. Switching devices certainly produce as much "noise" when they operate as analog devices, more in most cases. We have devices that can detect very, very low wattage signals.

Sorry for my rather unhelpful reply, I'm having one of my moments where I only talk to microcontrollers.

Seriously though. There's very little in world that's so important. I've worked with people that would record meetings thinking they were of vital importance when in actual truth, no one could care less.

I guess it would just cause people to be more careful about what they say.
I'm unable to view those videos you've supplied as this is a development machine without any clutter on it.

eBay could be a good place to buy such things though. All sorts of stuff comes out of the AsiaPac.

Scheissman always thinks that I am Lloyd, Todd, or someone else. He wants to know so badly that he will guess the day away trying to figure it out. It's ok though because if he had any guts he would have showed up at Dayton this year. Instead he hid again and didn't want to show up like the coward that he is. I would have gladly met him but you can guess that he would have ran back under the rock he lives under.

Especially when a guy like Scheissman hides behind the door every time someone is ready to talk to him, it shows his character.

That sounds like BS to me. Of course cellphones are very easy to detect that way, and I expect that is what he is showing off. Forget about non-woreless devices. They have several orders of magnitude less RF emanations. This guy is likely demonstrating with cellphones and then claiming he can detect the other things without ever demonstrating.

A friend of mine is 88 years old, and has been an active ham since the 1940s. His license is due for renewal next year. He doesn't have an FRN, doesn't own a computer, and doesn't have internet access.

As I understand it, he would have to obtain and submit FCC Form 160 to get an FRN. Then he would have to obtain and submit an FCC Form 605 to apply for renewal. The 605 form is not unique to amateur radio and is not particularly easy to fill out.

Isn't there an easier way for a long time ham to renew his license? In the past, he just submitted a 610 Form. I wonder how many long-time hams have lost their licenses because of this bureaucracy.

this device will buzz and vibrate in his pocket as he walks around it works by detecting a variation of known R.F. frequencies that helps

No, constant current is a fact. The IC draws constant current in many MP3 players and does not substantially change it's heat output unless entirely turned off or put to sleep which is an entirely separate mode of player operation, not momentary in use like with a CPU.

We may have a mic on shielded cable running to a constant current chip that digitizes. It's spitting out digits when there's no noise as well as when there is. Yes there may be noise, but it may not vary as with the old analog, and certainly not as noisey as something more obvious- a transmitter signal.

>We have >devices that can detect very, very low wattage signals.

That may be useful if you have an object in your hand, but remember the unknown context of this thread, and that they can't be constantly false detecting cell phones, beepers, etc, providing the cell phone isn't recording off-grid which is a whole 'nuther issue.

No, contsant current isn't a fact. When an IC sends outputs the signals on the traces are switching and unless the same data is flowing you will see different currents depending on what data is bieng sent and what was sent before. Resistance can also change.

Normally people entering rooms have to pass through doorways. I would think any "open mike" that responds to the pattern should be considered a threat.

But look, you can believe what you want, your world can be a much simpler place, if you don't delve into these issues.

The signals are fairly constant, encoded bits regardless of whether there's silence or not. My argument is not whether the mere presences of signals can be deteced, but rather there is a significant enough difference in signal to detect with sound input versus silence (in the room).

Claiming you will see different currents based on the data is easy with the gear open and measurement by wire. Trying to find whether there is an unknown device present or not is not quite same situation.

Sure, but we haven't established that it really will be detectable based on a pattern of sound. Presuming it will because some other type of device can be detected isn't reliable.

> But look, you can believe what you want, your world can >be a much simpler place, if you don't delve into these issues.

This is a fairly generic non-applicable comment. We could as easily consider the opposite, that you can believe what you want and your world can be a much more paranoid place if you don't delve into the specifics- but either way we cannot assume detection without any evidence of same type device BEING detected in an applicable scenario. While a doorway detector could be more easily implemented than some, it's also not going to detect a device turned off at the time.

We'll have to consider the specifics of a digital recorder, and perhaps even more significantly one that might be chosen to be harder to detect if it were to be used for a stealthy purpose.

You seem to have a computer and Internet access. Have him over for coffee and help him get it done on your computer.

Have him bring a copy of his license and plan to take a few hours trying to get the details straight while reading the FCC's website help... I managed to do a change of address a while back, so I'm sure others can figure it out too.

QST had an article in the last month or two that explains all the steps...

Otherwise, contact the ARRL or some other VE and ask them how to go the paper route. Most will do it for a small fee.

If you're his friend, why not let him use your computer to register at the FCC. It's a one time thing, and he can get his license renewed. You can Elmer him through the process.

Well if it's not a problem to learn, let's keep the requirement and raise it to 13WPM. It's a bit boring doing code at 5 words per minute, and at 13 WPM you can copy someones call for help almost three times as fast.

Name one real/valid/probable scenario for this. Let me guess, you crash land on the moon, have only a D-cell battery, some wire, a butter knife, happen to find some crystals, some silicon, somehow beyond your knowledge or abilities, manage to build a transmitter, and send your SOS back to Earth. Is that about right? Nah, you'd die trying to make it iambic.

You are in violation of the Blogspot terms of service, which read in part:

"You agree to not use the Service to: (a) upload, post or otherwise transmit any Content that is unlawful, harmful, threatening, abusive, harassing, tortious, defamatory, vulgar, obscene, libelous, invasive of another's privacy, hateful, or racially, ethnically or otherwise objectionable; (b) harm minors in any way;"

Certainly the pictures are vulgar and objectionable to most viewers, and they are possibly intended to harass your perceived enemies.

But you know all about Terms of Service by now, don't you? They've been used to boot you from a couple of ISPs. You're a master at getting tripped up by ToS violations, because you never even think about them before you act.

Hey, Ace.

If you're going to cut and paste the message from me to geratol@yahoogroups.com from yesterday, at least give me credit, huh?

Here's my message --- compare it to yours....

The R&O released today covers a plethora of stuff. On a quick read, here are my notes on things that interested me.

1) Novice bands eliminated. Novices/Tech+ have same CW QRGs as General on 80, 40, 15M. 80 and 40M phone bands expanded, down to 3600 on 75M, down to 7125 on 40M. Extra phone segment on 75 expanded to 100kc (3600-3700), Advanced similarly gets 100kc (3700-3800), General now starts at 3800.

2) ISS communications can now be retransmitted (as shuttle comms have been allowed up to now).

3) You can now designate a specific club to get your call "in memorium".

4) People who flood FCC with many vanity applications on the same day will have all but one application rejected.

(There's a lot of other 'less interesting to me until I read the details' stuff in there too, much of it "housekeeping" in nature.)

The R&O released yesterday covers a plethora of stuff. Here are some notes on things.

Novice bands eliminated. Novices/Tech+ have same CW Freqs as General on 80, 40, 15M. 80 and 40M.

Phone bands expanded, down to 3600 on 75M, down to 7125 on 40M.

Extra class phone segment on 75 expanded to 100kc (3600-3700), Advanced class similarly gets 100kc (3700-3800), General will start at 3800.

This isn't in effect yet !!! But will be soon.

Top posting makes this very confusing.

However, I am convinced that nobody in industry or at the FCC cares about anything other than optimizing short-term revenue. The notion of optimizing spectrum use for the greatest good went out with the Carter administration. This is one of the greatest tragedies of our time in my opinion.

maybe you should step out of the dark and into the real world.
have you ever use a service monitor to scan a wide spectrum of frequencies?
i can tell you that wide band receivers on a mini board exist and are very sensitive to external R.F. when your standing beside the person with in 3 feet of them.
most devices these day's involve embedded processes which also uses R.F. clock devices. it would take a very high priced unit with proper casing and shielding to reduce the emissions low enough for this device to not detect it. most consumer electronics is very sloppy in the area.
in fact, there has been cases where cheaply made devices that xfer lets say audio information in a digital format causes their internal osc's to be unstable enough when voice is passing through the mic/pre'amp circuits, that some one with a high gain FM receiver can detect clear enough audio from a distance before it even gets encoded digitally for final destination.
the average joe wouldn't even think of this let alone attempt to waste their time in trying it how ever, there are people out there that spend a lot of time investigating consumer devices just for the purpose of simple wireless taps and detection of use.

Effective August 1999, radio amateurs may renew their own license, but only within the allowed 90 day filing window, using the FCC's new Universal Licensing System (ULS). But it can be very confusing since it requires advance CORES / FRN registration, assigning passwords and using this information to later update your FCC record.

The Volunteer Examiner Coordinators (of which the W5YI-VEC is one) have a different system which allows automatic registration of your call sign and electronic access to the FCC's license database. Even if you have already registered, we can obtain your license information to renew your Amateur Radio operator license. We can also handle mailing address changes for you ...even get a duplicate license mailed to you from the FCC.

Amateur operator licenses may be renewed any time during a filing window of 90 days before license expiration -- or up to 2 years after your license has expired. After the 2 year "grace period" is up, your license is cancelled by the FCC and removed from their database. To regain you amateur license privileges you will have to retake all of the needed examinations and you will be assigned a new call sign. Once a new license has been granted you may be able to get your old call sign back by filing for it through the Vanity System.

We offer a fast and easier method of getting your license renewed or address change updated with the FCC. We accept applications for address changes anytime. Renewals may only be submitted to us 180 days in advance of the expiration date and we will file it for you when the 90 day window for your expiration date becomes available.

We charge $8.00 for this on-line service -- a portion of which goes to the National Conference of VECs to help fund their annual Conference with the FCC. You may file your application online with us anytime electronically by clicking on the graphic link "Renew Your License Today Online" or you may print out the NCVEC 605 Form http://www.w5yi.org/documents/ncvec605.pdf and mail it along with your remittance to us at: W5YI-VEC, POB 565101, Dallas, Tx 75356.
A word about Social Security Numbers. Effective July 1999, the FCC began requiring that all licensees provide their 9-digit Social Security Number or CORES FRN when they obtain new, modified, upgraded or renewed licenses. This requirement was mandated by Congress as part of the Debt Improvement Collection Act of 1996. There is more information about this requirement and process on our web site and on the FCC ULS site.

To be obscene it must be these three things:

Whether the average person, applying contemporary community standards, would find that the work, taken as a whole, appeals to the prurient interest,

Whether the work depicts/describes, in a patently offensive way, sexual conduct or excretory functions [1] specifically defined by applicable state law,

Whether the work, taken as a whole, lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value.

and before you say anything, this applies to everyone...not just the government. Secondly if you don't like what on my website then don't go there...it that simple. But then again a stupid fuck like yourself would understand that, would they....and good luck, bloggers is owned by googles....you have a better chance getting a responds from the wall then googles.

I have used a spectrum analyser. I admit I am not an EMI expert.
However cellphone detection is far simpler than detection of other devices....

Oh, I know. But I was pointing out that the guy described does not need to have what he claimed. And in addition, how do you separate, e.g., the crystal in a high-powerd pocket calculator from the one in the MP3 recorder? Detecting RF energy is not that difficult. It becomes difficult if you have a lot of background noise or need an identification in addition.

That's what has always cracked me up about CB WADIO cops. Why do they attack others on the internet when they should be cleaning up the 11 meter

When you sit down at a VE test session the number of questions you have to answer over-all to be a Tech, General, or Extra class is less than it used to be and that's not including the questions lost when CW was dumbed down.

It's clear the FCC and the ARRL want to drive out all good hams from the service. Little by little they'll take away the non-phone portions of the bands and hand it over to the appliance operators. Like a frog in a pot of water that is raised to boiling point, one day us real hams will find we have no place to communicate on the ham bands that doesn't sound like CB. Apparently, I'm the only one seeing it coming. A ham who will stand for nothing will sit for anything.

Nope. You plagiarized that from http://www.blogger.com/profile/20477434.

At least take the time to think up your own material.

There are devices that can detect when electronic devices are being used.
There are devices that can be made that can detect almost any known material
If said mp3 player is made of that material it can be detected.

Exactly what happens to all Harley riders by choice.
Why are you so against freedom of choice? There's an article in Worldradio about how ham radio saved a guy's life. I guess FM saving someone's life doesn't count with you, huh?

Which is not entirely applicable, since plenty of non-recorders are made of circuit boards, ICs & other discretes, and some plastic. Cell phone and pager are two quite common ones.

Detecting electronics devices in general, is it useful? We dont know the exact scenario, what the result would be of a positive detection but as above, cell phones and pagers would tend to be caught and are going to be far more common and innocuous than a recording device, though in the former case, the phone may have recording capability too.

Yep, and all are detectable, and all have signatures.

Depends on who you ask
The OP is not the only one who wants to ensure no one is able to record conversations, or hear conversations they should not be hearing.

True enough, but the technology is there to do what is being requested. Now if the OP can afford it, or even obtain it is a different issue.

You'd be surprised where people can hide things:

And what is a common item to circuit boards, IC's, cell phones, pagers, MP3 players, etc.
There are devices made to detect the presence of semiconductors, and these have been out for ages.
And now with the war on terror going on, you would not believe what kind of sensors they are coming up with.
Minor modifications of some of these units would not be very difficult to detect a mere MP3 in someones pocket.
But then these would not be cheap either, if you can even get one.

Well shielded (for example, wrapped to copper foil), 1.5V AAA powered device will give EMI below ambient level. If its clock generator employs spread spectrum, it's even more difficult to detect.

Detection is a minor problem. Correct identification is the issue. This is likely infeasible, unless you have the specific recorder in question beforehand. And remember that you wanted to know whether it is recording. Even more difficult....

That's probably what I'll do, although he lives about 25 miles from me these days, and I don't like the idea of an 88 year old driving that far.

My gripe is that renewing a ham licesnse shouldn't have to be any more difficult than renewing a drivers license. Until recently it wasn't. They've made it easier to get a license (VE sessions vs. a trip to the FCC Office), but harder to renew.

There are four hams in my family and we've got the online renewal thing worked out. But for an older ham without a computer, it can be a real problem. He shouldn't have to pay someone to renew a free ham license!

Thanks for you reply, Bob.

On the other hand, all it takes is one Taylorville resident to put up a low power FM transmitter, and I know people in your area who would be willing to do that for me. Like me, they belong to the Illuminati, and most of them will gladly help me out.

Don't press your luck. Luck, plus being an insignificant small fry, is the only thing that has kept you out of court.

Luck apparently ran out for Roger this week. Some skinheads he is supposed to have insulted on a web board somewhere are rumored to have paid him a visit a few days ago. Don't make the same mistake he did and mouth off at people you don't really know. Some of them might be violent.

Why don't you take your "skinheads" along with your bravado and go find yourselves some raghead Islamo-facists to rough up. You would have a "field

Sure, but I don't think the MP3 recorder would work very well in there, so

You have not established that the signature (difference) of such a device can be discriminated from a different device.
The scenario has not been defined enough to know if the device will be turned on within the distance of the scanner/other detection device.

Random ideas that "something" similar is possible is not same as application in a specific scenario.

No. A hint, but not a full scenario might include something like what happens if "something" is detected, both the full purpose and result.

You have not established this. That some fields can be detected, that it can be known if something is running, is not same thing as knowing a digital recorder is running.
This difference is quite important in many scenarios because OTHER types of devices are far more common in modern society than digital recorders.

Yes, which is one of the reasons why detection of these won't help, unless ALL such devices are banned which is unlikely... but again, we dont have the specific scenario to consider.

>There are devices made to detect the presence of semiconductors, and these >have been out for ages.

I would believe you are taking a random unfounded presumption that someone "could" be possible without supporting evidence, nor consideration of what would be necessary to distinguish this particular device.

>Minor modifications of some of these units would not be very difficult to >detect a mere MP3 in someones pocket.

Unfounded speculation. "Maybe" it's easy enough to detect the device when turned off. "Probably" if you were close enough to the device you could even detect that it's turned on. That's a far cry from identification as an MP3 player, let alone one that is recording, vs another mode of operation (like playback, wouldn't it be highly possible someone who has an MP3 player, would have it to play MP3?)

>But then these would not be cheap either, if you can even get one.

Establish that such a device exists at all, that can detect an MP3 player recording, specifically discriminate it from other devices. Nevermind if we can buy it or how much it costs, establish that it can be done at all as so far you have not.

To detect semiconducter junctions the operating state of the device being measured is not important.

Your lack of knowledge of the systems involved is not my problem.
The technology does exist to do what the person wants.
Now how large this equipment is, and how much it costs, and even if it is available to us regular joe blows is something different.

What "it"?

MP3 players recording?

I doubt it, show us even a complete theoretical description of it being possible including the readings from such a demonstration... let alone a purpose built device that exists for this purpose.

Electronic devices made the point.
They exist, you may not be aware of them, but that is your issue.

Devices are being discriminated by their signature.
Various sensors are doing this.

Do you know how many MP3 players are out there?

Now how about the phones that can record? A theory about what might be possible someday, is not same thing as what IS being done today.

You seem to be vaguely claiming it's possible without really considering EXACTLY what is necessary.

It's not my issue to claim detection of different devices proves detection of an MP3 player recording. Rather, it is your burden to be specific with the claim that it's possible by showing even one reproducible example.

We have no reason to believe a scenario like the OP has (too vaguely) posed, would allow identification of a device as an MP3 player that is recording. Identifying the existence of "some" kind of device, then a search uncovering this device
and a physical examination to determine that it is recording (looking at the screen or lights) is another matter.

Yeah, so what. There are devices that can detect semiconducter junctions.
MP3 players have semiconductor junctions, hence they can be detected.

Semiconductor junctions can be detected today.

Hogwash.
You seem not to understand what can be done with electronics.
There are some devices that use the priciples of a MRI and shrink it down to a hand held sized device to scan for explosives. Since the compounds in explosives give off a unique signature after being exposed to a strong magnetic field, that signature is then stored in memory. Now your sensor emits a magnetic field, and the reciever looks for the signature of the explosives.

So it is only a matter of expanding your signature library, and your receiver can be programmed to look for pretty much anything.
This is only one of many new tools that are out.
The semiconductor junction detector has been out for around 30 years.

Don't see why not - it's a solid state device. Disguise a little mic as a labial piercing stud, run the wire up the folds, and it's very unlikely anyone would inspect it closely enough to figure it out, even if it were visible behind the bush.

Having the recorder embedded would help reduce what little detectable EMI a low power device like that give off, and the mic wire would only carry audio freqs, which don't transmit very far at those power levels.

You just have to think outside the box a bit.

I never said it can detect an MP3 player recording.
I said it can detect an MP3 player, or pretty much anything electronic.

Actually what he needs is a device to scan for electronic devices, and they exist already. How the OP handles the knowledge of such sweeps depends on him.
He can either ask for the people to remove all electronic devices, or he can watch what he says.

> would allow identification of a device as an > MP3 player that is recording.

Not recording, but its existence. Its existence can be determined, and it does not have to be on, as there are devices that look for semiconductor junctions(pretty much any electronic device that has at least a diode in it).

> Identifying the existence of
> "some" kind of device, then a search uncovering this device

True, but the OP would know there is some kind of elctronic device on the person that may be capable of recording. How the OP uses that info is up to him.

Yeah, good point. I never considered an external mic. I guess the nude office will have to ban labial studs. They should also ban scrotal studs in the interest of fairness.

No, you can detect semiconductor junctions then, but not the identity, nor function, of what larger device you have detected as having semiconductors.

Again, we are not merely trying to detect some arbitrary substance, it has to be a complete detection that discriminates a recording MP3 player. If all we cared about was that "something" was there, we have no need to consider semiconductor presence at all.

You seem unable to describe any way to discriminate the very thing this thread is about.

Ok, but again, it doesn't tell us the purpose of common items like plastic, or semiconductors. Explosives aren't going to be used in practically everything that plugs into a wall or takes a battery.

>Since the compounds in >explosives give off a unique signature after being exposed to a strong

Maybe some, but not all will give off a magnetic field. It doesn't matter though, there is nothing in particular in an MP3 player that would discriminate it from a cell phone. Is it not obvious to you that common items people are allowed to have, can't be false detected? Perhaps whoever is subject to this search is first told to empty all pockets of such things, but as already written, we'd need to know such a scenario to delve into this kinds of tangents.

>Now your sensor
>emits a magnetic field, and the reciever looks for the signature of the >explosives.

Great, if a recording MP3 player is made out of explosives.

You seem to have trouble distinguishing between random non-applicable information and the crucial details necessary to discriminate a recording MP3 player.

>So it is only a matter of expanding your signature library, and your >receiver can be programmed to look for pretty much anything.

Nope, and you might as well stop pretending you know about this stuff because you have pretty well given yourself away.
There is no one signature an MP3 player would have, it's not made of one unique material and there are myriad different players with different % of several materials, but practically all of them are commonplace, unlike explosives.

>This is only one of many new tools that are out.
>The semiconductor junction detector has been out for around 30 years.

Show one recording MP3 player having been detected like this, anyone who claims they have a specific device that does it and can explain how- because it sure as heck isn't using a signature like with explosives.

The thread is about detecting an MP3 player. Show us it can be done, regardless of whether recording or not. It would have to be discriminated from other devices, and DEPENDING ON SCENARIO, from a fair distance and continuously, else the person carrying it just turns it on when needed.

I have never claimed "electronic devices" can't be detected.
It's not enough, electronic devices are everywhere! It'll have to discriminate, unless you're in a 3rd world country where they can just go ahead and shoot anyone they suspect-so there was no need for a scanner at all.

I don't want to be recorded.

But I would like to know if I can be detected if I do attempt to make a recording.

But the signatures of plastic, batterues can be put into a library and the scanner will then alert you of there presence.

It is not the magnetic field that is being detected, it is the signature emitted when exposed to a magnetic field. IE when the molocules return to a normal state, they emit a signature.

Yep, and there are devices that can detect electronic devices.
How the OP uses that Information is up to him.

You have been doing that this entire thread.
The OP needs a device that can detect electronic devices, he can get one for under 1000 dollars. Now how he uses such a device is up to him.

OMEGA ONE RADIO WILL BE RETURNING

OMEGA ONE RADIO will be returning either tonight or tommorrow on 13.556.00 MHz we've got another transmitter and we will be getting it up soon...we have to change the wires in the interface and it should be up and running....were also in the process of putting up a 6Mhz antenna and that will be hopefully done this week.

Your last sentence is why "kony" won't get his "make&model" for such a detector. Or any more of a technical description than I have given him, of how they work.

I note that he isn't supplying the "Make&Model" of his undetectable MP3 Recorder. He provides an argument that no such detector could exist, based totally on his theories of what is possible, but then complains that no one will provide him with more than a basic theoretical description of the workings of a device, that its makers, sellers (usually the same people) and users, don't want working details generally available. Counter-surveillance devices are like alarm systems, you don't want to tell anyone the details of how one works. No one, who knows, is going to provide "kony" the "proof" he is demanding.

Luck;
Ken

The specific scenario should have been, needed to be mentioned at the opening of the thread. Because it wasn't, the time spent on the thread wasn't very productive and many have lost interest.

I would find any test of any existing piece of equipment, a great start towards proving an MP3 player can be detected (as an MP3 player, since it may not be enough to identify a mere presence of an electronic device).

> I note that he isn't supplying the "Make&Model" of his >undetectable MP3 Recorder.

Recall that I'd mentioned the issue of scenaro already.
What is or is not detectable depends on scenario. Can they seize ALL unidentified devices? Will the person be in a random or controlled environment? Indoors or out? Will the person carrying on the conversation need have a concealed detector that monitors in realtime, and at what distance, or only an initial or point-of-entry scan? What other devices are known to be present in the vicinity?

I have never suggested it was impossible to detect that someone electronic exists in general. Pinpointing the device, identifying it, or even finding that it exists in a specific scenario, let alone that it's recording, is what I dispute has not been proven or even reasonably suggested.

Randomly pick a small battery powered MP3 player. Remember that I need not pick _ONE_ because such a concealed device is not limited to being only ONE type of recording MP3 player, the detection equipment would have to be able to detect any and (practically) all types of recorders, but not detect any other common devices, not excessive false positive alerts.

>He provides an argument >that no such detector could exist, based totally on his >theories of what is possible,

Based on no details that are useful to discriminate what an MP3 player is and it's operation in recording.

If the topic had been detecting a RF transmitter of some sort, or a know class of substance like explosives, that is a different matter. Both have a few known signatures. So I suggest that until you can describe what the unique signature is that is unique to recording MP3 players, there is no way to detect them, and only them, selectively.

>but then complains that no
>one will provide him with more than a basic theoretical
>description of the workings of a device, that its makers,
>sellers (usually the same people) and users, don't want >working details generally available.

There is no basic theoretical description that has been provided relating to an MP3 player- the whole purpose of the thread. This is a key detail that cannot be overlooked. That some generalized similar concept of "detecting" some other thing is possible, can only be held true if there are unique detectable, in the specific scenario, attributes common only to MP3 players, or perhaps by extension, all small digital recorders but not other devices.

>Counter-surveillance >devices are like alarm systems, you don't want to tell >anyone the details of how one works. No one, who >knows, is going to provide "kony" the "proof" he is >demanding.

So what we have is a generalized concept of "it works for a secret reason". Sorry but that is anything except a reasonable argument, let alone proof of concept alone.

We have to have at least 3 things:

1) A specific, exact scenario.

2) A method for discriminating recording MP3 players from everything else, in the exact scenario. Not some vague concept of detecting semiconductors, a mere HF signal or anything else that is not unique to a multitude of different MP3 players.

3) A device that can reliably use that method in that scenario.

#2 is the linchpin, #3 may indeed be possible after #2 is resolved to #1. So it is with any purpose built device.

And now we will see Kony saying he knew that there was no such device, and that we were just spouting garbage.

• 2.815 External radio frequency power amplifiers.

* * * * *

(b) No person shall manufacture, sell or lease, offer for sale or lease (including advertising for sale or lease) or import, ship or distribute for the purpose of selling or leasing or offering for sale or lease, any external radio frequency power amplifier capable of operation on any frequency or frequencies below 144 MHz unless the amplifier has received a grant of certification in accordance with subpart J of this part and other relevant parts of this chapter. These amplifiers shall comply with the following:

(1) The external radio frequency power amplifier shall not be capable of amplification in the frequency band 26-28 MHz.

(2) The amplifier shall not be capable of easy modification to permit its use as an amplifier in the frequency band 26-28 MHz.

(3) No more than 10 external radio frequency power amplifiers may be constructed for evaluation purposes in preparation for the submission of an application for a grant of certification.

(4) If the external radio frequency power amplifier is intended for operation in the Amateur Radio Service under Part 97 of this Part, the requirements of Sections 97.315 and 97.317 of this chapter shall be met.

Many cellphones have dictophone capability. How do you tell if the cellphone

So it can tell semiconductor junctions of an MP3 recorder from semiconductor junctions of non-recording devices?

Th OP question was detection not any semiconductor device, but a MP3 recorder. By the way, the recorder doesn't have to be in that room. Enough

Yep, and that can be detected.
What you do with the knowledge that the person has an electronic device that may or may not record is up to you and what you want to do.

By that you must specifically mean the cell phone.
Clear details matter a lot.

>What you do with the knowledge that the person has an electronic device that >may or may not record is up to you and what you want to do.

It's essentially useless information because in modern societies every other person has a cell phone or beeper, MP3 player or whatever. One could not conduct business in an environment where they had to make some random speculation every time they came across the existence of an unknown electronic device, but as importantly, it still has not even been established than in any specific scenario, the MP3 recorder would be detected at all. yes it's possible to detect that an object exists, but it's also possible to have a scenario where the testing method doesn't detect it.

Yep, that is all you have.
Another such technology is called Quadrapole Resonance or QR. Originally developed by the Department of Defense to detect land mines, QR directs a beam of radio waves at an object. The radio waves will penetrate the object and infuse whatever is inside. When the radio waves pass through an explosive material, the molecules of that material will polarize or develop a small electrical charge. As the molecules lose their charge, they emit a very weak radio frequency signal that can be picked up and analyzed to detect explosives.
Because it relies on harmless radio waves that are easy to produce and monitor, this technology is considered to be one of the most promising in the field.

> MRI detects primirily concentration of hydrogen atoms. It requires quite

And another one that needs to keep up on technology
Here are some links that will explain what I am talking about.

http://gazette.gmu.edu/articles/4925/
Sauer's studies are focused on nuclear quadrupole resonance (NQR), a type of radio frequency spectroscopy that can help identify many substances without the use of a large static magnetic field

http://www.americanscientist.org/template/AssetDetail/assetid/39131

The phenomenon of nuclear quadrupole resonance is akin to nuclear magnetic resonance, which is the basis of magnetic-resonance imaging. But unlike MRI scanners, instruments based on nuclear quadrupole resonance are not required to generate strong magnetic fields.

All this proves is that you have not read or understood my earlier posts. I described the way actual devices operate to detect any device that is detecting audio. It shouldn't be hard to realize that any device that is responding to a pattern of sound is a threat. For a recorder, of any kind, to record the audio in a room
it must detect it, and amplify the detected signal.
These processes can be detected, if this processing matches the on and off timing of a known pattern of sound, (which you control) you can isolate the device. (Your "2" above.)

I hope you aren't going to say that while this type of detector can detect that there is a device responding to the sound in the room, and help you locate it; this hasn't identified the device as an MP3 recorder. I would think even you realize that it is of no importance what the device is, that is responding to the audio pattern, it would need to be considered a live threat.

You might check into why the most expensive
"White Noise Generators" include a means to inject a user supplied signal into them.

Detecting and locating any device intentionally transmitting an RF signal is trivial in relation to this discussion. But the kind of device I have described can certainly detect that it is responding to the audio pattern, and locate it.

You made a suggestion that was not resolvable to a difference in operation of an MP3 player. With a constant current and constant bitrate output, you'd essentially be suggesting that from a distance you can discriminate which bits are flowing on the bus to the memory, in what is likely a shielded case. I find this highly unlikely.

>It
>shouldn't be hard to realize that any device that is >responding to a pattern of sound is a threat.

Sure, but even ignoring the issue of whether it's feasible to have test sound patterns at all, we don't have any evidence a digitally recording MP3 player will have a detectable response in particular scenarios, if in any at all.

> For a >recorder, of any kind, to record the audio in a room

The recorder does not necessarily need amplification prior to digitization, it is commonly a single chip solution that would not have to output to headphones either in this use.

"IF" the process existed, and "IF" the detection device was suitable sensitive, and "IF" the scenario allowed proximity, then perhaps it's possible. None of these three IFs can be assumed yet.

Not at all, I'm going to say the device won't detect the MP3 player recording at all in most scenarios, that it might detect "something" electronic is in the room but that's all, it won't ID it as an MP3 player nor that it is responding to sound in the room. "Maybe" if you had it right up against the recorder, but do you expect that scenario?

>I would think even you realize that it is >of no importance what the device is, that is responding

You're drifting down a tangent that has not yet been reached. I never argued that a detected response to an audio pattern wasn't suspicious enough to draw a conclusion about the operation of a device.

It still doesn't get us where we need to be, to detect a recording MP3 player reliably and discriminate it from other non-recording electronic devices. This is not the same as a tape recorder.

Mark and Todd need to collaborate on a video project like that and put it on youtube. Todd could do all of the video production and story boarding, and Mark could stand in front of the camera and do the Steve, CTITECH and FCC bashing. Think about how many people Todd's hate speech would reach then.

And there's also the lolicon cartoon art. Maybe they could make something that included animated material. The possibilities are endless.

Mine is a Kenwood TH-G71. Very good tx/rx range.

Add a better antenna no matter which radio you get. The Comet SMA-24

I was suggesting no such thing. I find your idea that an ungrounded MP3 recorder has any significant shielding, very unlikely. The recorder to be a threat and to respond to sound must let sound waves through, even if it is a contact microphone/sensor/transducer, and they require significant amplification in their operation.

It is not necessary to know "which bits are flowing on the bus to the memory", the detection takes place before that is even an issue.

If you are going to pretend you understand how the device I described operates, try to approach it from a different angle than; finding a way it couldn't work, then deciding that is what I must be describing.

So now you doubt that it's possible to generate a controlled pattern of sound? (You wouldn't be responsible for Rap "Music", would you?)

I'm no giving you "evidence". But I must have missed your "evidence" that the device I described doesn't work. Evidence is something besides your opinion, or your interpretation of High School Physics and needs to be based in proven limitations.

Try the following:
http://www.testequipmentdepot.com/ramsey/testequipment/rf1.htm
it's the cheapest way to even start to examine this issue with an attempt to establish some "evidence", you should be able to detect some response from a recording device. This is nothing like the device I was describing, but if you can see a result with this, even you would have to admit that much more sophisticated devices can do what I've described.

Almost all audio detectors/sensors require amplification, and those that don't, carry a significant bias current that gets modulated, more than enough to be detectable with modern equipment.

Isn't it fortunate that no one needs your agreement that it's possible, to make and use such devices.

I say that such devices can detect any device that is responding to a supplied audio signal pattern. Any device that is detecting the audio pattern. They can detect anything electronic, that generates electrical noise or signal when it detects acoustical energy.

There is a great deal more some of these devices can do in the hands of a skilled operator/analyst.

It looks like we have established that you are going to just deny the possibility. You can believe what you wish, it has no impact on reality what so ever.

You have been provided a description of how these devices can do just that, your only answer seems to be that you don't believe a device could work as I described. You provide no explanation (much less evidence) of why it couldn't work.

You seem intent on saying "No they can't work." I know that they most certainly do work. What point is there in further argument, on that basis?

That signature ... would it be from the azide bonds in a heavy metal azide, from the nitrate bonds in RDX or PETN cubane nitrate, or from the

be a breath of fresh air if it were.

This needed to be down years ago. Good to see the ARRL and the FCC are listening to the active Amateurs and doing what the majority want.

Interesting to know that Phone operators are appliance operators and CW operators are not. I guess the CW operators are all using Homebrew equipment and if not then I hope at least that every one of them that own a Yaesu FT-1000MP / D have done the CW modification and did it them selves without senting it to a repair place ?

More to the point, since someone was talking about an office-like setting, would be things like SCR (triode) dimmer switches built into the walls of the room, for perfectly good reasons. The phrase is "false positive", and if anything they're even more corrosive of ones confidence in the usability of a detection system than are false negatives.
(Had a bad week last week with a poison gas detector system going off every couple of hours. Every false positive meant that I had to kit up with the breathing apparatus and go to check the situation out.)

3B7, ST. BRANDON. Don Field, G3XTT, FSDXA Publicity Officer, reported on October 10th that the Five Star DXers Association (FSDXA) has announced that their next DXpedition will be St. Brandon (3B7), and it is to take place in September 2007. FSDXA, closely linked to CDXC (Chiltern DX Club), the UK DX Foundation, is noted for their D68C (2001), 9M0C (1998) and 3B9C (2004) operations. FSDXA plans to have up to twelve stations on the air, many using amplifiers and monoband beams, 24 hours a day, for almost three weeks, including three weekends, around the autumn equinox when DX propagation on all bands is typically at its best. They also plan to exceed 100,000 QSOs during this DXpedition using twelve FT-2000 transceivers along with six Quadra VL-1000 linears provided by Yaesu (principal sponsor). The team will be based on Isle du Sud, approximately 250 miles north-east of Mauritius. They have already received agreement in principle from the radio licensing authorities in Mauritius, and have now to finalize all the details of their permits. The last two expeditions to 3B6/7 were 3B7RF (53,533 QSOs) in 1998 and 3B6RF (64,239 QSOs) in 2001. The multinational team is already close to being complete, with the following having signed up to take part: 9M6DXX (Steve), DK7YY (Falk), DL7AKC (Jens), EI5DI (Paul), G0OPB (Tony), G3BJ (Don), G3IZD (Ivan), G3NHL (Chris), G3NUG (Neville), G3SVL (Chris), G3XTT (Don), G4KIU (Nigel), G4TSH (Justin), K3NA (Eric), N6HC (Arnie), SM5AQD (Hawk), W3WL (Wes) and WF5T (Paul). At this time they are seeking contributions from sponsors to help defray the very significant logistics costs of this DXpedition. There are several ways to donate funds (including PayPal). Visit the FSDXA Web sites for more details at: http://www.3b7c.com http://www.fsdxa.com

All donations will be acknowledged. The logos of all DX clubs etc.. which have helped to sponsor the DXpedition will be shown on the QSL card, as will the names and callsigns of those who make an individual contribution in advance of the DXpedition (subject, in each case, to a certain minimum amount). OPDX InterNet Subscribers will receive the first complete FSDXA Bulletin as an additional bulletin. G3NUG and G3BJ will be visiting St. Brandon later this month to conduct a detailed site survey. More information will be forthcoming once that survey is complete.

Also, look for XU7MDY to be active in the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Band entry (band not provided). QSL only direct and QSL info is available on QRZ.com.

ZL8, KERMADEC ISLANDS. The DX community was surprised this past week when ZL8R showed up on the air without much of an advance notice of an operation to take place. Word leaked out on Monday, October 9th, that nine operators left Tauranga, New Zealand, on October 7th, on the famous "Bravehart" for a three day voyage to Raoul Island in the Kermadec group. No callsign, QSL route or other details were reported at that time. The official announcement was released on October 10th stating: "The Microlite Penguins DXpedition team is now active from Raoul Island in the Kermadecs using the callsign ZL8R. Activity will last for about 8 or 9 days, and will cover as many bands and modes as possible. The expedition team is: EI6FR, HB9ASZ, K9ZO, N6MZ, N0TT, VK6DXI, W7EW and 9V1YC. QSL manager is VE3XN. Many thanks to Icom America for sponsoring six IC-7000's for this DXpedition. Thanks also to the New Zealand Department of Conservation (DoC) and the crew of the R/V Braveheart. The DXpedition team would also like to say thanks in advance to all those individuals and clubs who sent in donations with their QSLs. Your generous and continued support of expeditions like this helps keep the magic of DX alive."

ZM2, NEW ZEALAND. Members of the East Coast Contesters will be active as ZM2M during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) from the East Coast North Island Zone 32 as a Multi-2/All-Band entry. Operators mentioned are: Lee/ZL2AL, Stan/ZL2ST, Mike/ZL2CC, Chris/ZL2DX, Peter/ZL2LF and possibly others. QSL via ZL2AL.

Good Grief! It's as if the US Navy really does control the ARS, just like they wanted to do in the early days. With the Navy, its all about tradition.

Define significant. Many have grounded copper foil in them.
It's not as though this is a high powered device to begin with, though, and would commonly have to be detected at a distance.

No, you are thinking of older devices. There needs be no amplification prior to the digitization chip which can run at constant current, very low voltage and no easily detectable response to room noise from a distance.

We might consider it mere coincidence that it is recording something, because the means to that end are different than in a recording device with a different (end) medium and analog amplification.

I'm not going to pretend anything, I'm suggesting you are not describing an MP3 player in recording mode.

All the rest of your supportive argument hinges on being able to detect a signal that may not exist at all, or in cases where it does, are not sufficient strenth to measure at any distance. Remember it is not enough to find one particular MP3 player, nor a dissimilar device like a tape recorder, that can be detected- it has to be effective against the entire class of devices, or at the very least the common ones available on the market.

Still consumer electronics do not have very good shielding.
Hence it would be a very minor task to detect the sampling clock of the recorder in question. And most of the times the sampling rate is specified by the MFG.

You still have the sampling rate, which requires a clock at that rate, so at a minimum that clock can be detected.
And most designs would include an amplification stage prior to digitization, as the levels from most mics will not be sufficient, and also to add isolation between the input stages.

Doesn't have to be very good, only has to further reduce emissions which likely weren't at a level high enough to discriminate recording mode even without the shield.

That does not indicate it is an MP3 player, let alone recording. There is no one "sample clock" common to all MP3 players.

Manufacturer of the chip, yes, not the MP3 player, and
"spec" really means, hardware support as it can't be selected at random like with most computers running soft codecs. Even so, this rate is not usually a separate oscillator, the chip itself has a clock that can also vary per chip. It is certianly not something that remains constant over all MP3 players, and not a signal that appears only when set to recording mode.

No, it does not. Clock rates are divisible or multiplied these days, and these rates are often common to process sizes, or current targets, not a specific functional requirement. In other words, it's a safe bet you cannot detect a recording MP3 player with a universal "sampling rate" detection scheme, even before considering they won't all necessaril record at the same rate, further lacking consideration for any possiblity of variable rate or spread spectrum.

>so at

Sufficient for hearing through earbuds, no, that'd be amp'd.

Sufficient for a microchip DESIGNED to use a mic input to digitize MP3? It would be an incredibly poorly designed chip if it had to have a preamp tacked on after the mic.

>and also to add
>isolation between the input stages.

You are thinking old-school multi-stage, possibly even discrete audio designs. All-integrated single chip MP3 players (recording) isn't directly applicable.

And most consumer electronics are not very well shielded, hence it is a snap to pick up their emissions with off the shelf test equipment.

So what. It still indicates the presence of a device that can record the persons converstaion, and that is what is required. It can be a dictation device some other kind of recorder, it would still be detected.

All you need is the chip, and usually the OEM will list what the chip MFG states anyway.

Usually you have an external clock needed to feed the codec. That clock can be detected as well.

Without a sampling rate, there will be no conversion of analog to digital. You have to take so many samples of the analog signal.

"Most" don't have any shield at all. MP3 players, commonly do. Further, "most" consumer devices have an order or two of magnitude, more active parts in them and use far more power, stronger emissions.

Further, detecting a very faint signal is not the same thing as having a strong enough detection and valid discrimination method between recording MP3 players and all other consumer electronics. Remember that we are not just trying to detect that some "thing" using electricity is present, it has to be identifed in function and is not just one device buy a multitude of different MP3 player (or other digital recorders too if you want to consider all types) recorders.

You will have to find a specific commonality, not just a vague generalization, to discriminate them. Even this much is premature- that commonality would have to exist which has not in itself been established.

No it does not. Did you think nothing but MP3 players have clocks, or that all MP3 players have the same clock rate?
Neither is true.

>and that is what is required. It can be a dictation >device some other kind of recorder, it would still be detected.

No, in some cases you might detect some devices, but it'd be random, you'd far more often detect non-recording or devices completely incapable of recording and wouldn't detect some actually recording. In other words, random and useless.

You'll need ALL of the chips in existence, and you'd find some are not putting out enough noise to be detected in a typical scenario. Maybe if you put a scanner up against the device. Is that really useful? If you had the device out already, no further scanning is needed at all unless you have far-fetched idea like if the MP3 recorder were built into a shoe-heel or a clock, etc. Even then, it's a matter of scenario. If that scenario doesn't allow getting the scanner close enough to find the shoe is a source, you'll never even know it was suspicious there was a noisey shoe.

I've gone off on a tangent though, for our purposes an MP3 player should be considered what is bought off the shelf.
OEMs do not "list what the chip MFG states". Most often you have to tear open the specific player and examine it yourself, or rely on reports from someone else who has.

Again you are thinking of older electronics, today's player/recorders are highly integrated. That doesn't mean ALL devices will have a different or undetectable, or indistinuishable clock signal, but it does mean you don't have a commonality that allows detection as an MP3 player, let alone one recording.

>> No, it does not.

The existence of a sampling rate does not suggest it is always the same rate nor that it is measureable in any particular scenario.

>You have to take so many samples of the analog signal.

Yes, but this does not lead to any of the other conclusions.

Yeah, Mark. Give them back. What a geophysicist like you really wants are the Ben Wa balls with an SEG logo on them. You can get them at the Society of Exploration Geophysicists web pages as a perk for paying your dues on line (see http://www.seg.org/join).

at times if they step out of line and dare to be different the fear was being different would cause harm to everyone for the jews it was not completely irrational as the Czars and Adolf have shown over the

First off... this is coming from General... who was Grandfathered...

I know many people who are not Extras and who have not passed the 20wpm that respect those OM very much. I love to sit at field day and watch in awe at a CW operator. Just because I can't do it doesn't mean I don't respect it. And there are many other people like that. So please dont lump all of us "meaningless generals" into one please.

Thanks!

But consider that you could probably do it, too.

Nobody is born knowing Morse Code. Those who know it, learned it and kept on learning it. They all started from zero. Sure, some people have more innate skill/talent than others, but that's just one factor. Most people learn to understand speech at more than 100 wpm - is 20 wpm code more complex than that?

Hi,

I have an ICOM IC-746 with backlight lamp damaged (the famous transistors talked on the web are good).

I need to get the Fluorescent lamp from the LCD, or even the LCD (if it has the lamp) to repair my radio.

If you have one please tell me.

Best regards,

I'm not against choice. They can choose to be a ham, or they can choose to be a CB'er. What they have to decide is how bad do they want to be a ham. I enjoy hams on the bands, if I didn't, I'd buy a CB.

I was just reading through all the weekend RRAP traffic and I noticed something.

Markie could learn a lot from Steve. Ham-and-cheese, Markie, and a few others attacked Steve, But did Steve follow-up to it? No.

Markie, you can learn from Steve. Don't follow-up to the attack threads. We don't care to see your one line of mis-spelled shit anyway, so it's not like we're missing anything important.

Markie, Take a break from RRAP for a while, go learn to spell, Learn CW. Then come back. I'm sure Ham-and-Cheese will welcome you back.

Most hams with blogs don't have a problem with visitor comments. The hams that visit mine don't leave nasty comments. Must be something unique to you and Markie. I was going to leave a nice thank you note on your blog as soon as you played a good song on Omega One, but I haven't heard you play a good song yet.

I do give you Five Stars on your Omega one anti-FCC rants and RRAP flame monlogues. LOL, those were funny as hell. I should have recorded them and sent them to a medical university so instructors could show their psych students a variety of different forms of mental illness, paranoia, and instability.

Anyone that made or is making an effort to be able to copy CW at 20 WPM, isn't going to have a problem having fun releasing a little solder smoke building things. The old 20 wpm extras seem to me to get more out of being a radio amateur than these latter day no-codes and nickle hams. Maybe that is why we see people getting licensed and they leave the service before their license even expires.

Getting a license and then leaving, that's not how it should be.

Thanks Todd. I look forward to hearing your moms shitty records and 8-Track tapes again. Your're monologues are hilarious too. 73, Keep up the good work.

I'm stocking up beer for the N9OGL NAL party. Plenty of beer enemas to go around for everyone. I hope you don't mind if K4YZ gives the beer enema's. Steve said he wouldn't come unless he could give the enemas.
Steve is a nurse, so I'm sure he probably knows how to give someone an enema.

No, You missed another ten questions, the CW questions, but since the

Don't know which HT to recommend, but a lot of No-codes like the Cobra 148GTL for HF.

ARRL is willing to let the problem get worse by not supporting policy that will improve or at least maintain the quality of individuals getting licensed. Maybe they don't care if hams are like CB'ers as long as the memberships keep rolling in.

Can you say: Breaker Breaker 19? That's where we're headed.

It's started going down hill about the mid-eighties and the ARRL pushed to make it go down hill faster. That crash at the bottom ain't gonna look pretty... or sound pretty.

Here's a valid reason for continued CW testing: To keep lowlifes like you and Markie out of ham radio and off HF. You're too lazy to try to be real hams. You see no value in being effective communicators, therefore you're both worthless to the service and if you had to use CW to save a life that person would die. You're both probably too lazy to use a microphone to help save anyone too.

I'd like to see the No-code Tech class go away with a 5 wpm Tech the being entry level to the service, or bring back a code only Novice class again.
Require 13 wpm code test for general and 20 wpm an Extra again.

People that don't like it should stay on CB. Ten-Four? This should provide you and Markie a lot to stroke each other with. You both seem to sing the same tune.

Trying to hijack the thread again, Mark?

Looks as if Chris put you in a corner when he said, "And before you go any further, be aware that I used to work with Falvey back in the 80's when I was employed as a geophysicist by the Gulf Research Company both in Harmarville, Pennsylvania and in Houston, Texas. We sponsored part of Falvey's research.

In short, I'm a real geophysicist. That's why I seriously doubt that you are."

Somebody called you out on your lies and now you have no comment save to accuse "Steve" of harrassing you again. You have no shame, do you?

No I didn't take the code test. You're absolutely no help. You just try and stir the pot. If you have so much knowledge why don't you share it with the group instead of just causing trouble.

I took the test the government of my country prescribed I take. If you don't like it call the FCC. I've long since tired of your whining.

I thought you knew everything there is to know about Ham radio. I thought you were the upmost authority on everything.

Sounds like you know from experience. Now we know who the CB expert is on the group.

Looks as if Chris put you in a corner when he said, "And before you go any further, be aware that I used to work with Falvey back in the 80's when I was employed as a geophysicist by the Gulf Research Company both in Harmarville, Pennsylvania and in Houston, Texas. We sponsored part of Falvey's research.

In short, I'm a real geophysicist. That's why I seriously doubt that you are."

No, it is not. Chris caught you in a bold-faced lie and now you are trying to change the topic so as to weasel your way around being outed.
You've been busted, pure and simple.

>Trying to hijack the thread again, Mark?
no thread to hijack

just another of steve effort to conuct harrassment and get an answer to question I refuse to answer and one that is off topic and not proper to begin with

The question is only "not proper" because it put you on the spot as being a liar and you are uncomfortable about being exposed as such.
Who are YOU to determine what is on topic or not on topic, anyway?
You have no credibility. No life, no common sense, and certainly no degree in geophysics.
All you have is Usenet and a sick fixation on Steve.

Well, in my part of the world, and the parts I can talk to lately, the most negative issues around "ham radio" are on the internet newsgroups, not on the airwaves. It is unfortunate that anyone would take the rantings and attacks of the few obviously "impaired" individuals that continually post crap in the newsgroups, as something that is indicative of the general state of "Radio Hammery". As with any human endeavor, there will always be some bad apples, and in usenet newsgroups, there is absolutely NO filter to keep out the people who wish to disrupt everyone else. At least not yet. Someday, when we all pay for our posts (it's coming, believe me) and we all digitally sign our posts to ensure we are who we say we are, then maybe we'll have civility and normalcy come back to the newsgroups. Until then, at least, the comraderie and decency of true hams will still shine out on the air, in good times and during emergencies, and we will all be seen for what we are, not what a few whackos would like you to believe we are turning into....

Thanks

It all boils down to a weapon vs armor arms race.

Suppose one vendor produced a device that can detect some device which samples at 8 kHz. More likely it will detect frequencies that are multiple of 8 KHz. Then, an MP3 recorder doesn't have to use any external xtal frequency which is n*8000 - an on-chip PLL is commonplace. A mic is connected directly to the chip, so it won't give any EMI.

Most reliable signature would be periodic access to the flash serial interface, though.

Still, if someone wants to record a conversation, undetected, a custom shield may be manufactured for the recorder (like 1 mm of permalloy/copper sandwich), and bingo: no detection.

Right it's a secret part of an "arms race", but the same lab(s) are developing surveillance equipment and counter-surveillance equipment. With unlimited funding, you can have your "Undetectable Device" and you can have a Device to detect the undetectable. It becomes what you can have at what cost and in what numbers. The more expensive and rare devices are reserved for the most sensitive and vital situations.

It is in the interest of those working the counter-surveillance side, that those thinking of using a surveillance device, not know the likelihood of their being an effective detection device in play or not. Things electronic get cheaper all the time, last year's rare laboratory sensor may well be in next year's field unit.

The combination of satirical irreverence and sense of justice that Bruce and Hoffman shared was the real spirit behind the Yippies--a term I coined to describe a phenomenon that already existed: an organic coalition of stoned hippies and political activists who engaged in such actions as throwing money on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, then explaining to reporters the meaning of that symbolism. Folksinger Phil Ochs summed it up: "A demonstration should turn you on, not turn you off." So when journalists link the Yippies with misleading bedfellows, at best it's careless shorthand; at worst it's deliberate demonization. Osama bin Laden wanted an aircraft to crash into the Pentagon. what is wrong is you trying to prettend you are not enaging is harrasment steve

Trying to hijack the thread again, Mark?

Looks as if Chris put you in a corner when he said, "And before you go any further, be aware that I used to work with Falvey back in the 80's when I was employed as a geophysicist by the Gulf Research Company both in Harmarville, Pennsylvania and in Houston, Texas. We sponsored part of Falvey's research.

In short, I'm a real geophysicist. That's why I seriously doubt that you are."

Somebody called you out on your lies and now you have no comment save to accuse "Steve" of harrassing you again. You have no shame, do you?

>Trying to hijack the thread again, Mark?
no thread to hijack

just another of steve effort to conuct harrassment and get an answer to question I refuse to answer and one that is off topic and not proper to begin with
....

The question is only "not proper" because it put you on the spot as being a liar and you are uncomfortable about being exposed as such.
Who are YOU to determine what is on topic or not on topic, anyway?
You have no credibility. No life, no common sense, and certainly no degree in geophysics.
All you have is Usenet and a sick fixation on Steve.

You haven't got a bid yet. Maybe talk Frank, Jay, Steve, Gates, DrDeath, AE352, and vinnie into getting on Skipland, and say they're all using telstar, and have them give out the auction link.

You know deep down inside, they really want one.

Isn't Woger eligible for one of those awards? He's over on N9OGL's web site yelling that he wasn't beaten up by skinheads last week, and I think that ought to at least earn him an honorable mention. N9OGL had no clue about what Woger meant, because there was no previous mention of skinheads anywhere on Todd's web site. That didn't stop Woger from telling Todd off about the skinheads anyway.

That's real kookism. That's definitely award material.

Hello Steveo:

Wow I am a celebrity. Probably need to charge for my autograph down at the Ham Radio Store, and the fillin Station.

Good Stuff Steveo!

I am having a ball with this Icom 756 Pro, with the digital signal processing, the use of a Mast Mounted Pre-Amp/Attenuator and the beam.

I do DX on 20M. I use my CB at night to talk to locals about 10-15 miles away. I tried cracking 80M at night, but those old folks key right up on each other, and it's impossible to break in.

Amazing; A new ham is excited about getting his ticket and these clowns get into his face about CW.

Next we will hear more griping about the hobby dying. No wonder. Just read these posts, who would want to be associated with such clowns. I am always amazed these clowns are so familiar with CB model numbers etc.

Hi Jay.

The dx conditions have been a bit spotty at best as of late here when I've had it on...which isn't as often as I used to fire it, but yes you are some kind of celebrity on 11 meters, anyway. I've heard guys talk about your antenna on the radio dx and nothing but flying colors so far. Mine still works like a charm and it's been through N Buckeye extremes with weather and input. Good to go.

I could have sworn I heard Woger on HF calling CQ on AM 27.185

Then it hit me... Thats CB channel 19! He was asking for something called a lot lizzard. CQ CQ CQ for lot lizzards from AB8MQ

Then he attempted CW on 6697 then I relized it was a military HF freq. His CW is a little rusty. He was sending YQ DX YQ DX

Whats wrong Wogie...

He didn't get a response because :

(a) His comments were concise, well written and in proper English...Traits that make it difficult for YOU to understand or "respond" to.

(b) Accurate and able to stand on their own merits.

You're "geussing"..?!?! What's "geussing"...??!

What's "Tharzine"...?!?! What's "cynide"...?!?!?

Why are you such an idiot?

Why do you continue to make such idiotic mistakes that only leave you subject to humiliation and ridicule?

BILLY SMITH STEPS ON HIS OWN DICK THUSLY WITH THESE FUCK-UPS:

<gsJRg.2244$o71.124@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"By the way, weren't you required to retest per a letter from FCC enforcement bureau? Shall we post the record for all to see again? They don't make people retest unless you have been accused or proven to have

committed rules violations."
Billy can't read the ARRL website which states:
NOTE: Issuance by the FCC of a Warning Notice indicates that the FCC
has what it believes to be reliable evidence of possible rules
infractions and not necessarily that the recipient has violated FCC rules. The FCC has the authority, pursuant to §97.519(d)(2) of the rules to readminister any examination element previously administered
by a volunteer examiner.

Billy "Dumbass who can't put together a sentence" Smith shows off those English skills, quite ironically in <VfQHf.14581$rH5.8121@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"That's interesting there idiot. I bet you really did flunk high school math and probably elementary too. Oh thats right, wasn't that when was in Floriduh. Spelled Florida but the DUH is for your Dumb Ass."

"wasn't that when was in Floriduh" - Billy makes good fuck up!

Billy "shoots" himself in his palsied club foot once again in Message-ID <Q0bJf.19641$vU2.7735@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Roger, shots himself in the foot"

Billy the "Rhodes" scholar fucks up again and even demonstrates he is an imbecile in <8uqwg.8275$vO.7632@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Right you are, wannabe Rhode's Scholar!"

Billy the illiterate retard Smith screws up again, and his illiteracy is exposed. "It serves him right."
in<hauKf.1410$S25.940@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Deserves him right."

Billy "retard" Smith confesses to his generally accepted retarded
status in <LwpLf.2321$F56.2317@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"I'm a general retard. bwhahaha"

Billy "spelling champ of the general retards" Smith admits his bad hygiene but is still in denial about his English skills in <QxpLf.2322$F56.1169@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>
"Sure I can spell and smell."

"Billy" the NOtwordSmith fucks up again with this incompete sentence in <qgyNf.5576$S25.341@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"So when you got divorced boy, did your finally figure out that your more"

Billy "cumgargler" Smith managed to awaken from his drunken stupor to slobber
in <fbIOf.442$sL2.25@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Isn't that you mom weighed"

Mr."Education" Billy Smith steps on his own dick again when he talks about others' "educations" (or educatiion" as he spells it) in <w7IOf.436$sL2.167@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Uh, huh. Right LOSER. Still smoking that dope again? By the way how is

"Come on, do it just have you some spiked Kool Aid."

"Didn't" your special-Ed teacher teach you how to spell, Billy?
in <OCqUf.16826$S25.10695@newsread1.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"...didnt Marie teach you to play nice"

"Rhodes scholar" Billy Lardass Davies Smith blunders and blows his cover again in <Et%0g.6340$sq5.1769@newsread2.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Rhode's scholar Scheissman blows his cover again."

Billy "dumbass" Smith steps on his own tiny dick when he tries to criticize others' typos,but he doesn't "perform" well as usual with his blatant "stupidity" in <oCk1g.5958$Es3.3907@newsread3.news.atl.earthlink.net>:
"Noteed!!!!!!!!!!!!! Bwhahahahahahah. You're a brilliant one

Billy "dropout pizza BOY" Smith fucks up his sentence again when he blathered in <WdZfg.629$lp.259@newsread3.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"How about those retest letter you received for jamming."

Billy "illiterate " Smith claims to have been in the Library, but he can't even spell "I've" correctly, maybe Billy should check out the English tutoring books there in WpFgg.1310$lf4.1288@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Ive been to quite a few libraries on Sunday and a lot of them are open."

Billy Smith "the" ill-educated moron fucks up again in <4zxLg.15720$Qf.5115@newsread2.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Roger is about to finally have th final episode where..."

Billy Smith stumbles on his club foot in his fat mouth when he tries to claim "hillbillies" are somehow inferior(he squeaks from "experience"?) in <7CdRg.11366$v%4.8492@newsread1.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Is that another fine quality of the Hillbilly state? You know, that third world one where you live full of miscegenation, inbreeding, and the like. Speaking from experrience again?"

Billy the spelling bee champ Smith fucks up again while trying to make fun of others' typos and pegs the irony meter in <my5Sg.1536$Y24.130@newsread4.news.pas.earthlink.net>:
"Would that by "that" Woger? How abou that Todd rather than "Taod"?"

OH BOY - OH BOY - OH BOY!!!!

Does this mean that we will get to hear those great recorded audio tapes of Lloyd, Woger and Mularkie Makkie in the HOT TUB together on GREEK NIGHT FRIDAY NIGHTS ????

You know! The one where you three and Bertha Bazooms and Sheena Silky (two 300 pould black wimmen who used to hang out at Brother Stair's farm)
all get together and perform acts of PRE-VERSION on each other? I don't know

Once again, Woger telephones the Northern Regional Jail and asks,
"Have I ever been in your jail?" You'd think he would have figured it out the last time he called the NRJ and asked the same question.

DeLorian claims that somebody threw a scare into you last week, Woger.

When Steve gets teased he doesn't follow-up, he ignores it. You need to learn to do that same thing, but you don't. You take a crap in every single thread, and if you think you missed crapping in a thread, you crap on it twice.

We're never going to get policy discussions going here again if you keep posting like a friggen retard. Just ignore steve. Learn to Spell, and Learn CW.

I'm motivating them. And when I catch them on the air, they have an enjoyable and educational contact.

When they find out CW, RTTY, packet, PSK, SSTV, are fun, they have just stepped in to a much larger ham radio, than one with just a ham talking on a microphone.

Yes you're right, unless you're trying to pass a message through someone that doesn't know how to speak english.

CW is a wonderful thing. Real communicators know CW and know how to use it.

Comments like the dumbed down item and the CB item will NOT motivate them.
To motivate them, simply say "Great, how can I help you explore all the aspects of ham radio".

> When they find out CW, RTTY, packet, PSK, SSTV, are fun, they have just

That is a much better approach so long as you don't go on and on about "dumbed down" licenses. The people taking the test have no control over the level of tests required. Simply show them the wonders of ham radio without comment on your personal opinions about dumbing down, CB, etc.

WEll, you could just stick an antenna up next to the player and see.
This is what a sandisk looks like playing mp3s.

1206. Interference with TV and Intercom

When transmitting on 20 meters my rig is causing interference to our home intercom (in the wall hard-wired unit) and TV (cable). I've checked the ground, the rig is new (FT-897), as is the antenna (G5RV-Jr). Antenna is located in attic due to neighborhood restrictions.

I'm guessing the the intercom wires in the walls are acting as a big antenna, but where would I start putting chokes on? Or would a filter at transmitter (low/high pass?) be where to start?

Such a bitter, inflexible, "my-way or the high-way" attitude might be coming from a very unhappy person. Pleasant people know how to compromise.

This guy could have inflamed hemorhhoids or a bad home life ... maybe both.

Seeing as how you have a license to be on HF, you should be able to figure that out. Im quite sure that question could be answered by going through your General theory book......

If you need to ask that question, you have no business on HF

Actually it is only for those who need extra info that I can provide clarification. Most others here don't seem to have that need.

10-4, you are a jerk of the first magnitude and second order. Most of us got our ticket to be on HF long before we figured out the subtleties and nuances of RFI.

OP, you've got two problems. One is classic TVI and the other one is direct rectification. Let's take care of the second one first.

Yes, your house intercom wiring is acting like a big antenna. Somewhere in the wiring or at the intercom there is a rectifying junction (can be as simple as the input transistor at the intercom or as subtle as a partially corroded connection somewhere else. Coupl'a questions. Do you still get the intercom interference when you are running directly into a dummy load? Do you still get the interference when you load directly into a simple dipole hung at some distance from the house on a temporary test?

Just FYI, the Feds have stated in no uncertain terms that homeowner/municipal codes (CC&Rs, ordinances, building codes, etc.) canNOT prohibit the reasonable erection of amateur radio antennas. "Reasonable" has not yet been tested in the courts as to whether a hundred foot tower with a ten element 80 meter beam with an aircraft prop motor for a rotor is reasonable, or whether a 2-meter dipole made out of #40 wire painted to match the house is reasonable. Put your damned antenna outside and let the chips fall where they may. THe Feds trump any lesser governmental restriction (state, county, city, or homeowner's group).

As to the TV part, is it on all channels, or just selected channels?

There are devices you can use that will detect devices that may be used to record your conversations. You will not be able to identify that it is an mp3 player until after a physical search.
So by using this device that basically will tell you that the person has some form of electronic device on them, be it a cell phone or mp3 player.

You can then use the knowledge of knowing they have this device to direct what you say or do not say
You may want to spend a few bucks and talk with a local private investigator about your concerns. He may also know where to obtain these type of scanners.

For your thread to have a productive outcome it needed to be posted either in the opening post or soon thereafter. Even now you are withholding this info so we have to assume you don't really care. If for some reason you were overly paranoid about something, you would merely leave out any specifics that were identifying.

The Feds do trump state, county, and city ordinances though it can be a long battle to get it done. However, they have also stated that in the case of CC&Rs, PRB-1 does not apply as that is part of the contract that you entered when you bought the property. There are bills being introduced to change that but they have not yet been passed into law.

The CW speed for repeater ID's should be lowered so new hams can feel pride in knowing what repeaters they're kerchunking. The ARRL recommends 5 WPM for repeater ID's but the FCC disagrees and suggests the speed should be lower because some individuals may have tested with W5YI and might only know CW to 2 WPM. Repeaters with voice ID's must be programed to talk slower to accomodate hams like Markie who are still learning the alphabet. Elmers who want to help new hams with their CW repeater ID skills, should focus on the letters found in phrases like "Welfare check" or "Food Stamps" as restructured hams are more familier with these terms. When a restructured ham can correctly identify the words "government-handout" or "breaker one nine", they're ready to ID repeaters on their own.

We should welcome new hams all that we can by slowing down repeater ID's.

Well, that's putting it mildly.

Not really.

"Slow Code" does not use his real name or call here. He's obviously looking for a reaction - aka trolling. He could be anybody. He could be Len Anderson, Brian Burke, Mark Morgan or someone else like Vshah101 or Cutie Boy. The fact that he says he's a 20 wpm Extra doesn't mean he (or she) is.

Thanks for the advice. I already went with Yaseu. Got a good deal on it. Listening to it right now. I'm picking up 12 repeaters on the duck antenna. Complicated to figure out to begin with but pretty cool. It even picks up 800 MHz police and am air. I'm in hog heaven.

No one ever said I wasn't going to study for the code. I would like to enjoy the privileges I just earned in the mean time. Why does everything have to do with code? There are lots of other aspects to the hobby. No one ever says why not try packet radio or SSTV? They always ask about code. I'd like to try everything but I got to start somewhere. I haven't even got my call letters from the FCC yet.

On UHF, try ATV (i.e. fast scan TV, which shows real time motion). Try VHF/UHF sideband. During contests there's quite a bit of activity. During band openings, you can work thousands of miles. There's still some enthusiasts doing AM on VHF in some areas. We have some FM simplex nets in our area that are fun.

You can even try code on VHF/UHF without having taken the code test. Lots of interesting things crop up.

Thanks Dee,

I'm very interested in 6 meters sideband. I've got the plans to convert a CB to 6 meters. I just need to find a CB with a board in it that will work. I'd like to try code on VHF too. That'd be great practice. My licence can't get here fast enough.

You've just been espionaged! (What a wonderful word!)

Anybody who's been following this thread, and understands the general field, now has a pretty good idea of the state-of-the-art in surreptitiously recording spy-vs-spy.

The initial conditions either weren't considered and were accidental, or were tailored exactly to get this state-of-the-art summary.

The question is, WHO have you been espionaged by?

Industrial spies?
Terrorist spies?
Government spies?
Other categories of spies?
An author writing a techno thriller?
All of the above.

Who would want to know that kind of information?

(Just what seems to me an obvious paranoid possibility. It would be a lot more fun than asking on the writer's help boards.)

Have a happy Halloween!

The FCC say's that the 20 wpm extras or no more important than someone with just 5 wpm. Isn't that why they changed it from 20 to 5 wpm for ALL HF LICENSE CLASSES. What your talking about is that you don't want to follow FCC rules. If there is a QSO on a frequency YOU should move not the people already there. Unless you have emergency traffic you have NO priority over anyone who is licensed to operate on any giving frequency. Have you even past a ham test? Maybe your license should be revoked until you can prove you have read and fully understand the part 97 FCC rules.

Thanks for the info!

It seems the QRM is on most if not all channels. My wife tells me my voice (garbled, since SSB) comes through the audio. I have not tried a dummy load or outside antenna.

One thing I did remember is that the FM antenna for the intercom is in the attic, where my dipole is located. That may explain the intercom QRM, though it could also be the wiring.

Will test and report back.

Hey, it doesn't really matter anyway.. Legal ID's can be done via a computer voiced audio stream which doesn't require that you know code to understand. Most of the repeaters in my area ID both ways and both are usually just pre-recorded audio files that get played by the repeater controller. It's the wave of the future....

But you knew that..

Just a note that the Feds do NOT preempt CCRs and HOAs. That is considered a private contract that you entered into of your own free will. However bills have been introduced to make it apply to CCRs and HOAs but they have not made it through (yet).

I've always liked Dee. She has always been one of the few here that doesn't mind arguing policy. I don't know how she has been able to stand all the Woger and Markie homo crap posts, but it's good she hung around to take policy. I just wish she didn't want to see ham radio dumbed down more.

I hear you,

Normally I just tell them: "Catch ya channel 19" and they QSY to 11 meters, but since I don't own a CB I don't show up. It helps clear the freq fast for your next QSO. Try it Sometime.

No, The one year non-renewable no-code hams would be issued callsigns from the old CB callsign blocks of the mid 1970's. After they pass the code test they get a real ham call unless they prefer to keep using the CB one.

It wouldn't take much for him to wipe shit off his face and clean up his act, but he refuses. I try to be nice because I know he's a retarded no-code, but even retards can learn how to use a spell checker. Even people that don't know him see he not palying with a full deck. It was bad the FCC come up with the codeless license. When Markie gets HF the bands will never be the same, a bunch of good hams doing what they can to keep from calling him a Lid, and Markie coming back after every reply with mindless retard babble.

That is true.

The cause for revoking his license is that he has a problem with following the FCC's rules. The rules are there for the benefit all of us. If he doesn't like the rules he should turn in his license in protest not spread hate. What ever happened to the true sprit of ham radio where those with higher knowledge would help left up those with less instead of pushing them down.

1. I filter the idiots out so I don't see their posts.

2. I do not believe in attacking the new hams as they are not in control of the testing policy.

3. The way to get good hams is to elmer the newcomers in the necessary skills and show them how great it can be not drive them out with derogatory comments.

We can all do our part to create good hams.

Oh we will have Spike Jones and all the others but were adding a bunch, we will have over 3,000 songs on file...Were working on it as I type, I wish it was up and running right now...the 20 meter band is open....I heard some locals say they heard Japan and talk to a few guys in Germany.

Bully? Moi? Not so. If you oppose me, that is just fine, right? It is your

Get your disjointed thoughts together, Mark. You are contradicting yourself in essence.

"yes I am I have the cowardage of my convictions"

I like that..."cowardage"...neat word and one worth remembering.

Now, isn't it time to put your three-legged horse in the stall? You've gone above and beyond most folks' moral convictions by defending a purveyor of kiddie porn. You are a Hero, Mark. Roger could only hope to live up to your moral standards, such as they are.

but iif you do not want to be taken to task for attacking other epeople then the answer is simple stop attacking other people with your lies and bullshit. I fTood were a pruveyor of Kiddy porn your efforts would have him busted and in jail jail byt now that you have failed proves you have NO case you claim (or was that deloeron who may still be you) claim I am going to be busted off hughes net been pormising that for roughly a year now it doesn't happen

do you do the same thing and stop and rethink your actions? no you go right being a bully You attack Tood becuase sometimes you can provake into a reation you like to make fun of,,, that is the sole reason you attack you prod Roger because his response amusses you and you find watching him foama t the mouth amusing that makes one sick bastard whatever your name is leave roger alone leave Todd alone Id like you to leave me alone but if you want to fight fine bring it on, but if you make fighting with me YOUR choice don't blame me for the resulting mess in the NG

you want policy debate in the NG then post something on radio policy or at least on radio

Todd posts on Omega One are at least radio topics even if not exactly policy topics thereffore as a postive comtributor to the NG he deserves my support and will get it

I act defensively defending myself and others I have even often defended Roger although I frankly think he is beyond all real help beside giving the Noddle as the NAZI's called it and honest for Roger the noodle might well be an act of mercy

all persons have the right and moral duty of self defense, all person have to duty to protect those unfairly attacked to the extent they can you have never been unfairly attacked nor has Robeson or Roger or Hiel or anybody else, BY ME. no actiontion of mine has been anything but defensive.

nothing unclear about the the notion that defense is always a good thing , it gets a bit murky at time when it become clear the only defense is a good offense

no it is you that lack a coherant thought you attack someone for defending himself from anothers attack the first attack was unun warrented as was yours I defend him from attack that is what a moral person does when he come to a mugging

You are blathering again, Mark. Your "justification" for taking me and others to task is circuitous at best, confusing at worst.
Your line of thought is again wandering in circles Mark, and you are tripping over your mental shoelaces in the process.
You have no right to define that what is moral or not moral. Save that for alt.morons or the bisexual groups. Who are YOU to preach of morals?
Mugging? Who mentioned a "mugging"? That is your descriptor, Mark. I merely commented about Todd's addiction to cartoon kiddie porn. While YOU may think that what Todd does is fine, his addiction to same is viewed by 99% of us as being abhorrent and perverted. Like you, I have the "moral duty" to call it as I see it and I don't have Abraham or Isaac behind me.

DSL modems are notoriously noisy in the HF spectrum. Ditto for any 10/100 networking.

Noise from such sources is QRM (man-made), not QRN (natural, i.e. lightning or solar)

Well, hopefully it really won't matter too much. I personally hope they take your coveted HF bands for worldwide data communications, and outlaw HF ham radio altogether. You can then hook your key up to a buzzer and code yourself into the grave.

I have a 10/100 LAN in my home and no interference problems. I know plenty of other hams who've done likewise. Indeed, many of the big multioperator contest stations use Ethernet LANs to connect the various operating positions.

A very successful station here in the Nashville area has a DSL modem in his shack and no problems. (wish he could say the same for his electric power utility!)

I'm sure noisy networking equipment does exist but I wouldn't say it's a common problem.

> Noise from such sources is QRM (man-made), not QRN (natural, i.e. lightning
> or solar)

At least while I was coming up in ham radio:

QRM - interference from another radio transmitter
QRN - interference from something that isn't intended to transmit radio signals

These days the difference gets blurred a bit; if a piece of computer gear radiates a strong signal on 14.31818MHz, it's likely to sound like QRM, but since the gear isn't intended to transmit radio signals, is it actually QRN?

Does it really matter?

then you are clearly a fool or lier to bleive that

Indeed anybody is welcome to waste a bit more my local LE officers time (or rather drag em away form the local doughnut shop) with the wild and unsupported charges you like to make

I have comtribted a sense of justice and made hunderds of on topic posts. I havemade no mindless posts at all perhaps you are couting the posts of the forgers as mine they are not. I agree one can't come out with anything particular enlightening to say about the hunderds of forgeries made in my name or my wifes but that does not make them mindless

your total of on topic post is zero therefore my record is infinitly better than yours

* PLEASE NOTE: The report "could" contain "Pirate/SLIM" operations or more likely a "BUSTED CALLSIGN". As always, you never know - "Work First Worry Later" (WFWL).

3C0, ANNOBON ISLAND. Elmo, EA5BYP, is now active as 3C0M from the Island of Annobon (Pagalu) and will remain on the island for 15 days. Elmo will be on air on SSB (80-10m), RTTY (20-15m) and CW (only on 160m). QSL via EA5BYP. Please remember that this DXpedition is very costly for only one operator, and he is looking for help in funding his operation. Two Web pages are now active for this DXpedition. The Elmo's log will be available after his operation over at:

http://www.tabarca.es.mn
http://personal.telefonica.terra.es/web/ea5yn

4N8, SERBIA. Operator Dule, YU1EA, will be using the contest callsign 4N8A during the CQWW DX SSB Contest as a Single-Op/Single-Band (40m)/ High-Power entry. QSL via the QRZ.com address.

4O3, MONTENEGRO. Operators Toma/YU1AB and Emin/T91S will be active as 4O3AB and 4O3ES, respectively, between October 27th and November 3rd. Activity will be on CW, SSB and PSK. QSL via their home callsigns.

4X0, ISRAEL. For the second year in row, operators Burt/W3GG, Dov/4Z4DX, Meir/4X6KX and Mony/4X6ZK will be active as 4X0G in the CQWW DX CW Contest November 25-26th) as a Multi-Single entry. QSL via W3GG.

6Y1, JAMAICA. Operators David/KY1V and Kari/OH3RB will be active as 6Y1V in the CQWW DX CW Contest(November 25-26th) as a Multi-Single entry. QSL via OH3RB. David states that they are looking for operators. If interested, contact him ASAP at: david.kopacz@ky1v.com
He states, "This is a contesters dream station. Come and have fun with us!"

9H, MALTA (Cancelled!). Jo, DL5AUA, who was to be active as 9H3JC from the Island of Gozo (EU-023), October 23rd to November 2nd, had to cancel his trip due to a sudden death in the family. He hopes to go there next year.

DR1, GERMANY. Look for the German DF0CG Contest Station to participate again in the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi/Multi entry. However, this year they will be using their new callsign DR1A. They will also have a multi-national team consisting of: Stavos/5B4AFM, Peter/DB6JG, Jorg/DF6JC, Thomas/DH1NFL, Markus/DJ7EO, Wolfgang/DK1FW, Oliver/DL1EJA, Maik/DL2AA, Axel/DL5SDK, Ben/DL6FBL, Carsten/DL6LAU, Mike/DL8NCR, Thorsten/ DO1ET, Zoli/HA1AG and Jan/PA1TT. They are hoping to do better than in 2005 where they won 5th place in the World, 1st in Europe and 1st in Germany. Visit the DF0CG Web site at: http://www.df0cg.de/en/

E21, THAILAND (Update and More!). Champ, E21EIC, will be active in the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Op/Single-Band (20m)/ Low-Power entry. JA stations QSL via JR5XPG and all others via E21EIC.
ADDED NOTE: Champ informs OPDX readers to also look for the following Thai stations to be active in the CQWW DX SSB Contest:
E20PFE SOAB LP QSL via E20PFE
E20WXA SOSB 15M QSL via E20WXA
E21YDP SOSB 40M QSL via E21YDP
HS6MYW/1 SOAB LP QSL via HS6MYW
HS8KAY SOSB 20M QSL via HS8KAY
HS0AC M/S QSL via HS0ZFZ (See HS0 below)

EA8, CANARY ISLANDS. Operators Girt/YL2KL, Kaspars/YL1ZF, Arvis/YL2LY, Oleg/YL3DW and Gunars/YL2GD will be active as EA8EW during the CQWW DX CW Contest (November 25-26th) as a Multi-2 entry. QSL via YL2KL.

FM, MARTINIQUE. Mike, K9NW, will be active as FM/K9NW in the CQWW DX Phone Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Op/All-Band entry. He will be active on the island between October 25-30th. QSL via K9NW.

FY, FRENCH GUIANA. Operators Marc/F1HAR, Herve/F5HRY, Olivier/F5MZN, Gerard/F6FGZ, Laurent/F6FVY and Didier/FY5FY will be active as FY5KE (Zone 9) in the CQWW DX SSB Contest as a Multi-Single entry. QSL via the bureau or direct.

HI9, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC. Operators Udo/DL2AQI, Ingolf/DL4JS, Sigi/DL8AKI and Rich/DK8YY will be active as homecall/HI9 from October 21st to November 3rd. Activity will be on SSB, CW and Digital modes. They will also be active in the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as HI9L. QSL Manager for all these callsign go to DH7WW via the bureau or direct to: Ulrich Moeckel, Muldenstrasse 1, 08304 Schoenheide, Germany. He does not accept IRCs with expiry-date, 31st December 2006, as return postage!

HR, HONDURAS (Update). A team of Russian speaking hams from New York will be going here between October 22-30th. Operators mentioned are: Andrei/EW1AR/NP3D (team leader), Boris/UU5SY/N3SY, Alex/K2PAL (ex-UB5XAZ) and Joel/KB2PDW. The group will activate Tigre Island (NA-060) together with Javier/HR2J and other HR operators from October 22-25th. The callsign will be HQ4D. Andrei, EW1AR/NP3D, reports that for those who make the most QSOs, there will be special prizes like T-Shirts from Tigre Island that will be sent out. QSL via W3HNK. Activity will be on 80-6 meters, RTTY, CW and SSB. During the CQ WW DX SSB Contest they will be active and on as Single-Band entries.

HS0, THAILAND. Operators John/W2YR/HS0ZDJ, Winit/HS0CKC, Charly/K4VUD/HS0ZCW and Bob/KL7ENY/HS0ZCG will be active as HS0AC during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-Single entry. QSL via HS0ZFZ. John, W2YR, informs OPDX that due to restricted band allocations in Thailand, the 160 meter operations will be about 1.824 MHz and on 80 meters they will transmit about 3.539 MHz and listen up the band for contacts.

IOTA NEWS.....
AF-018. Operator Raffaele, IH9YMC, will be active from Pantelleria Island (Zone 33) during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Band entry (possibly 15 or 10 meters). QSL via direct.

AF-019. Operator Giuseppe, IV3ORM, will be active as IG9B from Lampedusa Island during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Single-Band entry (80m). QSL via operator's instructions.

AS-099. CORRECTION. Last week we mentioned that operators Milan/OK3AA and Josef/OK1XV would be active as TA0/homecall from Lale Island, October 20-25th. It was pointed out to us by Berkin, TA3J, that Lale Island is NOT an IOTA. He sends the following:

From: http://www.rsgbiota.org/members/searchref.php4?getref=as099
"(Note: not Alibey [], Gokceada) [ - In the Directory 2000 revision the following island/s were found not to qualify for the IOTA group shown. The Committee has decided to withdraw credits from members' records on 1 February 2005 for all contacts made with these islands. With regard to QSLs not yet submitted, the position is as follows: Credit will continue to be allowed up to 1 February 2005 for operations from the following islands that took place before 1 February 2001. ALIBEY ISLAND)" AND LALE ISLAND is connected to the Ayvalik mainland by road. It is not considered as an island like ALIBEY ISLAND.

AS-117. Operator JN4MBO was expected to be active as JN4MBO/4 from Kosagi Island (AS-117-020), JA4 Hiroshima Prefecture, October 19th. Activity was to be on the HF bands. QSL via his home callsign, direct or by the bureau.

J3, GRENADA. Harry, AC8G, informs OPDX that Grenada will have lots of activity from October 25-31st. The contest station J3A (QSL via WA1S) will be active as a Multi-Multi entry in the CQWW DX SSB Contest (Ootober 28-29th). Team members Diane/K2DO, George/N2GA, Tim/KU4J and Ulf/DL5AXX will use J3/homecall with Ann/WA1S and Harry/AC8G using J38AA and J37K, respectively, outside the contest. Bill, VE3EBN, will provide logistic support and will use J37LR outside the contest and be a separate Single-Op entry in the contest using J37T. Unless advised differently, QSL to their home callsigns. Outside of the contest, expect various other modes and operations on the WARC bands. The team has arranged for antenna and power improvements including assistance by Cushcraft in replacing of the 40 meter beam destroyed in the hurricane IVAN.

J48/SV8, GREECE (Contest/IOTA Op). A group of Hungarian operators will once again be active from Astris, Thassos Island (EU-174), Greece, between October 26th and November 8th. They plan to participate and be active as J48RT in the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-Single entry.
QSL via HA6NL. The group will also be active in the 33rd HA QRP Contest (see http://www.radiovilag.hu/haqrp2.htm) using the same callsign, but on 80 meters CW with only 7 watts output. Outside of the contests, the operators will use their home callsign on all bands, mainly on CW and SSB during the two week period. Operators and callsigns are as follows:
Gyuszi/HA2VR - SV8/HA2VR Al/HA7JJS - SV8/HA7JJS and J48JJ
Laci/HA6NL - SV8/HA6NL and J48NL Laci/HA7PL - SV8/HA7PL and J48PL
ZSolt/HA6PS - SV8/HA6PS and J48PS
QSL via operators home callsigns, by the bureau or via QRZ.COM addresses.

JERSEY SHORE DXPO! The Jersey Shore DXPO will take place November 11th in Manahawkin, NJ. Full details can be found at: http://www.sjdxa.org
They announced this week that YAESU is co-sponsoring the Jersey Shore DXPO by donating a new FT897D for the grand prize! Also, Yaesu's Dennis Motschenbacher, K7BV, will be in attendance and will have an FT-2000 on display! There will also be a nice assortment of presentations lined up for the event. TICKETS ARE STILL AVAILABLE!!!!!!!!

KH2, GUAM (Change). Look for Matsuda, JM3PIT, to be active December 20-22nd (not 22-26th). His callsign and bands of activity were still not provided. QSL via JM3PIT.

OA7, PERU. Arno, DL1CW, will be active as OA7/DL1CW from October 20-30th. He will travel throughout Peru and will operate four days from Puerto Maldonado, three days from Cuzco, and one day from Lake Titicaca. His activity will be on 80-10 meters CW using only 100 watts and a dipole. QSL via DL1CW, by the DARC Bureau only.

PACIFIC TOUR (Correction). Harry, RA3AUU, informs OPDX and its readers that he is sorry for providing the wrong dates for the team's operation. The schedule on the islands was reversed. V6 will be the first stop and KH0 will be the second one. So, look for operators Roman/RZ3AA, Andy/UA3AB and Harry/RA3AUU to be active from Mariana Islands and Micronesia during the first part of November. Their schedule is as follows:
November 5-9th - From V6 as V63RZ, V63UA and V63RQ.
November 10-16th - From KH0 as KH0/NP2KY, KH0/KB7YHQ and KH0/K3UY.
Their main target will be the low bands for Europe and North America. QSL via UA3DX.

PJ2, NETHERLANDS ANTILLES. Operator Jeff, K8ND, will be active as PJ2T from Signal Point, Curacao (SA-006, WLOTA LH-0942), in the ARRL 160 Meter Contest (December 1-3rd) as Single-Op/High-Power entry. Also, look for Jeff/K8ND and Jim/W8WTS to be active as PJ2T during the CQ 160-Meter CW Contest (January 27-28th) as a Multi-Op entry. QSL both operations via N9AG.

QSL INFO AND NEWS.....
HA506OI via HA6OI
PE2SWL no QSL
TF60IRA via TF3IRA

Scott, KA3QLF, informs OPDX that the QSLs for FP/WV2B are in, and that the direct requests received will be in the mail early next week. He states that he may contacted by E-mail if anyone has any questions. His E-mail is: petty@teisprint.net

XW1A QSL requests must be sent to E21EIC only. Don't send QSL requests to Laos.

SPECIAL EVENT. Members of the "Radio Officers Association" (ROASS) will air the special event callsign GB500KCS for three days starting November 2nd. Activity is to celebrate the centenary of the Berlin International Wireless Telegraphy Convention. The convention established 500 kHz as the maritime calling and distress frequency and SOS as the distress signal. The association is also using the special event to launch its campaign for 500 kHz to be recognised internationally as a heritage frequency. For more details about ROASS and the special event station, please visit the ROASS Web page at: http://www.anything-it.biz/roass/default.htm ADDED NOTE: The Italians will also air a special event station on November 2-4th. Look for IY1SP/500KCS to be active.

VK6, AUSTRALIA. A team from the Northern Corridor Radio Group will be active as VK6ANC from the club rooms just north of Perth (Zone 29) during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-2 entry. Activity will be on 80-10 meters. Operators mentioned are: John/VK6NU, Andrew/VK6ARA, Steve/VK6DXA, John/VK6HZ and possibly others.

VK9C, COCOS-KEELING ISLANDS. Just a reminder that Bernd, VK2IA, will be active as VK9AA from here this week (October 27-30th) and again between November 20-27th. Look for him to team up with David, VK2CZ and possibly others during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-Single entry. QSL via DL8YR.

VO2, CANADA (Zone 2). Ken, VO2MK, will be active from the southeast coast of Labrador in Zone 2 during the upcoming CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th). He will be operating from the Point Amour Lighthouse (CAN-665) during his stay. This will be a portable operation with antennas consisting of wires for 80-20 meters. He will also try 6 meters mobile if the band conditions exist during his stay in Labrador. QSL via his home callsign VO1KVT.

VP9,BERMUDA. Kurt, W6PH, will be active as VP9/W6PH again for the 2007 ARRL DX CW Contest (February 17-18th) and ARRL DX Phone Contest (March 3-4th). Operating class was not provided. QSL direct to his home callsign W6PH.

VU7, LAKSHADWEEP ISLANDS (Update and News).....
* Members of the Amateur Radio Society of India (ARSI) have announced that the VU7LD DXpedition team will be active during the entire month of December. Members of ARSI will be active from Kavaratti Island during this period. An all Indian operator team will be operational on all bands, including the low and WARC bands, and on all modes - SSB, CW and Digital. This will give the amateur radio operators around the world their first chance to work this rare entity after so many years. They also plan to have 8 stations on the air at the start of their operation. However, the ARSI is looking for support and funds. A Web site is now available online with details on how to show your support, up-to-date press releases, list of operators and online logs (when available), at: http://www.arsi.info/vu7/index.html
Remember to QSL this operation via W3HNK.

* The National Institute of Amateur Radio (NIAR) plans to organize an International Hamfest with approximately 50 multi-national and Indian operators to activate VU7RG from the Laksheedweep Islands group. The activity will take place between December 1-10th from at least three different islands. Islands mentioned are: Agatti, Bangaram and Kadmat. There will be three reliable QSL Managers from each ITU Region:
Region 1 - The German DX Foundation (GDXF)
Region 2 - Bob Schenck, N2OO
Region 3 - The I-House Radio Club
The NIAR is also look for support. More details about this operation, hamfest, announced operators and how to support/donate to this operation are available on the VU7RG NIAR Web page at: http://www.vu7.in/

WP4, PUERTO RICO. Members of the "Trujillo Alto Contest Club WP4WW", will operate as WP4BH during this CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-Multi entry. Operators mentioned are: Tomas/WP4BH, Nestor/WP4BL and Jose/KP4JRS. QSL via WP4BH direct, by the Bureau and LoTW.

XF4, REVILLAGIGEDO. The German-Mexican Team are now active as XF4DL from Socorro Island until November 3rd. Activity and their arrival was delayed for about 24 hours this past week due to tropical storms. QSL via N6AWD for North-America, and DL9NDS for the rest of the world. Visit their Web page at: http://www.xf4dl.xedx.org/ADDED NOTE BEFORE GOING TO PRINT: Word has it that Tropical Storm PAUL may come very close to the island in the next 24 hours. Visit NOAA Web page at:
http://www.nhc.noaa.gov/refresh/graphics_ep2+shtml/110226.shtml?tswind120

XU, CAMBODIA. Champ, E21EIC, informs OPDX that a Thai group will be in XU for DXpedition and CQ WW CW Contest. They are waiting for XU7xxx callsigns. Details are forthcoming.

YE0, INDONESIA. Operators Wisnu/YB0AZ, Suryadi/YB0JS, Dudy/YB0DPO, Pri/YB0ECT, Adyatma/YB0GOF, Karsono/YB0NDT and Yadi/YB0YAD from Jakarta will be active as YE0X during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-Single entry. QSL via YB0ZZ.

YT6, MONTENEGRO. Luc, ON4IA, informs OPDX that he will be at YT6A's contest location in Montenegro again from October 23-31st. He will enter the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th), probably as a Single-Op/Single-Band entry. He informs OPDX that he is not sure which band yet but he hopes to be active on 80 and/or 160 meters before and after the contest. He also mentions that YT6A has finished installing his 2 element yagi for 80 meters, so Luc will be looking forward to his stay.

ZL8, KERMADEC ISLANDS. A ZL8R press release was sent out on October 20th. OPDX InterNet Subscribers will receive the complete press release as an additional bulletin. In short, the press release states that the Microlite Penguins Dxpedition to Raoul Island in the Kermadecs went QRT at 2200 UTC on October 17th with over 40,000 QSOs in the log. Operators were EI6FR, HB9ASZ, K9ZO, N0TT, N6MZ, VK6DXI, W7EW and 9V1YC. Total on-air operating time was just over 7 days. Landing on Raoul Island involves a rather dangerous jump from a zodiac onto a rock face, but thankfully the seas were cooperative and none of the team slipped or was injured in the process. Transceivers consisted of six, brand new Icom IC-7000's kindly sponsored by Icom America, and antennas were all simple wire dipoles strung up in the surrounding pine trees. Given the weak worldwide propagation at this point in the solar cycle, they still made every effort to work as many European stations as possible. The final ZL8R QSO statistics are: North America 39%, South America 1%, Europe 26%, Asia 30%, Africa 1% and Oceania 3%. Most of the QSOs were on 40m (15%), 30m (13%), 20m (22%), 17m (13%) and 15m (20%). PLEASE NOTE! Almost all of the expenses for this trip were paid by the team members themselves. But given the extraordinary expense it takes to charter a ship to a remote island in the Pacific for two weeks, they hope that each and every DXer will help contribute to this endeavor, either by donations with your QSL cards to their QSL Manager VE3XN, or by joining the NCDXF - the Northern California DX Foundation.

ZS9, SOUTH AFRICA. Members of the Bloemfontein Defence Amateur Radio Club will use the callsign ZS9X during the CQWW DX SSB Contest (October 28-29th) as a Multi-Operator entry. Operators will be John/ZS4S, Barney/ZS4U, Bernie/ZS4TX, Jan/ZS4JAN, Edwin/ZS5BBO and Dennis/ZS4BS, members of the full-time and Reserve Force of the SANDF. The ZS9X station is situated approximately 20 km west of Bloemfontein on a hill overlooking a military training area. The station has an impressive antenna system comprising of three Log Periodic antennas covering 3 - 30 MHz fixed in northwest, a north and a northeast directions to be used mainly on 80-40 meters.
Each Log Periodic has 30 elements and occupies about an acre of ground.
They will use a rotatable Optibeam OB17/4, at a height of 20m (approx 60 ft), covering 40-10 meters; one 5 element 10 meter monobander up at a height of 30m (approx 100 ft) fixed north; and one 5 element 15 meter monobander up at a height of 20m (approx 60 ft) fixed north. In addition, there will be one HF Discone antenna mounted on a 40m mast covering 1.5 - 30 MHz, which will be used mainly on 160 meters and two shunt loaded towers for use on 80 and 160 meters. The equipment is a mixture of Yaesu and Icom transceivers with valve type amplifiers. QSL information is available on QRZ.com. Pictures, a web site and more information will be added as the station progresses.

If they were too lazy to learn the code, then they probably weren't really all that interested in building other radio's skills either. If they were, they'd learn code so they could do it.

It's a harder to raise standards afterwards to correct the problems it caused. We can't risk dumbing things down anymore. If Mark in the Dark can get a license, we've dumbed things down too far already.

Mark in the Dark.

He can keep building his code skills to make himself a better operator.

Why does everyone only want to do the minimum and not improve. It's because they're lazy. They don't care to be good communicators, all they want is a hand-out license that doesn't require skill or knowledge. If that's what they want they should have stayed on CB.

By the way, I've never referred to any person as being a lesser or lower class than another. He is unable to differentiate between personal descriptions and regulatory use of terms such as Technicians being a lower class of LICENSE than Generals. He seems to think references of regulatory distinctions are the same as referring to persons.

A man was walking home alone late one foggy night,
when behind him he hears:

BUMP...

BUMP...

BUMP...

Walking faster, he looks back and through the fog he makes out the image of an upright casket banging its way down the middle of the street toward him.

BUMP...

BUMP...

BUMP...

Terrified, the man begins to run toward his home, the casket bouncing quickly behind him

FASTER...

BUMP...

BUMP...

BUMP...

He runs up to his door, fumbles with his keys, opens the door, rushes in, slams and locks the door behind him.

However, the casket crashes through his door, with the lid of the casket clapping

clappity-BUMP...

clappity-BUMP...

clappity-BUMP...

on his heels, the terrified man runs.

Rushing upstairs to the bathroom, the man locks himself in. His heart is pounding; his head is reeling; his breath is coming in sobbing gasps.

With a loud CRASH the casket breaks down the door.

Bumping and clapping toward him.

The man screams and reaches for something, anything, but all he can find is a bottle of cough syrup!

Desperate, he throws the cough syrup at the casket...

WAIT FOR IT!!!!

The coffin stops

But they are a lesser class, Mark in the Dark. The more exams you take and pass, the harder you work, the farther up the ladder you go.

The problem you have Mark, is that you're so lazy people have to slap your silly ass off the ladder so they can climb up. You're against having good hams.

No more automatic renewals. Individuals must retest and pass all elements required for their license class.

The passing score for written exams needs to be raised to 85%.

Code elements should be 13 wpm for General, and 20 wpm for Extra.

Make the no-code license one year non-renewable.

Thanks for your help.

I'd ban Mark in the Dark from posting in RRAP too.

Basically, I would ban posting privledges of everyone who's either lazy, retarded, or both. That means many of you would have to go back to CB to stay in touch with each other. If you hate CW you're banned for life.

I would let 20 wpm Extras do anything they want in RRAP. They earned it.

Nahhhh...not possible. Besides, it's not his fault. Never is. QRZ is simply biased toward no-coders. Everybody knows that, right?
So what that Markie called a few good Hams "liers" and was given his walking papers? So?
I rather think it is funny.

Now Mark is whining like a petulant little girl.

He could call it Mark in the Dark's lazy-ass ham forum for lard-ass tards.
I can propably name about five RRAP'ers that would sign right up. Some of them havent got their no-code callsigns yet, but they can still visit with others like themselves on Markies board.

They can talk about hating code and other things only they can understand.

As you can see, he is unable to separate license classes from people. I referred only to the licenses not the people. He seems to think that a definition of the license is also a definition of the person. That is absolutely inane. Afterall most of us, including myself, hold a standard driver's license. It is a lower class license than a chauffer's license, CDL B, or CDL A. None of us are "insulted" by the fact the we hold a lower class license.

My dad likes to listen to BBC broadcasts on his old sw radio...but it has died. Looking to buy him one for xmas but I have no idea what to look for. If you were in my shoes what would you be looking for? I guess it will be in the under $200 range but of course cheaper is better for the budget. He's just an occassional listener...not a die hard by any means! I've seen some posts suggesting the dx-440? Any help will be appreciated!

Not having to take a test doesn't mean you can't operate code; or did you misread the regs?

Again, the pro-coders only equate code speed with being a good operator. Amateur radio has only a single dimension for them - CW on HF. Their attitude is bankrupting amateur radio.

I have helped cut wood for winter heating. I have also foraged for berries, actually Granny knew where to look and took me along to help pick berries. I have never hand cranked a model T, but have watched others do it (was tied up with winter wood cutting, the "T" drove a belt with a rear axle wheel to drive a large circular saw) I never did any of the other things listed, but if Granny were still here, I'd bet she has and could describe the process. Except the spear hunting, that was before Grannys time and on the other side of the family.

you may be right But honestly I don't think so I beleive that SC is a older hams who moved to some retirement village, did not read the fine print, and so can't go on the air anymore and having put his saving in it is just plain screwed andf unable to move and not driving much can't go HF mobile even

and he come on here and takes it out on us

The late Dick Carrol/W0EX prided himself on being able to send code so poorly that even a computer code reader couldn't copy him. This was in order to prevent unworthy No-Code Technicians from eavesdropping on him.

BTW, all the other Pro-Code Extras were good with it, coming up with cool, old-timey sounding excuses for such bad behavoir. "Banana Boat Swing" and "unique fist" were heard. A ham needn't try to produce CW that meets the Morse Code specification for dots, dashes, inter-dot/dash spacing, inter-character spacing, and inter-word spacing.

I gave them permission ten years ago. Now run along to the CB group and take Mark in the Dark with you.

Improving your skills doesn't make you a better operator? Sheeesh.

You can still have your microphone, but you should have to pass a code test before you're allowed to use it. I like 5 WPM for Tech, 13 for General, and 20wpm for Extra, but then, I'm not lazy.

That was plain stupid. There's no need to try to send deliberately bad code. Only the finest operators can send code well enough with a hand key that a computer can copy it anyway. Only exceptionally good operators can send well enough with a bug that a computer can copy it. Only very good operators can send well enough with paddles that computers can copy it.
Basically a computer is good at copying computer generated code.

The "Banana Boat Swing" and "unique fist" existed long, long before computers came along. These were simply operators with poor sending skills.
And they are a pain in the ear and brain to copy. I usually move on rather than respond to them.

I have to admit the best blow job I ever got was from slow code. He took his time, very slow. He got on his knees, dropped my pants and took my large uncut cock in his mouth. I exploded within 10 minutes. SC drank every ounce. I'm sorry SC, but I had to tell. I just have one question: what was all the humming of dashes and dots about while you had my member in your mouth?

If this is for real, you are plain nuts.

6.950 is not an ISM/HiFER allocation in the US. Even a Canda ISM s
6.765-6.795.

Canadian RSS-210 rules, Section 6.2.2 (e) permit operation in the same band but at slightly higher field strength, 15.5 mV/m at 30 m. Their frequency stability requirements are similar. Canada also has another license-free HF band not available in the USA; 6,765 - 6,795 kHz. Field strength and frequency limits are the same as those for 13,553 -13,567 kHz.

Area man charged with bestiality
Tuesday, October 24, 2006
(Story borrowed for "educational" purposes of course....)

A 44-year-old Saginaw man remains jailed today on charges of bestiality after he was seen engaged in sexual acts with a dead dog, Michigan State Police troopers said.

Ronald Kuch was arrested after police searched the area of Midland and Carter roads Friday for a man who ran away from a Bay County Animal Control officer. The entire incident was within view of a nearby day care center. At his arraignment on Monday, Kuch demanded a preliminary examination in Bay County District Court. District Judge Craig Alston ordered him to remain jailed in lieu of $500,000 bond pending a hearing on the evidence Nov. 6.Kuch is charged with crimes against nature and assaulting a law enforcement officer.

Troopers said a woman from the day care center called for animal control because there was a dead dog near the property that had been hit by a car several days earlier.Before officers could arrive, the man showed up and began engaging in sexual acts with the dog, police said. The animal control officer also reported seeing Kuch involved in the sex act and as he approached him, Kuch shoved him away and ran off.State troopers searched the area and found the man hiding in the attic of a nearby house.

Officers determined that the house belonged to the man's girlfriend and later learned that the dog, a black Labrador retriever, also belonged to the girlfriend. The dog had been dead for four or five days.

The official charge of crimes against nature carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison. If the person is a repeat offender, the maximum is life in prison.

Lemme guess...our "hero" above was one of the old checkin's to the militia net that used to meet on 3.860 years ago..? GLEEEEEPP!!

A second back of the envelope calculation says you are way over the legal field strength in this case too. As I said before, you can calculate the power it takes for an isotropic radiator to produce a field strength of 100E-6 volts/meter at a distance of of three meters as follows:

1. The area of a sphere of radius r is 4*Pi*r^2. An isotropic radiator emitting P watts at the center of the sphere will produce a power density of Pd = P / (4*Pi*r^2) on its surface.

2. The power density is related to the electric field and the impedance of free space (120*Pi) by the formula Pd = e^2 / (120*Pi).

3. Solving (1) and (2) for the power, P, you come up with P = (er)^2 / 30.

So, for an "e" of 100E-6 and an "r" of 3, P = 0.01732 watts, or roughly seventeen milliwatts.

Since antennas are not isotropic, the power must be reduced even further so that the electric field will not exceed the legal limit in the direction of highest antenna gain.

This calculation ignores line losses and final amplifier inefficiencies, but there's no way you can convince me that you can take a 50 watt transmitter and manage to lose so much power that you have seventeen milliwatts or less being radiated.

All my DeVry Correspondence School instincts once again tell me that you are seriously in violation of the law. Other DeVry grads at the FCC will probably agree, as will our distinguished but indisposed alumnus, AB8MQ, the only man to have discovered negative VSWR.

Correction: I accidentally took the square root instead of squaring the product of e*r. The correct value should be 0.003 microwatts for an isotropic radiator to produce a 100 microvolt/meter field at three meters! That's three thousandths of a microwatt, Todd.

Now tell me that 50 to 100 watts isn't way too much power ...

I've tried CWGet and it doesn't copy the signals that I want to copy. It still is subject to problems with QRN, QRM, QSB, and less than perfect fists. It can't copy any of the signals distorted by aurora. So while it is the best of the available programs, it still falls far short of a good human operator. And I'm speaking from experience with the program. It's not up to the task that I want it to do.

Already tried it. As I said while it is the best that is available, it is still far below the capabilities of a human operator. I've tried it under a wide range of conditions and CWGet still needs a pretty good signal to function.

RFID excitation frequency?
100uV at 3M, ~9'?

Get real, my LOs leak that much.

Your 50W to 100W is so illegal you are plain silly.

That ramps down to less then 1uV at 100M, which is way below the noise floor at an location I am familiar with.

I see that you are a general class:
"Callsign: N9OGL Class: General Codes: HAI USA
Name: TODD E DAxxxxxxx
Effective: 24 Jan 2002 Expires: 11 Feb 2012

Any general class ham is so clueless as to be a clear luser.

I am only sorry I wasted time and bandwidth reading your posts.

100uV at 3M, that is too sad to even be funny.

Congratulations, you are the 2nd or 3rd person I have killfiled.
You have worked very hard to earn this coveted position.

I wanted a nickname that would help me connect with no-code hams and nickle upgrades on usenet.

I had two really good nicks in mind, but I couldn't decide which one use, so I flipped a coin. It was either going to be 'Slow Code' or 'Hey Stupid'.

I'll probably have to switch to 'Hey Stupid' after code goes away.

Gay bashing is allowed here.

The only freak in RRAP that will protest gay bashing is Mark in the Dark, but that's okay because he never passed a CW test. Let him whine.

Hi Harold,
My point is, times change, peoples change, and if you want to cut wood, pick berries, crank a model T, or spear hunt,
Have at it, but your not out telling everybody they need to.

Nope, you sure didn't. It's not in the archives.

Unrelated to my comments.

No one has said all CW signals are good. If they were always good, CWGet would always work, which it doesn't. The ones who tout the software solution are those who wish that it would always work.

In addition, I have repeatedly stated that each and every mode has its advantages and disadvantages. The extremists on each side don't want to hear that.

KH8S, SWAINS ISLAND (Update). An international team of twelve experienced operators lead by Hrane Milosevic, YT1AD, and co-lead by David Collingham, K3LP, will activate Swains Island, April 3-16th, 2007, using the callsign N8S (November Eight Sugar). Hrane and David have been in direct contact with Larry Gandy, AH8LG, to gain a clear understanding of the island's requirements for permission to operate. The Swains Island permission to operate was confirmed via E-mail from Larry Gandy on October 23rd. Their team has reached an agreement that meets the specified Swain Island requirements. The N8S DXpedition team includes: Hrane/YT1AD, David/K3LP, Krassimir/K1LZ, Kamal/N3KS, Doug/N6TQS, Eugene/RK3AD, Harry/RA3AUU, Vangelis/SV2BFN, Andrew/UA3AB, Roman/RZ3AA, Stevan/YZ7AA and Vel/YZ1BX. The team will depart to Swains Island on the morning of Monday, April 2, 2007. The boat ride from American Samoa will take approximately 24 hours with the team arriving and setting up camps on Tuesday, April 3, 2007. The operation will begin late Tuesday, April 3, 2007, and will end late Monday, April 16, 2007, providing 14 days of active operation. There will be a CW Camp, SSB Camp and Digital/6 Meter Camp each supplied with three ICOM radios, ACOM amplifiers and required antennas. The team will depart Swains Island around noon on Tuesday, April 17, 2007, and arrive back in American Samoa on the morning of Wednesday, April 18, 2007. The QSL Manager and Web site information will be provided at a later date. At this time there is no plan for daily on-line logging. The logs will be posted on-line after April 27, 2007.

PACIFIC TRIP. Hrane, YT1AD, informs OPDX that he will be making a couple of stops in the Pacific during the first part of the new year. Look for him to be active as KH8/N9YU from American Samoa between January 24-29th. Also, look for him to be active as 3D2AD from Fiji between January 30th and February 3rd. QSL via YT1AD.

PJ4, NETHERLANDS ANTILLES. Bob, K0NR, will be active as PJ4/K0NR from Bonaire (IOTA SA-006) from October 28th to November 9th. Activity will be on SSB and PSK31 on 30-6 meters. Also, he will be active on FM OSCAR satellites (Grid FK52). QSL to his home callsign.

You would like to think that, but without efforts from folks like Carl, Bill, Len, hans, myself and others, you would still be repeating such myths, and would never make statements such as "Not all CW signals are good."

You can thank us, but that's probably not very likely.

And they aren't.

And those who dismiss the software solution think all amateur operators are superb morsemen.

Because of the efforts made to dismiss countless Morse Myths over the years, you were just now able to state that not all CW signals are good without 1x2 PCTAs pooh poohing such talk.

Dees coming around in her own way, but the brainwashing that she's undergone is strong. Perhaps in another decade... if there's still an amateur radio. If only she had been able to think spontaneously and resist, the brainwashing wouldn't have been so well received.

Based on actually trying it. I did not form an opinion on it until I gave it a thorough workout. And if the conditions are good enough and they are going too fast for me, I'll use it to help out. But there's a lot of times it simply doesn't do the job.

Correction: almost any operator who works code on a semi-regular basis. My code skills are very modest. Typically I am comfortable at 13wpm to 15wpm.
Higher than that is a real strain. Still I often copy better than the computer despite that.

No I would not be repeating that myth because I never, ever said that all CW signals are good and never subscribed to that philosophy. If they were the machines would always work and they don't. The other half of the coin is that some of the anti-code types persist in the myth that "Code can always be copied by computer". Neither myth is true.

I've always maintained that every mode has its advantages and disadvantages. A good ham attempts to be conversant with those abilities. However the extremists on both sides don't want to hear that.

> You can thank us, but that's probably not very likely.

Nope because you are ascribing things to me that are not true. Nobody has changed my opinions as stated in the above paragraphs. You make the mistake of lumping everyone who favors code into one group. That is no more accurate than lumping the anti-code people all in one group.

I do not dismiss the software but am realistic to know that it is not the panacea that some would like to believe. Sometimes it works and sometimes it fails.

Depends on the conditions. One can construct scenarios where whatever mode they favor is the "best". Any one striving to be a knowledgeable ham should be converstant with those scenarios. If you need an image, SST or fax are far better modes than CW. The "best" mode depends on the purpose of the communication and the conditions under which that communication must be sent.

You are exaggerating. None have stated all CW signals are good. What they have contended is that it is possible to copy a poor CW signal under conditions where you could not copy other types of signals.

Back just before 5 wpm code went into effect, a bunch of hams upgraded just so they could say their license wasn't a welfare license. Heee Heee.

I wonder if no-codes will make a mad rush to pass the code element this time just so they can say they're a Code tested ham, or are welfare license more acceptable these days?

5wpm ain't really learning it. I can fart 5 wpm.

Lets kick the requirement up there to between 13 and 20 wpm for all classes. And no-codes that haven't passed it after a year get booted which will help clean up the repeaters.

He was pro-code but he wasn't trollish like me or WA8ULX were.

I believe in CW, but I'm not as Ruthless as I sound. I love to toss out things and then listen to everyone gasp. ROFL. I know, I know, it's sadistic...

but it's fun, and maybe some will see and figure out the point of it.

Wheeew! Thank god you expelled most of your gas in your last post you didn't have a lot left over for this one.

No Len. Most RRAPers aren't pro-CW, but you think they're pro code because they're willing to learn it for a license.

Larry, Dee and Me are the only pro 'Keep the code test' people in the group anymore.

You are mistaken. I've always been one to think spontaneously. Since I have personally experienced conditions where it had to be CW or turn off the radio, I advocate all hams knowing code at a basic level. To insure that they do learn it at a basic level, testing at some point in the licensing is appropriate. Before entering these news I'd never heard much discussion either way on code. My opinions on its usefulness and desireability were formed based entirely on actual operating experience. I was surprised to learn that there was a big discussion on it in the amateur community.

I do NOT and never have believed in the arguments about "keeping out the riffraff", maintaining tradition, or the "I had to so you should to".

It's basic knowledge, pure and simple. Most of the people I know don't use any of the theory either but it is part of the basic knowledge set. I've used ohm's law only a couple of times in the 14 years I've been licensed. I've used the dipole equation half a dozen times. I've never used smith charts. One could get by without the theory but having learned it, I can choose where I want to focus my attention in amateur ration.

Indeed! And Roger Wiseman is certainly no slouch when it comes to cyber stalking, either. Look, for example, at the snail mails he has sent and phone calls he has made to Todd, to Mark Foley and others. And Roger reached the lowest of low when he posted "advertisements" for kiddie porn over the
